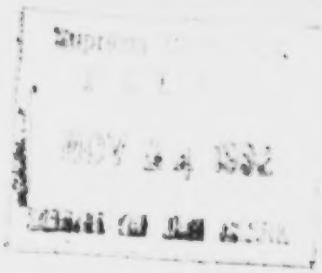
92-1364



NO.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

October Term, 1992

DAVID CASSIDY AND RAY HASSLER

Petitioners,

v.

WESTERN SYSTEMS, INC. AND
LEE M. HOLMES,

Respondents.

PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI
TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS
FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI

Robert J. Torres, Esquire
410 West O'Brien Drive
Agana, Guam 96910
(671) 477-0000

240 pp

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether the re-litigation exception to the Anti-Injunction Act (28 U.S.C.§ 2283) is limited to claims or issues which were actually decided by the federal court, as stated in Chick Kam Choo, 486 U.S. 140, 148, or does the exception also apply to matters which could have been raised in support of a cause of action previously litigated.

2. Whether the Court below incorrectly applied the doctrine of res judicata and the relitigation exception of the Anti-Injunction Act in violation of the petitioners' Fifth Amendment right to Due Process, and the First Amendment right to petition the Courts for redress.

3. Whether the Court below had jurisdiction to impose sanctions on the parties when they originally brought suit in the Superior Court of Guam, and whether the Court below abused its discretion by imposing said sanctions.

INDEX

Opinions below 1

Jurisdiction 1

Questions presented i

Statutes involved 2

Statement of the case 3

Reasons for Granting the writ . . 10

I. The Decision Below Conflicts With the Decision of this Court and other Courts of Appeals as to the proper interpretation of 28 U.S.C. § 2283 10

II. The Courts below incorrectly applied the doctrine of res judicata thus violating the petitioners' right to Due Process and right to Access to the Courts. 14

INDEX TO APPENDIX

Memorandum, Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, Case No. 90-16524 . . 1A

Order denying Petitioner for rehearing, and rehearing en banc 9A

District Court Decision
Oct. 4, 1990 . . . . . 1B

Complaint 24-72 . . . . . 24B

Complaint 197-72 . . . . . 30B

May 21, 1971 agreement . . 41,45B

July 20, 1971 agreement . . 54B

August 4, 1971 agreement . . 59B

Opinion 24-72, Feb.1972 . . 73B

Judgment NOV,Order, 197-72 . 119B

Complaint 250-80 . . . . . 135B

Decision and Order 250-80 . 147B

Special Proceedings 52-89 .159,163B

Complaint 216-90 . . . . . 166B

Letter, July 26, 1989 . . . 180B

CITATIONS

Cases:

Atlantic Coastline R.Co. v. Locomotive Engineers, 398 U.S. 281 (1970 ... 11,12

American Town Center v. Hall 83 Assoc. 912 F.2d 104 (6th Cir. 1990) . . 12

Bolte v. AITS, Inc., Haw. 587 P.2d 810 (1978) 27,28

Blonder-Tongue v. University Foundation, 402 U.S. 313 (1971) 17

California Motor Transp.Co. v. Trucking Unltd., 404 U.S. 508 (1972) 17

Carlson v. Green, 446 U.S. 14 (1980) 34

Chambers v. Nasco,Inc., 111 S.Ct.2123 (1991) . . . 35

Chick Kam Choo v. Exxon,
486 U.S. 140 (1988) . . 10,11,12,14
Cosme v. Sea Containers Ltd.,
874 F.2d 66 (1st. Cir. 1989) . . 13
Farias v. Bexar County Bd of Trustees,
925 F.2d 866 (5th Cir.) cert.denied
__ U.S. __ ,112 S.Ct. 193 (1991). 12
Gaspar v. Flott, 307 N.W.2d 500
(1981) 23
Gonzalves v. Bank of America NT&SA,
16 Cal.2d 169 (1940) 32
Guam v. Yang, 850 F.2d 507
(9th Cir. 1988)(en banc) 11
In re G.S.F. Corp., 938 F.2d 1467
(1st Cir. 1991) 12
Jozovich v. Central Cal. Berry Growers
Assn., 183 Cal.App.2d 216 (1960). 26
Lawlor v. National Screen Service Corp.
349 U.S. 322 (1955) 21
LCS Serv. v. Hamrick, 925 F.2d 745

(4th Cir. 1991) 12

Nakash v. Superior Court,

196 Cal.App.3d 59 (1987) . . .15,16,19

Nevada v. United States,

463 U.S. 110 (1982) . . . 13,15,16,19

Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co. v. Burke,

897 F.2d 734 (4th Cir. 1990) . . .12

Prime Management Co. v. Steinegger,

904 F.2d 811 (2nd Cir.1990) 20

Sobelman v. Maier, 203 Cal.1 (1927)

. 26

Soranno's Gasco Inc. v. Morgan,

874 F.2d 1310 (9th Cir. 1989) . . .17

Speigel v. Continental Illinois Nat. Bank,

790 F.2d 638 (7th Cir.1986). . 21,32

Staffer v Bouchard Transp. Co.,

878 F.2d 638 (2nd Cir. 1989) . . 12,13

Western Systems, Inc. v. Ulloa,

958 F.2d 864 (9th Cir. 1992) . 8,13,14

Western Systems Inc. v. Cassidy

No. 90-16524 (1992) 14

Zinermon v. Burch, 494 U.S. 113 (1989) 16

MISCELLANEOUS:

Fletcher, Cyclopedia of Private Corporations, Vol II, 1986 27

Restatement of the Law, Second, Judgments

§ 13 32

§ 24(2) 24

§ 26 28

Wright & Miller, Federal Practice and Procedure, Vol.18, 1986 30

The petitioners David Cassidy and Ray Hassler respectfully pray that a writ of certiorari issue to review the judgments and opinions of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and the District Court of Guam.

OPINIONS BELOW

The opinions of the Court of Appeals and the District Court appear in the Appendix hereto; the opinion in the Ulloa matter is reported at 958 F.2d 864 (9th Cir. 1992).

JURISDICTION

The judgment of the Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit was entered on March 30, 1992. A timely petition for rehearing en banc was denied on August 26, 1992, and this petition for certiorari was filed within ninety (90) days of that date. This Court's jurisdiction is invoked under 28 U.S.C. § 1254(1).

STATUTES INVOLVED

28 U.S.C. § 2283 provides that "[a] Court of the United States may not grant an injunction to stay proceedings in a State Court except as expressly authorized by Act of Congress, or where necessary in aid of its jurisdiction or to protect or effectuate its judgments." The Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution provides in part that "[n]o person shall...be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law...". U.S.C. Amendment V. The First Amendment of the United States Constitution provides in part that "Congress shall make no law... abridging...the right of the people...to petition the Government for a redress of grievances...". U.S.C. Amendment I.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This case concerns four different law suits arising from the establishment of Marianas Communications System ("MCS"), commonly known as Guam Cable TV.

On February 28, 1972, the original shareholders of MCS filed Case No. 24-72 against the Guam Economic Development Authority ("GEDA"), and Lee M. Holmes. David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa and Richard Cruz were among the original shareholders who brought suit. The complaint sought to impose a constructive trust on the defendants, requested an accounting, and that the defendant Lee Holmes transfer 21,000 shares to the plaintiffs, based upon the May 21, 1971 shareholder agreement.

On November 28, 1972, GEDA and Lee M. Holmes filed suit against the former shareholders of MCS in Civil Case Number 197-72. The complaint alleged that the warranties and representations of the former shareholders were not true, and that the corporation was not in good standing under the laws of the Territory of Guam in that the shares had not been validly paid for and issued.

In case no. 24-72, the Court held that (1) the July 20, 1971 agreement was valid; (2) the right of first refusal was collective; (3) acceptance of the benefits by paying for the shares under the July 20, 1971 agreement "forestalls complaint"; and (4) equitable considerations barred the plaintiffs from imposing a constructive trust on the defendants.

In case no. 197-72, a jury rendered a verdict in favor of the original shareholders on October 5, 1977. The District Court however, held for the plaintiffs GEDA and Holmes by Judgment N.O.V. stating that the original shareholders owed the unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock. The Court ordered that the plaintiffs recover from the defendants, those amounts owed for said unpaid subscriptions, plus costs and charges. Nowhere in the opinion did the Court state that the original shareholders' rights were forfeited under the August 4, 1971 agreement, due to the failure to pay the unpaid subscriptions. The opinion and order was rendered in November of 1977.

In 1980, petitioners herein filed case no. 250-80 against Lee Holmes, and Western Systems, as assignees to some of the shares owned by Richard Cruz. The suit was essentially one for the specific performance of paragraph 2 of the August 4, 1971 agreement. The Superior Court of Guam held in a preliminary motion that the plaintiffs failed to introduce evidence which would rebut the inference that the breach could be remedied by pecuniary compensation. The Court allowed the plaintiffs to plead the inadequacy of a remedy at law by amending the complaint. Petitioners' previous counsel failed to remedy the defect, and the case was dismissed for failure to prosecute. The defendants in 250-80 (respondents here) did not move for an injunction in federal court to bar the suit in 250-80, nor was the re-litigation exception under 28 U.S.C. § 2283 ever raised.

On March 15, 1989, the Superior Court of Guam judicially confirmed and ratified the sale of 855 shares of stock sold by Richard Cruz as trustee for Kristina Billett Cruz to Ray Hassler and David Cassidy in special proceeding 52-89.

These shares were validly paid for by Richard Cruz for his daughter, said shares having been issued on October 20th 1977, after the litigation in 24-72 was terminated and after a verdict in 197-72 was reached by a jury. On July 6, 1989, the respondents, in a letter from counsel, refused to honor the judicial confirmation. See Appendix.

In December of 1989, David and Richard Ulloa filed a complaint for declaratory relief in the Superior Court of Guam, and a complaint for damages. On February 28, 1990, the petitioners herein filed a complaint for damages against the respondents. Among the allegations were that "[t]he plaintiffs are valid shareholders and valid assignees of shares which have been assigned to them, with all the rights attached to said shares". Paragraph 1 of the complaint.

The plaintiffs also alleged that the "Defendants have not transferred shares due plaintiffs under this court's Special Proceeding number 0052-89." Paragraph 4 of the complaint.

The respondents filed a petition for injunction in the Ulloa matter on March 1, 1990. A hearing on the matter was scheduled for April 3, 1990 on the Ulloa matter. The District Court of Guam filed its notice of ruling on May 11, 1990 granting the respondent's petition for injunction. Western Systems Inc., et al. v. Richard F. Ulloa, et al. 958 F.2d 864 (9th Cir. 1992) appeal pending. Counsel for the Ulloas did not receive the notice of ruling and order until counsel for the respondents served notice of the entry of permanent injunction on May 30, 1990. This fact is important with respect to the Cassidy and Hassler complaint in that counsel for Cassidy and Hassler served a notice of taking deposition in their case on May 24, 1990, without knowledge of the District Court's ruling on the Ulloa matter. After counsel received notice of the ruling in Ulloa via letter from opposing counsel, counsel immediately called opposing counsel and terminated discovery in the Cassidy and Hassler matter. Respondent's counsel requested that this counsel dismiss the complaint in the Cassidy matter, to which this counsel responded that there were issues that were never litigated in any of the previous actions, and that we would have to resolve the matter through the Courts. The respondents filed their second petition for injunction on June 18, 1990. The Court granted the petition for injunction in October of 1990. The Court granted the request for sanctions stating in part that "[e]ven after the Court issued its injunction on May 11, 1990, Cassidy and Hassler pursued their claims against WSI and Holmes."

Both cases in the Superior Court were enjoined at the early stages of the litigation before any significant discovery had begun, and before any motion litigation had commenced.

REASONS FOR GRANTING THE WRIT

I. THE DECISION BELOW CONFLICTS WITH THE DECISION OF THIS COURT AND OTHER COURTS OF APPEAL AS TO THE PROPER INTERPRETATION OF 28 U.S.C. § 2283.

This Court in Chick Kam Choo v. Exxon Corp. 486 U.S. 140, at 146 (1988) stated that the Anti-Injunction Act which has existed in some form since 1793, was implemented by the Founders of our Nation to implement a dual system of federal and state courts. "Due in no small part to the fundamental constitutional independence of the States, Congress adopted a general policy under which state proceedings 'should normally be allowed to continue unimpaired by intervention of the lower federal courts, with relief from error, if any through the state appellate courts and ultimately this Court.' Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Locomotive Engineers, 398 U.S. 281, 287 (1970)." This policy also applies to the territory of Guam. 48 U.S.C. § 1424-2; Guam v. Yang, 850 F.2d 507, 510 (9th Cir. 1988) (en banc).

In Chick Kam Choo this Court stated that the relitigation exception is limited to claims or issues that were actually decided by the federal court, and that Atlantic Coast Line illustrated that this prerequisite is strict and narrow. "The Court assessed the precise state of the record and what the earlier federal order actually said; it did not permit the District Court to render a post hoc judgment as to what the order was intended to say." 486 U.S. at 148.

Five Circuits concur that the relitigation exception is limited to issues actually litigated by the federal court. In re G.S.F. Corp., 938 F.2d 1467, 1478 (1st Cir. 1991); Farias v. Bexar County Board of Trustees, 925 F.2d 866, 879-80 (5th Cir.) cert. denied ___ U.S. __, 112 S.Ct. 193 (1991); LCS Serv v.Hamrick, 925 F.2d 745, 749-50 (4th Cir. 1991); American Town Center v. Hall 83 Associates, 912 F.2d 104, 112 n. 2 (6th Cir. 1990); Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co. v. Burke, 897 F.2d 734, 737-38 (4th Cir. 1990); Staffer v. Bouchard Transp. Co., 878 F.2d 638, 642-644 (2nd. Cir. 1989);

De Cosme v. Sea Containers, Ltd., 874 F.2d 66, 68 (1st Cir. 1989).

The Ninth Circuit in Western Systems v. Ulloa, 958 F.2d 864 (9th Cir. 1992) disagrees with these Circuits, maintaining that Chick Kam Choo was ambiguous, and that the Second Circuit's opinion in Staffer is unduly restrictive. The Ninth Circuit in Western Systems maintains that res judicata bars not only every matter which was offered and received to sustain or defeat the claim or demand, but any other admissible matter which might have been offered for that purpose. Western Systems, Inc. v. Ulloa, 958 F.2d 864, at 871, citing Nevada v. United States, 463 U.S. 110. The three judge panel concerning petitioners' complaint agreed, and held that petitioners David Cassidy and Ray Hassler were barred from pursuing their claims. Western Systems, Inc v. Cassidy et al., No. 90-16524.

Petitioners respectfully submit that the Ninth Circuit's ruling in Western Systems, Inc. v. Ulloa, 958 F.2d 864, and Western Systems, Inc. v. Cassidy et al., No. 90-16524, conflicts with this Court's opinion in Chick Kam Choo and the position held by Five Circuits, and justifies the grant of certiorari to review the judgment below.

II. THE COURTS BELOW INCORRECTLY APPLIED THE DOCTRINE OF RES JUDICATA THUS VIOLATING THE PETITIONERS' RIGHT TO DUE PROCESS AND RIGHT TO ACCESS TO THE COURTS.

The doctrine of res judicata often involves an analysis of the previous litigation, Chick Kam Choo 486 U.S. at 147-8 ("The Court assessed the precise state of the record and what the earlier federal order actually said".), and an analysis of whether or not the same cause of action is involved. Nevada v. United States, 463 U.S. 110, 130 (1982). In Nevada, the Court stated that the definitions of what constitutes the "same cause of action" have not remained static over time, and specifically cited the Restatement of Judgments (Second) (1982), which applied a more "pragmatic approach", but "one 'not capable of a mathematically precise definition.'" Nevada v. United States, 463 U.S. at 130-31, fn. 12. The California cases (which the territory of Guam uses as persuasive authority) have recognized the difficulty in applying the doctrine. See Nakash v. Superior Court, 196 Cal.App. 3d 59, at 68-69 (1987) ("It is generally conceded that the line dividing those situations compelling application of the doctrine from those which do not cannot be precisely drawn.(Rest. 2d Judgments, § 24, com. (b)... Res judicata was never intended to be used as a vehicle for forever 'immunizing' any party in a continuing business relationship from liability for continuous or recurrent breaches of contract... or for continuous or recurrent tortious misconduct.")

In Nevada, the Court stated that the policy behind the doctrine of res judicata was to "secure the peace and repose of society by the settlement of matters capable of judicial determination." 463 U.S. at 129. However, Courts should be careful in furthering this goal at the expense of the Fifth Amendment Right to Due Process and the First Amendment Right to Access to the Courts. See Zinermon v. Burch, 494 U.S. 113, 124-139 (1989); California Motor Transp. co. v. Trucking Unltd., 404 U.S. 508, 510 (1972); Blonder-Tongue v. University Foundation, 402 U.S. 313 (1971); Soranno's Gasco, Inc. v. Morgan, 874 F.2d 1310 (9th Cir. 1989).

Petitioners respectfully submit that the Courts below failed to carefully scrutinize the facts and misapplied the doctrine of res judicata thus depriving the petitioners of their property without Due Process of Law. This contention is directed towards the imposition of a blanket injunction regarding the litigation of 855 validly paid for shares which were never a part of any of the previous law suits, and were transferred and ratified by the Superior Court of Guam in 1989. This contention is also directed at the application of res judicata towards continuing obligations owed by the respondents under the August 4, 1971 shareholder agreement.

The Court in Nevada recognized that the policies advanced by the doctrine of res judicata are at their zenith in cases concerning real property, land and water. Nevada v. United States 463 U.S. at 129, fn. 10. However, the case below involves at least three different contracts entered into at various periods of times, and a series of different contractual and corporate obligations which are not related in "time, space, origin, or motivation", and their treatment as a unit does not conform to the parties' expectations or business understanding or usage. Nevada v. United States 463 U.S. at 131, fn. 12. The early challenge concerning the May 1971, July 1971, and August 1971 agreements, does not relate to those shares validly purchased during or after the litigation which are vested rights. To lump the issues and claims together as the Court below did deprives these petitioners of their rights to Due Process and Access to the Courts. As stated in Nakash v. Superior Court, "[t]he situation in which the petitioners and real parties find themselves is not unlike that of a marriage, where res judicata has had limited application, or of parental status where the courts have traditionally recognized the need for serial adjudication, dependent upon changes in circumstance. The stock purchase and other agreements executed by the petitioners...gave rise to a fiduciary and business relationship which conferred rights and duties continuing as long as the relationship itself." 196 Cal.App.3d at 69.

A. The 855 shares.

The doctrine of res judicata cannot apply to the 855 shares which were purchased in October of 1977 after litigation had terminated in 24-72. Clearly, petitioners' rights as shareholders were created upon the issuance of these shares. Once these shares were issued, the respondents became obligated to fulfill their contractual and fiduciary duties. These petitioners could not possibly have brought suit as shareholders prior to the issuance of the 855 shares. While a previous judgment may preclude litigation of claims that arose prior to its entry it cannot be given the effect of extinguishing claims which did not even then exist and which could not possibly have been sued upon in the previous case. Prime Management Co. Inc. v. Steinegger, 904 F.2d 811, 816 (2nd Cir. 1990) quoting Lawlor v. National Screen Service Corp., 349 U.S. at 328. Spiegel v. Continental Illinois Nat. Bank, 790 F.2d 638, 646 (7th Cir. 1986) cert. denied, 479 U.S. 987 ("...we agree with the district court's ruling that 'the doctrine of res judicata does not bar Speigel II to the extent it is based on acts which occurred after Spiegel I was filed...")

It is readily apparent from respondents' counsels' letter of July 26, 1989, that respondent required petitioners to seek judicial confirmation regarding the 855 shares which had originally been issued in October 1977. The petitioners sought judicial confirmation in 1989, but respondents refused to recognize the validity of the shares, and in fact invoked a right of first refusal to purchase the shares based upon an amendment to the articles of incorporation which the petitioners were not aware of, nor were they given notice regarding said amendment until July 1989. Clearly, issues regarding these shares, and related issues concerning notice of meetings to shareholders, and notices regarding a change in the corporate structure, are issues which could not have been raised in the 1972 suit. Furthermore, a suit relating to seeking to enforce paragraph 6 of the March 21, 1971 shareholder agreement, does not relate, and is not identical to, a suit based upon the failure to transfer the 855 shares.

B. The August 4, 1971 shareholder agreement, paragraphs 2 and 3 .

Regarding a suit to enforce certain provisions of the August 4, 1971 shareholder agreement,it is clear that the previous suit in 24-72 was an action sought to remedy pre-formation contractual problems, rather than post-formation contractual breaches. 24-72 sought equitable relief and an attempt to recover 21,000 shares under paragraph 6 of May 21, 1971 shareholder agreement, and was not a suit for breach of contractual provisions in the August 4, 1971 shareholder agreement. The May 1971 shareholder agreement, and the August 1971 shareholder agreement are two separate contracts, and a suit based upon one contract, cannot bar a suit based upon the other contract. See Gaspar v. Flott, 307 N.W.2d 500, at 503 ("We are convinced, upon inspection of the evidence herein that the parties intended two separate contracts or one divisible contract. The offer to purchase and the management agreement provide the basis for two separate and distinct causes of action.") The witnesses or proof relevant to an action based upon the August 1971 contractual provisions, do not overlap with a suit based upon the May 1971 shareholder agreement, and the attempt to recapture 21,000 shares. The Restatement of the Law, Second, Judgments, § 24,(2) provides:

> What factual grouping constitutes a "transaction", and what groupings constitute a "series", are to be determined pragmatically, giving weight to such considerations as whether the facts are related in time, space, origin, or motivation, whether they form a convenient trial unit, and whether their treatment as a unit conforms to the parties' expectations or business understanding or usage.

An analysis of the May 21, 1971 agreement and the August 4, 1971 agreement clearly show that these two agreements are separate and distinct agreements and the causes of action that arise from the August 4, 1971 agreement are not identical to those causes of action that arise from the May 21, 1971 agreement.

Furthermore, those causes of action which are alleged concerning the August 4, 1971 agreement occurred well after the filing of 24-72.

It has been stated time and again that a subsequent suit based upon breaches that occur after the filing of the first suit, is not barred by the doctrine of res judicata.

The August 4, 1971 agreement imposed continuing obligations upon the respondents, and 197-72 did not extinguish those obligations, nor did they terminate the petitioners' rights as shareholders.

Under California law, an individual suing for a breach of contract (as the respondents did in 197-72) may "keep the contract alive for the benefit of both parties, being at all times ready and able to perform" Sobelman v. Maier 203 Cal. 1, at 9 (1927), "suing for damages for breach, or he may assume the contract dead and proceed to obtain restitution." Jozovich v. Central California Berry Growers Assn., 183 Cal.App.2d 216, 229 (1960). It is clear that by suing the original shareholders for damages under the August 4, 1971 contract, said contract was not extinguished. The record in 24-72 and 197-72 cannot be construed to extinguish the original shareholders' contract rights under the August 4, 1971 agreement, something which the Court below did in one fell swoop. Petitioners assert that once their predecessors in interest paid for their shares under the order, they became shareholders in good standing. See Fletcher, Cyclopedia of Private Corporations, Vol. II, 1986 § 5222, p. 504 ("In the absence of bad faith, where corporation issues stock to subscriber for less than the par value, the stockholder and the corporation may subsequently validate the stock by payment and acceptance of the difference between the amount paid and the par value.[footnote omitted]").

In Volume 18 of Wright and Miller, Federal Practice and Procedure, § 4409, at page 75, footnote 5, the authors cite Bolte v. AITS, Inc., Haw. 1978, 587 P.2d 810, 812 as being a helpful summary regarding the general rules concerning several breaches of a single contract. In Bolte the court stated that:

> With respect to continuing contracts, however, the rule against splitting a cause of action will not prevent the bringing of successive suits based on successive breaches of the same continuing contract where the contract is not terminated by a single breach and each suit is brought after the subject breach but before a subsequent breach.

Bolte v. AITS, Inc., supra, at 812. See Restatement of Judgments, Second, § 26 , Comment g. ("A judgment in an action for breach of contract does not normally preclude the plaintiff from thereafter maintaining an action for breaches of the same contract that consist of failure to render performance due after commencement of the first action. Compare § 24, Comment d."). The court went on to say that while the timing of the filing of each successive action in relation to each successive breach is crucial in determining whether a prior action will bar a subsequent action, it is not the sole inquiry. Implicit in resolving the issue of res judicata when two or more breaches of the same contract have occurred prior to the filing of the first action based on one of the breaches is the consideration of whether the plaintiff knew or had reason to know of the other prior breaches:

> We adhere to the rule adopted by the majority of jurisdictions that have dealt with the problem that a former recovery will not bar claims of which the plaintiff was ignorant, even if those claims existed at the time suit was commenced in the former recovery and could have been joined unless plaintiff's ignorance was due to his own negligence.

Id. at 813-814.

The district court below held that Cruz could have amended his complaint in 24-72, or filed a counterclaim in No. 197-72 under Fed. R. Civ. P. 13(a) which is required under the compulsory counterclaim rules. Appendix, 9B-12B. However, the court, once again, mistakenly lumped claims and issues together. As stated above, 24-72 was an attempt to enforce paragraph 6 regarding the original shareholder's rights of first refusal under the May 21, 1971 agreement. Regarding filing a compulsory counterclaim, first, Rule 13 concerns itself with counterclaims or claims that arise "...out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject of the opposing party's claim..." Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 13 (a). 197-72 was a complaint regarding watered stock, which was a violation of Guam's statutory provisions regarding the issuance of stock; it was not a complaint based upon a breach of paragraph 2 or 3 of the August 4, 1971 agreement. Thus the petitioners' complaint No. 216-90, as well as the Ulloas complaint, do not involve the same "transaction", as that term is defined in Restatement of the Law, Second, Judgments, § 24 (2), nor does it involve the same transaction or occurrence that was the subject matter of the opposing party's claim under Rule 13. The respondent's obligation under paragraph 2 and 3 of the August 4, 1971 agreement, was a continuing obligation, and the performance due by the respondents would not involve the same transaction as the suit based upon watered stock.

Furthermore, the respondents have continuing obligations to their shareholders, such as the duty to give proper notices regarding actions taken by the corporation, and a variety of other fiduciary duties. These duties are continuing, particularly with respect to those original shareholders who, like Richard Cruz, paid for their shares during the course of the litigation.

Finally, with regard to the previous litigation in 250-80, that case was not a dismissal on the merits according to California law, and therefore is not barred by the doctrine of res judicata. It is a fundamental rule that a judgment is not res judicata unless it is on the merits, and a dismissal for delay in prosecution is not on the merits. Gonsalves v. Bank of America Nat. Trust & Savings Ass'n, 16 Cal.2d 169 (1940). See Spiegel v.Continental Illinois Nat. Bank, supra, at 645 ("The law in this circuit is that res judicata applies when there is (1) a final judgment on the merits in an earlier action"). Restatement of the Law, Second, Judgments § 13.

The policy of promoting peace and repose would have a disastrous effect on shareholders and their vested property interests, particularly when such a policy is applied without careful analysis regarding claims that are not identical to claims which were raised in the previous litigation, or claims which could not have been brought in the previous litigation. The court's concern over managing its docket joined with allegations of "harassment" must not be furthered at the expense of the right to Due Process of Law and the right to Access to the courts.

Petitioners respectfully submit that because there are important considerations involved, that is, balancing the need for peace and repose, with the Fundamental Right to Due Process and Access to the Courts, a grant of certiorari to review the judgment below is necessary in order to give clear guidance in this analytically difficult and demanding area of the law.

Although petitioners' Due Process and Right to Access claims were not raised in the District Court and petitioners' opening brief before the Ninth Circuit, this claim was raised in the petition for rehearing and petition for rehearing en banc. Petitioners, by and through counsel, respectfully submit that an incorrect application of the doctrine of res judicata ipso facto affects Due Process and Access rights. This Court has the power to entertain this issue. Carlson v. Green 446 U.S. 14, 17, fn. 2 (1980).

III. THE COURT BELOW ABUSED ITS DISCRETION IN IMPOSING SANCTIONS.

Finally, Petitioners respectfully submit that the Court below abused its discretion in awarding sanctions. Petitioners have relied on the words expressed in Chick Kam Choo in good faith. There has not been the type of egregious conduct described in Chambers v. Nasco, Inc., 111 S.Ct. 2123 (1991). Furthermore, as the points and authorities heretofore cited demonstrate, the courts below incorrectly applied the doctrine of res judicata, and incorrectly applied Chick Kam Choo.

As a jurisdictional matter, a question exists as to whether a Federal Court has the inherent power to sanction parties who bring suit in State or Territorial Courts. Petitioners respectfully submit that since the complaints were filed in the territorial court, sanctions under Rule 11, Rule 38, and the court's inherent power to govern its proceedings do not apply to cases that originate in local courts.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the foregoing points and authorities as applied to the facts, it is respectfully requested that a writ of certiorari issue to review the judgment and opinion of the Ninth Circuit and the District Court for the Territory of Guam, in Western Systems Inc. et al. v. Cassidy et al., No. 90-16524, and Western Systems Inc. et al. v. Ulloa, 958 F.2d 864 (9th Cir. 1992).

Respectfully submitted,

Segundo Unpingco
P.O. Box 20326
San Jose,
CA 95160
Counsel for Petitioners

NOT FOR PUBLICATION
UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS
FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

WESTERN SYSTEMS, INC., and LEE M. HOLMES,	)	Filed Mar. 30 1992
Petitioners-Appellees,	)	No. 90-16524
v.	)	D.C. No. CV-197-72-ARM
DAVID CASSIDY and RAY HASSLER,	)	MEMORANDUM *
Respondent-Appellants.	)

Appeal from the United States District Court for the District of Guam
Alex R. Munson, District Judge, Presiding

Submitted March 25, 1992

Before: BROWNING, TANG and WIGGINS, Circuit Judges.

David Cassidy and Ray Hassler

---

* This disposition is not appropriate for publication and may not be cited to or by the courts of appeal the district court's order enjoining their action in Guam Superior Court against Western Systems, Inc. ("WSI") and Lee Holmes. They also appeal the district court's award of attorneys' fees to WSI and Holmes.

We review the district court's decision to issue an injunction for abuse of discretion. Western Systems, Inc. v. Ulloa, Nos. 90-15732, 91-15110, slip op. at 2142 (9th Cir. Mar. 4, 1992). We review de novo the district court's legal determination that it had the power to issue the injunction. Id., at 2142-43. We this circuit except as provided by 9th Cir. R. 36-3.

---

 The panel unanimously finds this case suitable for decision without oral argument. Fed. R. App. P. 34(a); 9th Cir. R. 34-4.

review the district court's imposition of attorneys' fees for abuse of discretion. Townsend v. Holman Consulting Corp., 929 F.2d 1358, 1362 (9th Cir. 1990) (en banc).

This litigation, now in its twentieth year, involves rights to ownership of stock in WSI and the validity of an agreement for the sale of stock. [footnote omitted] Cassidy and Hassler are the assignees of Richard Cruz, a former shareholder of WSI. In 1977, WSI obtained judgments against Cruz regarding rights to the stock in two separate actions in federal district court, both of which we affirmed. See Guam Economic Dev. Auth. v. Ulloa, No. 78-1786, unpublished memorandum disposition (9th Cir. Sept. 5, 1980); Ulloa v. Guam Economic Dev. Auth., 580 F.2d 952 (9th Cir. 1978). In 1979, Cruz transferred some of his shares to Cassidy and Hassler. Cassidy and Hassler then filed suit against WSI and Holmes in 1980 in Guam Superior Court. The action was dismissed for failure to prosecute, and Cassidy and Hassler did not appeal. Cassidy and Hassler brought another suit against WSI and Holmes in Guam Superior Court on February 28, 1990. On October 4, 1990, the district court enjoined that action in order to protect the res judicata effect of the previous judgments, and Cassidy and Hassler appealed.

We recently decided an appeal from an identical injunction issued by the district court against other former shareholders of WSI who were also parties to the two previous federal actions. Western Systems, Inc. v. Ulloa, Nos. 90-15732, 91-15110, slip op. 2137 (9th Cir. Mar. 4, 1992). We held that the relitigation exception to the Anti-Injunction Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2283,[footnote omitted] applied to claims that were actually litigated or could have been litigated in a prior court proceeding. Id. at 2148-2151. We concluded that the district court correctly enjoined the actions in Guam Superior Court to protect the res judicata effect of the previous judgments. Id. at2150-2152.

The same reasoning applies with equal force to the claims of Cassidy and Hassler. Cassidy and Hassler contend that the relitigation exception does not apply to their action because there was no final judgment on the merits in their previous action in Guam Superior Court, which was dismissed for failure to prosecute. Cassidy and Hassler admit, however, that they "stand in the shoes" of Richard Cruz, who was a party to the previous federal litigation. See Guam Economic Dev. Auth. v. Ulloa, No. 78-1786; Ulloa v. Guam Economic Dev. Auth., 580 F.2d at 952. Thus, they are bound by the res judicata effect of the previous judgments against Cruz. See Nevada v. United States, 463 U.S. 110, 130 (1983) (res judicata applies to parties and their privies).

Cassidy and Hassler contend that the claims regarding rights of first refusal which they raised in their Guam Superior Court action were not raised and litigated in the previous federal actions, and that they only recently learned of these claims.

These contentions lack merit. The claims need not have been actually litigated in order for the relitigation exception to apply. See Western Systems v. Ulloa, Nos. 90-15732, 91-15110 at 2148-49. Here, Cassidy's and Hassler's claims regarding rights of first refusal were part of the same transaction and could have been raised in the previous litigation and are therefore within the bar of res judicata. See id. at 2150. Further, Cassidy and Hassler were on notice of the rights as were the Ulloas, and their ignorance does not avoid the bar of res judicata. See id. Accordingly, we affirm the district court's injunction as to Cassidy and Hassler's action in Guam Superior Court.

Cassidy and Hassler also appeal the district court's award of attorneys' fees against them. They contend that attorneys' fees are not authorized by the Anti-Injunction Act. The district court, however, has the inherent power to sanction parties for bad faith conduct. Id. at 2153. The district court here found that Cassidy and Hassler exhibited bad faith by continuing their litigation after the Ulloas' identical claims were rejected. We agree, and affirm the award of sanctions. See Townsend 929 F.2d at 1362 (objective standard applies to determine whether conduct constitutes bad faith).

AFFIRMED.

NOT FOR PUBLICATION

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS

FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

WESTERN SYSTEMS, INC., and LEE M. HOLMES, Petitioners-Appellees, v. DAVID CASSIDY and RAY HASSLER, Defendants-Appellants.	)	Filed Aug 26 1992
	)	No. 90-16524
	)	D.C. No. CV 197-72-ARM
	)	ORDER

Before: BROWINING, TANG, and WIGGINS, Circuit Judges.

The panel has voted to deny the petition for rehearing and to reject the suggestion for rehearing en banc.

The full court has been advised of the suggestion for rehearing en banc and no active judge has requested a vote on whether to rehear the matter en banc. Fed. R. App. P. 35.

The petition for rehearing is denied and the suggestion for rehearing en banc is rejected.

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS
FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

No. 90-16524
CT/AG#: CV-197-72-ARM

WESTERN SYSTEMS, INC., and LEE M. HOLMES,

Petitioner-Appellee,

v.

DAVID CASSIDY, and RAY HASSLER,
Respondents-Appellants.

FILED
DISTRICT COURT
OF GUAM
OCT 30 1992
MARY L.M. MORAN
CLERK OF COURT

APPEAL FROM the United States District Court for the U.S. District Court for the District of Guam.

THIS CAUSE came on to be heard on the Transcript of the Record from the United States District Court for the District of Guam and was duly submitted.

ON CONSIDERATION WHEREOF, it is now here ordered and adjudged by this Court, that the _____ judgment of the said District Court in this cause be, and hereby is AFFIRMED.

Filed and entered _03/30/92

THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE TERRITORY OF GUAM

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a public corporation, et al., Plaintiffs, v. DAVID ULLOA et al., Defendants.	FILED Office of the Clerk District Court of Guam Oct 4 1990 CIV.NO. 197-92
WESTERN SYSTEMS, INC. and LEE M. HOLMES, Petitioners, v. DAVID CASSIDY and RAY HASSLER, Respondents.	ORDER GRANTING INJUNCTION AGAINST DAVID CASSIDY AND RAY HASSLER

On June 18, 1990, petitioners Western Systems, Inc. ("WSI") and Lee M. Holmes filed a petition for injunctive relief against respondents David Cassidy and Ray Hassler. WSI and Holmes seek to prevent Cassidy and Hassler from pursuing their claims in Cassidy v. Holmes, Superior Court for the Territory of Guam, CV No.

216-90.

The petition was heard on August 16, 1990. Petitioners were represented by attorneys Vernon F.L. Char, Michael J. Yoshii, and Mark S. Holmes. Respondents were represented by attorney Segundo Unpingco. Numerous exhibits were admitted into evidence by petitioners without objection. Based on the evidence submitted, and the record of Cruz v. Guam Economic Development Authority, United States District Court for the Territory of Guam, Civ. No. 24-72 and Guam Economic Development Authority v. Ulloa, United States District Court for the Territory of Guam, Civ. No. 197-72, of which the court takes judicial notice, an injunction is merited under 28 U.S.C. § 2283 and § 1651.

Findings of Fact

The eighteen year history of the WSI shareholder litigation is set forth in the Notice of Ruling and Order Granting Petitioners' Motion to Stay Proceedings filed herein on May 11, 1990 (the "May 11, 1990 Order"). In the May 11, 1990 order, the court enjoined two former shareholders of WSI, David and Richard Ulloa, from litigating claims made in Ulloa v. Western Systems, Inc. , Guam Superior Court, CV No. 1223-89 and Ulloa v. Holmes, Guam Superior Court, CV No. 1224-89. The injunction was granted to protect the judgments of this court and the Ninth Circuit rendered in Civ. Nos. 24-72 and 192-72. The May 11, 1990 order applies with equal force to Cassidy and Hassler.

Cassidy and Hassler are assignees of Richard G. Cruz, a former shareholder of Marianas Communications Systems, Inc. ("MCS"), now named Western Systems, Inc. Cassidy and Hassler have stipulated that they "stand in the shoes" of Richard Cruz.

Cassidy and Hassler were unable to distinguish the position of their predecessor Richard Cruz from the Ulloas. Cruz was a party to the prior federal litigation, Civ. Nos. 24-72 and 197-72. Like the Ulloas, in early 1971 Cruz sold his original MCS stock to the Guam Economic Development Authority ("GEDA") for a nominal amount. Pursuant to shareholder agreements dated July 20th and August 4, 1971, GEDA transferred the stock to MCS, which agreed to offer the stock to a number of persons-- including Holmes, Cruz, and the Ulloas-- on varying terms and conditions.

Under paragraph 1 of the August 4th agreement, Holmes was offered and agreed to purchase 21,000 shares (70%) of MCS stock for $ 2 a share. In paragraph 2 of the agreement, MCS agreed to offer 4,500 shares (15%) of its stock to its former shareholders (including Cruz and the Ulloas) for $1 a share. Each shareholder was entitled to his pro rata share of the 4,500 shares, plus a similar percentage share of any stock not purchased by the other shareholders. Cruz's pro rata allotment was 570 shares.

In paragraph 3 of the agreement, MCS agreed to offer the remaining 4,500 shares (15%) of its stock to five persons specifically named in the agreement. The price for these shares was at least $ 4 a share. Richard Cruz was not one of the persons entitled to the shares. Paragraph 3 reads as follows:

> The remaining FIFTEEN (15%) per cent of the stock of MCS held by GEDA shall be made available for sale to each of the below listed former stockholders and HOLMES, in equal proportions, for the sum of FOUR ($4.00) DOLLARS per share, provided however, that the said shares shall not be so made available until the MCS debt to GEDA as mentioned in Paragraph 4 below, is repaid in full; and, provided further, that the purchase price of the said stock, so made available, shall increase in increments each year, such yearly increase to be TEN (10%) per cent of the initial cost of the said stock, that is, FOUR ($4.00) DOLLARS. The right to purchase said stock, contained in this subparagraph, is applicable to the following persons only, or their heirs or assigns:

ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ
LARRY E. GUNN
LEE M. HOLMES
JOHNNY G. SABLAN
DAVID ULLOA

Richard Cruz's assignees Cassidy and Hassler have no claim to $ 4 shares under paragraph 3.

Following the August 4th agreement, Richard Cruz delayed the purchase of his allotment of 570 shares. MCS informed Cruz that any shares he refused to purchase could be bought by other shareholders, or that he could purchase shares refused by other shareholders. A letter dated August 5, 1971 from MCS to Cruz informed him that he had not purchased his shares and that "we have several other shareholders who have requested to buy your stock." A second letter from MCS to Cruz dated August 10, 1971 stated "[t]hat [August 4, 1971] agreement further called for the shares to be offered pro rata to the other former shareholders in the event any shareholders did not wish to repurchase them." Cruz ultimately signed an installment note for $570 on October 8, 1971. On October 13, 1971, Cruz paid the $570 and received his 570 shares. Cruz did not buy any additional $1 shares which the other original shareholders, including the Ulloas, declined to purchase, nor did he ask to buy any.

Civ. No. 24-72

On February 28, 1972, Cruz joined the Ulloas in filing suit against MCS and Holmes, Cruz v. Guam Economic Development Authority, United States District Court for the Territory of Guam, Civ. No. 24-72. Cruz and the Ulloas were represented by the same counsel. In Civ. No. 24-72, Cruz alleged that the August 4th agreement was breached by GEDA; that GEDA had "failed and refused to offer" shares to Cruz; and that Holmes "at all times acted in bad faith and conspired" with GEDA to deprive Cruz of his shares.

While the shares specifically sought by Cruz in Civ. No. 24-72 were the $2 shares offered by MCS to Homes under paragraph 1 of the August 4th agreement, the validity of the entire agreement was litigated. In answers to interrogatories, Cruz claimed that "GEDA" sold MCS stock to Homes without first making it available to the original shareholders," and that "GEDA did not offer the referred to 'rights of first refusal' to the defendants." Before the Ninth Circuit, Cruz argued that the court should "nullify the August 4, 1971 agreement of sale between GEDA, MCS and Holmes."

Cruz was a party throughout the litigation, which is described at length in the May 11, 1990 Order. His claims were specifically rejected by the district court and the Ninth Circuit's decision in Ulloa v. GEDA, 580 F.2d 952 (9th Cir. 1978).

Civ. No. 197-72

Cruz was also defendant in Guam Economic Development Authority v. Ulloa, Civ. No. 197-72. This case centered on watered MCS stock issued to the Ulloas, Cruz and others before 1971. The Ulloas were co-defendants, and were represented by the same counsel as Cruz. Cruz, in his Answer filed July 25, 2973, alleged that Holmes and MCS "failed and refused to perform the conditions required by the [1971] contracts." Judgment in the amount of $36,000 was entered against Cruz on November 18, 1977 and affirmed on appeal. Cruz settled the judgment for $10,000 in March, 1985.

During discovery proceedings Cruz had ample opportunity to learn of all stock transactions by MCS. On September 5, 1973, Cruz filed a request to Holmes and MCS to produce a number of MCS corporate records, including "the stock transfer ledger of MCS." Thus, Cruz had the opportunity to inspect all stock transactions involving MCS between 1971 and 1973. He could have easily determined which shareholders did not purchase their $1 shares and therefore how many additional shares were available for purchase. If Cruz wanted these shares in addition to the $2 shares sold to Holmes, he could have amended his complaint in Civ. No. 24-72, or filed a counterclaim in Civ. No. 197-72. Indeed, under the compulsory counterclaim requirement of Fed. R. Civ. P. 13(a), Cruz was required to assert a counterclaim for the shares in Civ. No. 197-72.

In the May 11, 1990 order, this court held that the Ulloas could have and should have sued for any $1 shares they felt entitled to in either Civ. No. 24-72 or 197-72:

> The Ulloas have not demonstrated in any manner, that they were precluded from asserting claims for $1 shares under paragraph 2 in either Ulloa v. Geda or Civ. 197-72. If they felt their rights of first refusal were violated, they could and should have asserted claims in 1972, when their shares were cancelled. Through discovery, they received all stock records of MCS and had the opportunity to investigate fully their rights to stock not purchased by the other former stockholders.
>
> Res judicata does not permit parties to sue seriatum for different paragraphs of a single contract. The final judgments in the federal suits, Ulloa v. Geda and Civ. 197-72, disposed of all claims the Ulloas had under paragraph 2 of the August 4th agreement.

Cruz had the same opportunity. He knew in 1971 that the August 4th agreement gave him a right to any $1 shares that were refused by other shareholders, and that other shareholders could purchase his $1 shares if he refused to buy them. He had the same attorney as the Ulloas. He, as well as the Ulloas, did not sue for these shares, instead preferring to challenge other aspects of the August 4th agreement.

Civ. No. 250-80

Cruz allegedly transferred some portion of his MCS shares in 1979 to Cassidy and Hassler. On April 7, 1980, Cassidy and Hassler filed suit against WSI and Holmes in the Guam Superior Court. Cassidy v. Holmes, Guam Superior Court, CV NO. 250-80. In that case they alleged that their assignor Richard Cruz was denied the $1 shares refused by their other shareholder in violation of paragraph 2 of the August 4th agreement. The claims of Cassidy and Hassler to MCS stock were dismissed for lack of prosecution by the Guam Superior Court. They did not appeal.

The Current Suit

Despite the final orders by the federal and Guam courts in Civil Nos. 24-72, 197-72, and 250-80, Cassidy and Hassler sued WSI and Holmes again in the Guam Superior Court on February 28, 1990. Cassidy v. Holmes, Guam Superior Court, CV No. 216-90. In CV 216-90, Cassidy and Hassler contend that Cruz was denied his "right of first refusal regarding the shares of defaulting shareholders" under paragraph 2 of the August 4, 1971 agreement. They contend that they "have had no opportunity to learn the facts alleged herein until recently," and that they "have just been made aware that none of the other original shareholders of Guam Cable TV were given notice of whether other shareholder had defaulted," despite filing exactly the same claims 10 years earlier in the Guam Superior Court. They admit that "plaintiff's rights stem from a number of agreements, central among which was the contract executed on August 4, 1971 between the defendants and the original shareholders."

This court enjoined similar claims by the Ulloas on May 11, 1990. Cassidy and Hassler are represented by the same attorney. Nevertheless, two weeks later on May 24, 1990, they noticed the deposition of Holmes and served a request for numerous WSI corporate records. Despite the injunction against the Ulloas, Cassidy and Hassler sought almost 20 years of financial and business records from WSI. The same documents were requested seventeen years earlier by their predecessor Richard Cruz in Civ. No. 197-72.

Discussion

The legal authorities supporting an injunction against the litigation in a territorial court designed to overturn settled federal court judgments are set forth at length in the May 11, 1990 Order. They need not be repeated here. It is well settled that "federal courts may enjoin state court proceedings in order to protect the res judicata effect of their own judgments." Midkiff v. Tom, 752 F.2d 502, 504 (9th Cir. 1984). The claims asserted by Cassidy and Hassler in CV 216-90 are the same claims Cruz could have and should have asserted in Civ. Nos. 24-72 and 197-72.

If Cassidy and Hassler were suing in the federal court, they would undoubtedly be barred by res judicata. Federated Department Store, Inc. v. Moitie, 452 U.S. 394, 101 S. Ct. 2424, 69 L.Ed.2d 103 (1981). They cannot avoid this result by simply filing their case in the Guam Superior Court.

Richard Cruz was in exactly the same position as the Ulloas. He was a party to both cases. he had the same counsel and access to the same discovery. He had the same opportunity and duty to litigate his claims for stock in either Civ. No. 24-72 or 197-72. The court finds no basis to distinguish Cruz from the Ulloas.

Cassidy and Hassler contend that their new case CV 216-90 "seeks to bring a suit for damages not only for violation of paragraph 2 of the August 4th agreement, it also seeks damages for breach of fiduciary duty, fraud and concealment of information which the fiduciary was bound to disclose, breach of contract, breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing." Opposition memorandum at 8. In fact, each of the six counts contained in CV 216-90 complaint refers to the August 4th agreement or the May and July agreements incorporated therein:

Count 1 (Fraud and Oppression) contends that Cassidy and Hassler were not given notice "of whether other shareholders had defaulted, pursuant to the provisions of the contract entered into between the defendants and each of them and the original shareholders, particularly the contracts dated May 19, 1971, July 10, 1971, and August 4, 1971." Complaint Paragraph 4.

Count 2 (Breach of Fiduciary Duty) states that the defendants failed to "offer the shares to the original shareholders and their assignees as subscribed in the contracts, particularly but not exclusively, the July 20, 1971 and the August 4, 1971 agreements ...". Complaint, Paragraph 10.

Count 3 (Breach of Contract) claims the defendants breached "the May 1971, July 1971, and the August 4, 1971 agreements" by failing to offer a right of first refusal of the shares of defaulting shareholders...". Complaint, paragraphs 12-13.

Count 4 (Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing) incorporates the same factual allegations as Counts 1-3 and claims the defendants "intentionally and willfully refuse to comply with the provisions of the contracts described herein." Complaint, paragraph 15.

Count 5 (Specific Performance) claims that "the contracts described herein provide the basis of a cause of action for specific performance." Complaint, paragraph 17.

Count 6 (Conspiracy) contends that the defendants "conspired in a joint effort to deny the plaintiffs of benefits of their contractual, common law and statutory rights." Complaint, paragraph 17.

The obvious thrust of CV 216-90 is the July and August 4, 1971 agreements. Cruz had a full and fair opportunity for fourteen years to litigate his claims arising from the 1971 agreements in Civ. Nos. 24-72 and 197-72. Further litigation of his claims by his assignees Cassidy and Hassler is barred.

Sanctions are Appropriate

The court has already awarded sanctions against the Ulloas. Cassidy and Hassler deserve the same. Even after the Court issued its injunction on May 11, 1990, Cassidy and Hassler pursued their claims against WSI and Holmes, forcing a response and the present motion. Cassidy and Hassler are represented by the same counsel as the Ulloas and had to know the injunction would apply to their claims as well. They never distinguished their predecessor, Richard Cruz, from the Ulloas. Respondents have refused to heed the court's prior decisions, exhibiting bad faith.

Furthermore, any claims Cassidy and Hassler had for additional $1 stock were conclusively decided by the Guam Superior Court in Cassidy v. Holmes, CV 250-80. In that case, they expressly asserted their rights to additional $1 stock under paragraph 2, and lost the case. Filing the same claims again in CV 216-90 is nothing but harassment and refusal to accept the judgments of the federal and Guam courts.

Sanctions are necessary to deter further vindictive litigation. Petitioners shall submit an application detailing the attorneys' fees and costs incurred to defend CV 216-90 and to prepare the petition for injunctive relief.

Conclusion

Based on the findings and authorities cited above, the court concludes and ORDERS that:

1. Respondents are permanently enjoined from prosecuting or otherwise pursuing the claims asserted by them in the case filed in Guam Superior Court:

Civil Case No. 216-90, Cassidy v. Holmes;

2. Respondents are permanently enjoined from initiating or maintaining any lawsuits or asserting any claims arising out of the claims which were or which could have been asserted in the related federal lawsuits, Civil Case No. 24-72, Cruz v. Guam Economic Development Authority, and Civil Case No. 197-72, Guam Economic Development Authority v. Ulloa;

3. Petitioners shall prepare for the court a detailed account of all attorneys' fees and costs petitioners have incurred due to the filing of the case filed in Guam Superior Court: civil Case No. 216-90, Cassidy v. Holmes; and

4. Upon receipt of petitioners' accounting, the court shall issue an order specifying the payment owed petitioners by respondents, and the payment deadline.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Dated: October 2, 1990
Alex R. Munson
United States
District Judge

TRAPP & GAYLE LAWYERS
PEREZ BROS. BUILDING

AGANA, GUAM 96910
Telephone 777-9891

FILED
DISTRICT COURT
OF GUAM
AGANA, GUAM
FEB 28, 1972
Edward LG Aguon

Attorneys for Plaintiffs

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM

ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ, CEZI CRUZ, PATRICIA C. CRUZ, RICHARD G. CRUZ, FRANCES M. GUNN, LARRY E. GUNN, ROBERT E. HALSEY, JOAN M HALSEY, FRANK V. OKIYAMA, JOHNNY GUEVARA SABLAN BARBARA P. SARMIENTO, HERMAN B. SARMIENTO, DAVID J. ULLOA, ANITA S. ULLOA, and RICHARD F. ULLOA, Plaintiffs, vs. GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a public corporation, and LEE M. HOLMES, Defendants.	Civil Case No. 24-72

1. This is a cause, other than one arising under the Constitution or a treaty or law of the United States, over which jurisdiction has not been transferred by the Legislature of Guam to any other court established by it, as hereinafter more fully appears.

COUNT ONE

2. Marianas Communications System, Inc., is and at all times was a corporation incorporated under the laws of Guam.

3. On 21st May 1971 plaintiffs were the registered owners and holders of all of the shares of capital stock of said Marianas Communications System, Inc.

4. On said date plaintiffs and defendant Guam Economic Development Authority entered into a certain written agreement a copy of which (without the exhibits thereto) is hereto annexed as Exhibit 1 and a certain written supplemental agreement a copy of which (without the exhibit thereto) is hereto annexed as Exhibit 2 whereby plaintiffs sold and transferred all of said shares to defendant Guam Economic Development Authority.

5. On 4th August 1971 defendant Guam Economic Development Authority and its co-defendant entered into a certain written agreement a copy of which (without the exhibits thereto) is hereto annexed as Exhibit 3 whereby defendant Guam Economic Development Authority sold and transferred 21,000 of said shares to its co-defendant.

6. Defendant Guam Economic Development Authority at all times failed and refused to offer any of said 21,000 shares to plaintiffs.

7. Defendant Lee M. Holmes at all times had actual and constructive knowledge and notice of all of said agreements, the terms and conditions thereof, and his co-defendant's said failure and refusal to offer any of said 21,000 shares to plaintiffs.

8. Defendants at all times acted in bad faith and conspired with one another to deprive plaintiffs of said 21,000 shares.

9. Except where performance on their part was prevented by defendants plaintiffs have at all times performed all of the terms and conditions of their said agreements with defendant Guam Economic Development Authority which they were obligated to perform.

10. Plaintiffs are ready, willing, and able to perform all of the terms and conditions of their said agreements with defendant Guam Economic Development Authority which they are obligated to perform and hereby tender and offer to pay whatever sum the court shall determine they are obligated to pay for said 21,000 shares as a condition to having said 21,000 shares transferred to them.

COUNT TWO

11. The statements in paragraphs 2 to 9 are hereby adopted.

12. As a result plaintiffs have been damaged in the sum of $15,000,000.

WHEREFORE plaintiffs demand judgment against defendants as follows:

(1) Impressing a constructive trust in favor of plaintiffs on said 21,000 shares and any profits derived there-from.

(2) Compelling defendant Lee M. Holmes to account for any profits derived from said 21,000 shares since 4th August 1971.

(3) Ordering defendant Lee M. Holmes to transfer said 21,000 shares to plaintiffs on such terms and conditions as the court may fix and determine.

(4) Adjudging that plaintiff recover of defendants the sum of $15,000,000.

(5) Awarding plaintiffs their costs of action.

(6) Granting plaintiffs such other and further relief as is proper.

TRAPP, GAYLE & CO.,
A professional corporation,

Through Howard Trapp
A licensed employee,
Attorneys for plaintiffs

BARRETT, FERENZ,
BRAMHALL & KLEMM
Attorneys At Law
Butler Building
Agana, Guam 96910
Telephone 777-9866

FILED
District Court
of Guam
Nov 28 1972
Edward LG Aguon
CLERK

Attorneys for Plaintiffs

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a public corporation, LEE M. HOLMES, and MARIANAS COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM, INC., Plaintiffs, vs. DAVID J. ULLOA, ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ, CEZI CRUZ, PATRICIA C. CRUZ, RICHARD G. CRUZ, FRANCES M. GUNN, LARRY E. GUNN, ROBERT E. HALSEY, JOAN M. HALSEY, FRANK V. OKIYAMA, MARIE B. OKIYAMA, JOHNNY GUEVARA SABLAN, BARBARA P. SARMIENTO, HERMAN B. SARMIENTO, JUANITA S. ULLOA, and RICHARD F. ULLOA, Defendants.	Civil No. 197-72

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF

1. Jurisdiction is vested in this Court pursuant to 48 U.S.C. Section 1424 and Guam Code of Civil Procedure, Section 62. The amount in controversy exceeds FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($5,000.00).

2. Marianas Communications System, Inc. hereinafter referred to as "MCS", is a corporation incorporated under the Laws of the Territory of Guam.

3. Lee M. Holmes is a resident of the Territory of Guam.

4. Guam Economic Development Authority, hereinafter referred to as "GEDA", is a public corporation of the Territory of Guam.

5. The Defendants Albert Thomas Cruz, Cezi Cruz, Patricia C. Cruz, Richard G. Cruz, Frances M. Gunn, Larry E. Gunn, Robert E. Halsey, Joan M. Halsey, Frank V. Okiyama, Marie B. Okiyama, Johnny Guevara Sablan, Barbara P. Sarmiento, Herman B.

Sarmiento, David J. Ulloa, Juanita S. Ulloa, and Richard F. Ulloa are residents of the Territory of Guam.

6. By written contract, dated August 4, 1971, Lee M. Holmes purchased through GEDA substantial shares in MCS.

7. That said written agreement dated July 20, 1971, was executed by all of the Defendants except Richard G. Cruz and Robert E. Halsey. The two agreements of May 21, 1971, and the July 10, 1971, agreement provide in pertinent part that the Defendants sold all of the stock in MCS warranting that the corporation was in good standing under the Laws of the Territory of Guam; that the stockholders owned the number of shares indicated in the said agreements; that the shares had been duly and validly issued and fully paid for under the Laws of the Territory of Guam; and, that the said Defendants had full right, power and authority to convey the stock and consummate the transaction with GEDA.

8. The warranties and representations of Defendants as set forth in said contracts and as set forth in Paragraph 7 above were false and untrue and were known by Defendants, and each of them, to be false and untrue at the time they were made. In truth and in fact, the corporation was not in good standing under the Laws of the Territory of Guam; the stockholders did not lawfully own the number of shares indicated in said contracts; the shares had not been duly or validly issued nor fully paid for; and said Defendants lacked the power and/or authority to convey the stock and/or to consummate the transaction with GEDA.

9. Plaintiffs did rely upon said representations in that GEDA did purchase the outstanding shares of MCS and at a later time, Lee M. Holmes did purchase said shares from GEDA and, in connection with said purchase, Plaintiff Lee M. Holmes also relied upon said agreements and said representations.

10. As a result of the foregoing matters, the shares purchased were worth approximately TWO HUNDRED FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($250,000.00) less than represented to be worth, all to Plaintiffs' damage in that amount.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs demand judgment against Defendants in the amount of approximately TWO HUNDRED FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($250,000.00) according to proof, together with costs and attorneys' fees and such other relief as is proper.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF

11. That the allegations contained in Paragraphs 1 through 6 of the First Claim for Relief are incorporated and made a part of the Second Claim for Relief.

12. On or about April 29, 1968, David Ulloa, Richard G. Cruz, Frank V. Okiyama and Richard F. Ulloa did cause MCS to be formed under Articles of Incorporation stating that the said four incorporators had subscribed to and paid in TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS ($10,000.00), the initial capital of MCS. They received said stock. In fact, said shares were not paid for but were issued contrary to the Laws of the Territory of Guam.

13. David J. Ulloa, Richard G. Cruz, Frank V. Okiyama and Richard F. Ulloa on April 12, 1969, did subscribe to Twenty-Three Thousand (23,000) shares of MCS stock having a total par value of TWO HUNDRED THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($230,000.00) and received said stock after the company received a bank loan guaranteed by GEDA in the amount of TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($200,000.00). In fact, said shares were not paid for but were issued contrary to the Laws of the Territory of Guam.

14. All of the Defendants named in Paragraph 5 herein subscribed for, have been issued and received shares of MCS without legal consideration of cash or property and said stock was issued contrary to the Laws of the Territory of Guam. (Section 356 of the Civil Code)

15. The directors have declared due and payable to the corporation the unpaid for subscriptions on stock, subscribed to but improperly issued without consideration.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray for a judgment in their favor and that Defendants be compelled to pay for stock subscribed to, issued but not paid for, together with interest accrued and costs.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF

16. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate herein by this reference each and every allegation contained in Paragraphs 1 through 6 above set forth.

17. That on or about the 29th day of April, 1968, Defendant David Ulloa signed, and in his capacity as Treasurer of MCS, certified that the entire capital stock of MCS had been subscribed and that all of said subscriptions had been paid.

18. Said certificate was, in truth and in fact, false in that all of said subscriptions had not been paid.

19. Said certificate was made in the Articles of Incorporation of MCS and was willfully made by said Defendants and concerned the corporation and its business.

20. That said Articles of Incorporation were also signed by defendants David J. Ulloa, Richard G. Cruz, Frank V. Okiyama and Richard F. Ulloa, and provided in Paragraph Ninth thereof as follows:

"NINTH: That the number of shares of the capital stock subscribed and paid for are as follows"... :

Name	Shares	Subcrip.	amt.pd.
David Ulloa	510	$5,100.00	$5,100.00
Frank Okiyama	300	$3,000.00	300
Richard G. Cruz	100	$1,000.00	$1,000.00
Richard Ulloa	90	$900.00	$900.00

"21. That said statement was false in that all of said subscriptions had not been paid as indicated. Defendants David j. Ulloa, Richard G. Cruz, Frank V. Okiyama and Richard F. Ulloa willfully made said statement knowing the same to be false.

22. Plaintiffs are informed and believe and upon such information and belief allege that other false entries in the books or records of MCS were made by defendants, the exact nature of which is presently not known. Plaintiffs pray leave to amend this complaint when the same has ben ascertained.

23. Plaintiffs first learned of said false statements, certificates or entries on or after January 1, 1970.

24. By reason of the false certificates, entries and statements as alleged herein, plaintiffs have been damaged in an amount which is presently unknown and plaintiffs therefore ask leave to amend this complaint when the exact amount of damages is ascertained.

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs pray for damages according to amendment and proof, together with the costs of suit and such other and rather relief as the Court deems just and proper.

Dated: November 28, 1972

BARRETT, FERENZ,BRAMHALL& KLEMM and VERNON F.L. CHAR,
Attorneys for plaintiffs,

By W. Scott Barrett

AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT is made this 21 day of May 1971, between GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a corporation, hereafter called "GEDA", and DAVID J. ULLOA, JOHNNY GUEVARA SABLAN, RICHARD F. ULLOA, RICHARD G. CRUZ, FRANK V. OKIYAMA, LARRY E. GUNN, ROBERT E. HALSEY, ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ, HERMAN B. SARMIENTO, and their respective spouses, hereafter collectively called the "STOCKHOLDERS".

WHEREAS, the STOCKHOLDERS have executed a Stock Purchase Agreement with GEDA, a copy of which agreement is annexed hereto and made a part hereof, wherein the STOCKHOLDERS transferred all of the issued and outstanding capital stocks of Marianas Communications System, Inc., to and in favor of GEDA; and mutually agree to enter into a supplemental agreement concerning the sale of said shares.

WHEREAS, GEDA and the STOCKHOLDERS

NOW, THEREFORE, it is hereby agreed as follows:

1. In the event that the STOCKHOLDERS fail or become unable to exercise the right of first refusal granted under Section 6 of the Stock Purchase Agreement annexed hereto, then in that event GEDA shall have the right to sell or otherwise dispose of all the shares herein; provided, however, that GEDA shall endeavor to obtain the best possible purchase price and terms, and that all sums remaining after payment of all debts and liabilities, reasonable service fee, and the removal of all guarantees, shall be paid to the STOCKHOLDERS as their interest may appear under that certain Stock Purchase Agreement entered into between the parties hereto, a copy of which is annexed hereto and made a part hereof.

2. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 6 set forth in the Stock Purchase Agreement annexed hereto, GEDA further agrees that it shall not offer for sale any of the shares within one hundred eighty (180) days from the date of this agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have duly executed this agreement this 21 day of May 1971.

GEDA:

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTH.

STOCKHOLDERS:

DAVID J. ULLOA

JOHNNY GUEVARA SABLAN

RICHARD F. ULLOA

RICHARD G.CRUZ

FRANK V. OKIYAMA

LARRY E. GUNN

ROBERT E. HALSEY

ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ

HERMAN B. SARMIENTO

STOCK PURCHASE AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT is made this 21 day of May, 1971, between GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a corporation, hereafter called "GEDA", and DAVID J. ULLOA, JOHNNY GUEVARA SABLAN, RICHARD F. ULLOA, RICHARD G. CRUZ, FRANK V. OKIYAMA, LARRY E. GUNN, ROBERT E. HALSEY, ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ, HERMAN B. SARMIENTO, and their respective spouses, hereafter collectively called the "STOCKHOLDERS".

WHEREAS, the Stockholders are the owners of all of the issued and outstanding capital stock of MARIANAS COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM, INC., a Guam corporation, hereinafter called the "COMPANY"; and

WHEREAS, the Stockholders desire to sell to GEDA all of the issued and

WHEREAS, the Stockholders desire to sell to GEDA all of the issued and outstanding capital stock of the company, upon and subject to the terms and conditions hereinafter expressed.

NOW, THEREFORE, it is hereby agreed as follows:

SECTION 1. Consideration. In consideration of the sum of One Dollar ($1.00), and other good and valuable consideration paid to each of said Stockholders, the receipt of which is severally acknowledged, the Stockholders hereby sell, transfer and assign to GEDA as a wholly-owned subsidiary of GEDA all of the issued and outstanding capital stock of the Company, hereinafter called the "SHARES", upon and subject to the terms and conditions hereinafter expressed. Exhibit A attached hereto and made a part hereof sets forth opposite the names of the respective Stockholders the number of Shares owned and sold by each of said Stockholders.

SECTION 2. Purchase Price. GEDA shall pay to each of Stockholders, and each of the Stockholders shall accept from GEDA, in full payment for all of the shares sold by each of said Stockholders hereunder, as set forth in Exhibit A, the sum of One Dollar ($1.00). GEDA, for itself and its successors and assigns, does hereby agree to loan to or invest additional capital in the Company as may be necessary or desirable, in the opinion of GEDA, to pay those obligations and liabilities of the Company as set forth in Exhibit B attached hereto. GEDA further agrees that it will take all necessary and proper steps to insure that all contracts and agreements of the Company existing as of the date hereof, heretofore lawfully undertaken and made by the Company but only to the extent that the Company would be required to perform the same.

SECTION 3. Transfer of Shares. Simultaneously with the execution of this agreement, the Stockholders shall deliver to GEDA all of the Shares. Certificates for the Shares, duly endorsed in blank by the Stockholders or with stock powers duly executed by the Stockholders attached thereto, without restrictive legend and in proper form for transfer, with all signatures guaranteed and with appropriate transfer stamps affixed, if required, shall be delivered to GEDA.

SECTION 4. Transfer of Books and Documents.

The Company shall deliver to GEDA (i) the Articles of Incorporation, By-Laws, stock books and minutes of the meetings of the Stockholders and Directors of the Company, and any amendments or supplements thereto; (ii) all tax returns, contracts, leases, licenses, insurance policies, trademarks, servicemarks, patents, subscription and installation agreements, customer lists, advertising contracts, bank deposit books, check registers, mortgages, loan agreements and security agreements; (iii) the books of account of the Company; (iv) all safe deposit keys, office keys, motor vehicle keys, and safe combinations, and (v) full and complete resignations of all officers and directors of the corporation, effective upon the election of their successors.

SECTION 5. Stockholders Representations and Warranties.

The Stockholders represent and warrant as follows:

(a) The Company is a duly organized corporation, validly existing in good standing under the laws of the unincorporated territory of Guam, with full power and authority to own its assets and operate its business in the manner and in the places where such assets are presently located and such business is presently operated. The Company has no subsidiaries and owns no stock in any other corpora-tion. The Company is not a general or limited partner in any general or limited partnership.

(b) The copies of the Articles of Incorporation and all amendments, if any, thereto and of the By-Laws of the Company which have been furnished to GEDA are true, correct and complete copies thereof, and the copy of the corporate minutes of the Company which has been delivered to GEDA constitutes the entire record of proceedings heretofore taken by the Stockholders and Directors of the Company since the organization of the Company ...."

"... SECTION 6. Right of First Refusal. GEDA shall not transfer, alienate or in any way dispose of any shares of the Company unless such share shall first have been offered for sale to the Stockholders. The Stockholders reserve and shall have the exclusive right and option to re-purchase all of the shares sold herein at a price equal to the total amount expended by GEDA; the payment of all debts and liabilities incurred in the operation of the Company, and the removal of all guarantees made by GEDA plus a reasonable service fee thereof, within thirty (30) days to commence the date of written notice to the Company attorney of record as of this date (E.S. Terlaje, P.O. Box 1719, Agana, Guam 96910). After the expiration of such time, GEDA, if the Stockholders shall not have exercised their option to re-purchase such share, shall be free to transfer, alienate, or otherwise dispose of such share without any restriction whatsoever. This right of first refusal is not an individual right to a shareholder to reacquire the shares transferred by that individual stockholder by this agreement or any other shares. The right of first refusal is a collective right and all shares offered for sale by GEDA must be acquired under the same terms and conditions as set forth in the preceding paragraph.

SECTION 7. Miscellaneous.

(a) This agreement contains the entire agreement between the parties and can only be changed by agreement in writing signed by the party against whom enforcement of any change, waiver, modification or discharge is sought....

...IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have duly executed this agreement.

GEDA:

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY,

By:

STOCKHOLDERS:

DAVID J. ULLOA

JOHNNY GUEVARA SABLAN

RICHARD F. ULLOA

RICHARD G. CRUZ

FRANK V. OKIYAMA

LARRY E. GUNN

ROBERT E. HALSEY

ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ

HERMAN B. SARMIENTO

AGREEMENT

THIS AGREEMENT entered into this 20th day of July, 1971, by and among GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, hereinafter called "GEDA", and DAVID J ULLOA, JOHNNY GUEVARA SABLAN, RICHARD F. ULLOA, RICHARD G. CRUZ, FRANK V. OKIYAMA, LARRY E. GUNN, ROBERT E. HALSEY, ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ, and HERMAN B. SARMIENTO, hereinafter called "STOCKHOLDERS",

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS GEDA and the Stockholders entered into two (2) separate Stock Purchase Agreements, dated May 21, 1971, copies of which are attached hereto as Exhibits "A" and "B"; and,

WHEREAS, it is now the desire of the parties hereto that portions of the said agreements be cancelled, such portions pertaining to the rights of the Stockholders to repurchase shares of stock of MARIANAS COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEMS, INC., hereinafter called "MCS",

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants herein, and in further consideration of the privilege of the Stockholders to repurchase certain shares of stock of MCS at a lesser value than that provided for in Section 6 of the basic Stock Purchase Agreement, as more fully explained in Paragraph 4 hereinbelow, it is agreed as follows:

1. Section 6 of the basic "Stock Purchase Agreement", Exhibit "A" hereto, is hereby cancelled, abrogated, set aside and deemed null and void from its inception.

2. Paragraph 2 of the supplemental "Agreement", Exhibit "B" hereto, is likewise cancelled, abrogated, set aside and deemed null and void from its inception.

3. It is the intention of the parties that the rights of the Stockholders to repurchase from GEDA their formerly owned shares of MCS stock is to be fully cancelled and of no force and effect, subject to the conditions herein.

4. This agreement is conditional upon execution of a contract, within a reasonable time, among GEDA, MCS and MR. LEE M. HOLMES, exclusively, upon such terms as may be mutually agreed upon by and between those said parties, provided that the following provisions shall also be contained in the said agreement:

a) Fifteen (15%) percent of the outstanding shares of MCS shall be made available for sale to the present Stockholders for the sum of ONE ($1.00) DOLLAR per share, and in such proportion as is the present stock ownership of the said Stockholders.

b) Fifteen (15%) percent of the outstanding shares of MCS shall be retained and shall be made available for sale, for the sum of FOUR ($4.00) DOLLARS per share, to the following Stockholders, in equal proportions: DAVID J. ULLOA, ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ, and LARRY E. GUNN, JOHNNY SABLAN, and LEE M. HOLMES, when the debt owed GEDA by MCS is repaid.

5. In the event that an agreement, incorporating the above terms and conditions, is not entered into within SIXTY (60) days from the date of this agreement, then this agreement may be cancelled upon notice of the Stockholder, in writing, to GEDA and MR. LEE M. HOLMES.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have duly executed this Agreement.

GEDA:

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTH.

BY GUY WHARTON

Duly Authorized Representative

Agreed: Lee M. Holmes

Former STOCKHOLDERS

DAVID J. ULLOA	JOHNNY GUEVARA SABLAN
Richard F. Ulloa by David Ulloa	RICHARD G. CRUZ
FRANK V. OKIYAMA	LARRY E. GUNN
ROBERT E. HALSEY	ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ
HERMAN B. SARMIENTO

AGREEMENT FOR SALE OF MCS STOCK

THIS AGREEMENT entered into this 4th day of August 1971, by and between GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, hereinafter called "GEDA" a public corporation of the territory of Guam, and MARIANAS COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM, INC., hereinafter called "MCS", and LEE M. HOLMES, hereinafter called "HOLMES".

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, GEDA is the sole stockholder of MCS, having acquired the said stock pursuant to Stock Purchase Agreement, a copy of which is annexed hereto as Exhibit "A", which agreement was supplemented by an additional agreement annexed hereto as Exhibit "B"; and,

WHEREAS, it is the desire of GEDA to convey all of the said stock to the said HOLMES and others, as more particularly provided for hereinbelow, and it is the desire of HOLMES to purchase a portion of the same under those conditions.

NOW THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY AGREED BY THE PARTIES HERETO, in consideration of the mutual covenants of the parties, and specifically the agreement of HOLMES to purchase the said stock, that GEDA has by these presents sold to MCS 25,000 shares of MCS, as Treasury Stock, for the sum of ONE ($1.00) DOLLAR, provided that such sale is subject to the following conditions:

1. MCS will sell to HOLMES 21,000 shares of stock of MCS, for the sum of TWO ($2.00) DOLLARS per share on the following conditions: The sum of TWO THOUSAND ($2,000.00) DOLLARS will be paid to MCS on the execution of this Agreement, and receipt for the said amount is hereby acknowledged by GEDA. In not more than

SIXTY (60) days from the signing of this agreement, an additional sum of TWENTY THOUSAND ($20,000.00) DOLLARS will be paid by HOLMES to MCS. Within ONE (1) year from the signing of this agreement, HOLMES will pay to MCS, the balance of the said purchase price of the said shares; that is, TWENTY THOUSAND ($20,000.00) DOLLARS. The above mentioned deferred installment payments will be the subject matter of an installment promissory note, to be made by HOLMES to MCS, which will provide for interest on the unpaid balance thereof at the rate of SIX (6%) percentum per annum, until paid, which promissory note will be made and delivered to MCS at the time of the signing of the agreement. The above mentioned 21,000 shares of stock will be delivered to HOLMES free and clear of all liens and encumbrances, at the time of the signing of this agreement and the delivery of the aforementioned promissory note.

2. GEDA has caused MCS to make available to the former stockholders, listed as signing parties upon Exhibit "A" hereto, 4,500 shares of MCS stock, these shares having been offered in such proportion as was the ownership of the respective stockholder at the time of the execution of said Exhibit "A" and under the terms stated below:

In the event that any of the stockholders indicate that he does not desire to purchase the shares or should default in payment, then such shares will be offered to the remaining former stockholder on the above pro rata basis, and then if not purchases, shall be offered to HOLMES. If not purchased by any of the above, they shall remain in the MCS Treasury for disposition at the discretion of the MCS Board of Directors.

The purchase price for the said sales of stock will be the sum of ONE ($1.00) DOLLAR per share. The said former stockholders may pay cash for the said stock to be so purchased or, in the alternative, may pay FIFTY (50%) per cent down and the balance in ONE (1) year with interest of SIX (6%) percentum per annum. The stock certificates will be held by MCS as security for the remaining balance upon the said purchase price of the stock.

3. The remaining FIFTEEN (15%) per cent of stock of MCS held by GEDA shall be made available for sale to each of the below listed former stockholders and HOLMES, in equal proportions, for the sum of FOUR ($4.00) DOLLARS per share, provided however, that the said shares shall not be so made available until the MCS debt to GEDA, as mentioned in Paragraph 4 below, is repaid in full; and, provided further, that the purchase price of the said stock, so made available, shall increase in increments each year, such yearly increase to be TEN (10%) per cent of the initial cost of the said stock, that is, FOUR ($4.00) DOLLARS. The right to purchase said stock, contained in this subparagraph, is applicable to the following persons only or their heirs and assigns:

ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ

LARRY E. GUNN

LEE M. HOLMES

JOHNNY G. SABLAN

DAVID ULLOA

4. GEDA represents and warrants to HOLMES that the total shares of MCS were acquired by GEDA on the 21st day of May 1971, pursuant to the aforementioned Stock Purchase Agreement, and that all of the said shares were properly and legally conveyed to GEDA by the prior Stockholders of MCS (the parties to the said Stock Purchase Agreement), free and clear of all liens and encumbrances. GEDA warrants that the said shares are fully paid, non-assessable, and duly and legally issued. GEDA further warrants that it has held the said total shares of MCS stock since the date it so acquired the same and that accordingly, GEDA has been in full control and management of the said MCS from that date to the date of this Agreement. GEDA warrants that there are no additional shares of stock of MCS outstanding and in the hands of any parties and GEDA will defendant HOLMES and MCS from any action or claims by any persons, or other entity, claiming stock ownership in MCS. GEDA warrants that the corporate minutes, stock register book, Articles of Incorporation and Amendments thereto, By-Laws, and all other papers and records of MCS in its possession are delivered to HOLMES upon the signing of this Agreement. The inventory of all corporate papers delivered to HOLMES is attached hereto as Exhibit "C" and GEDA certifies that said Inventory is true, complete and correct.

5. GEDA further represents to HOLMES that on the 20th day of July, 1971, it entered into a contract with the former stockholders of MCS, such agreement being attached hereto as Exhibit "D", the purpose of such contract being to free all of the said shares of MCS stock from the "Right of First Refusal" contained in Paragraph 6 of Exhibit "A" and Paragraph 2, of Exhibit "B". GEDA warrants the legality of the said July 10, 1971 Agreement as fully effective for the abrogation from inception thereof of the said "Right of First Refusal", and GEDA will jointly with HOLMES and MCS defend any claims thereon by any persons or other entity.

6. GEDA represents that the total list of debts outstanding of MCS are contained in the list attached hereto as Exhibit "E". It is agreed by the parties that all of the debts contained in the said list are the debts of MCS. GEDA warrants that there are no debts of MCS other than those contained in Exhibit "E", and in the event of any claims by creditors not now known or contained in the said Exhibit, GEDA will jointly with HOLMES and MCS defend any and all liability upon the same.

7. It is agreed that MCS will pay to GEDA the present debtors of MCS agreed by GEDA to be in the present sum of $268,069.83, plus the sum of TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($25,000.00) which amount will be further advanced to MCS upon the signing of this agreement for use as initial working capital, plus FIFTY THOUSAND ($50,000.00) DOLLARS to be advanced if and as needed, but only after adding the sum of TWENTY-TWO THOUSAND ($22,000.00) DOLLARS to be paid by HOLMES as required in Paragraph No. 1. It is provided that MCS will pay the total above debt in the sum of $343,069.83, to GEDA, pursuant to its promissory note at SIX (6%) percentum per annum on the unpaid balance. Interest shall be paid quarterly commencing January 2, 1972, until modified by the payments specified in the following sentences. The principal debt to GEDA shall be retired within six (6) years in level monthly payments including principal and accrued interest, commencing when MCS achieves a customer level of THREE THOUSAND (3,000) or at the end of TWO (2) years from date of this agreement, which ever occurs first, such repayment may be renegotiated at the option of MCS. This note will provide that there may be prepayment without penalty.

8. MCS warrants that it will pay interest and principal as due First National City Bank per Term Loan Agreement executed April 2, 1970.

9. HOLMES warrants that he will diligently endeavor to take all necessary steps as majority stockholder of MCS to have MCS carry out the aforementioned duties and obligations of MCS, however, it is expressly agreed and understood by the parties hereto that HOLMES will incur no personal liability growing out of any of the provisions of this contract, provided further, however, that the obligations of HOLMES to pay for all MCS stock conveyed to him, personally, shall be his personal obligation.

10. GEDA warrants that it has notified the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), of the transfer of location of the recording facilities to Los Angeles, California, instead of Hawaii, such being evidenced by the correspondence with FCC, copies of which are attached hereto as Exhibit "F". GEDA will jointly with HOLMES and MCS defend any liability in the regularity of such notification.

11. It is also agreed that GEDA will provide a physical inventory of the facilities in Los Angeles, California, at its expense.

12. It is agreed that GEDA and MCS have entered into no written contract with MARKIT Communications, Inc., or its representatives and that any verbal understandings with the said firm may be cancelled upon notice. MCS does not owe MARKIT any debts other than those mentioned in Exhibit "E". GEDA will hold harmless and defend MCS and HOLMES from any liability or suits by MARKIT upon any alleged implied contract.

13. This agreement is binding upon the heirs, administrators, executors and assigns of the parties hereto.

14. The below signed JESUS S.L. GUERRERO, signing in behalf of GEDA, warrants that he has full power and authority to so sign in behalf of the said public corporation.

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTH.

BY:

JESUS S.L. GUERRERO
Chairman
Board of Directors

MARIANAS COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM,INC.

BY:

JAMES C. HALLIDAY, President

LEE M. HOLMES

WITNESSES:

DAVID ULLOA

J.S. PEREZ

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM

TERRITORY OF GUAM

ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ, CEZI CRUZ, RICHARD G. CRUZ, FRANCES M. GUNN, LARRY E. GUNN, ROBERT E. HALSEY, JOHN M. HALSEY, FRANK V. OKIYAMA, JOHNNY GUEVARA SABLAN, BARBARA P. SARMIENTO, HERMAN B. SARMIENTO, DAVID J. ULLOA, JUANITA S. ULLOA, and RICHARD F. ULLOA,	)	CIVIL CASE No. 24-72
Plaintiffs,	)	OPINION
vs.	)
GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a public corporation, and LEE M. HOLMES,	)
Defendants.	)

On February 28, 1972, plaintiffs filed the complaint in this action to enforce a constructive trust (Count I) and for damages (Count II). It was determined at the pretrial conference conducted on June 9, 1972, that the trial would be limited to Count I, namely the enforcement of a constructive trust.

Plaintiffs are the former stockholders of Marianas Communications Systems, Inc., hereinafter referred to as "MCS." Defendant Guam Economic Development Authority, hereinafter referred to as "GEDA", is a public corporation and was originally the guarantor of MCS, subsequently the sole stockholder of MCS, and is presently a minority stockholder of MCS. Defendant Lee Holmes is presently the largest single stockholder of MCS.

The action was filed by sixteen original shareholders of MCS. However, over the course of this case ten (10) of the original plaintiffs and their claims were dismissed. The remaining plaintiffs are David J. Ulloa, Richard F. Ulloa, Richard G. Cruz, Robert E. Halsey, Joan M. Halsey, and Johnny Guevara Sablan.

[The History of MCS has been omitted]

FACTS OF THE CASE

On May 21, 1971, Mr. James Halliday, Administrator for GEDA, entered into two agreements with all of the shareholders of MCS and their spouses. These agreements were entitled "Stock Purchase Agreement" and "Agreement". The primary issues in this litigation involve these two agreements, as well as an agreement executed July 20, 1971 by most of the original shareholder of MCS and GEDA.

By the terms of the May 21, 1971 agreements, the original shareholders of MCS sold their shares in MCS to GEDA for the price of $1.00 per shareholder, regardless of the number of shares owned by the particular shareholder.

In the agreement, the original shareholders represented to GEDA that all of the shares issued previously and turned over to GEDA were lawful, and that the company was duly organized and in good standing under the laws of Guam.

Section 6 of the agreement, entitled Right of First Refusal, provided that GEDA would not transfer the shares of stock without first permitting the former shareholders an opportunity to repurchase all of the shares. However, this right to repurchase was conditional in two respects. First, that the purchase price for the original shareholders must be "equal to the total amount expended by GEDA, the payment of all debts and liabilities incurred in the operation of the company and the removal of all guarantees made by GEDA, plus a reasonable service fee." If the former shareholders failed to exercise their option to repurchase within 30 days, then GEDA would be free to "transfer, alienate, or otherwise dispose of such shares without restriction." As of May 1971, the purchase price would equal approximately $421,000, plus a reasonable service fee. MCS owed $200,000 to FNCB on a loan for which GEDA was the guarantor, and MCS also had another $221,000 in accounts payable.

The right to repurchase was conditioned further by the following clause in Paragraph 6:

"This right of first refusal is not an individual right to a shareholder to reacquire the shares transferred by that individual stockholder by this agreement or any other shares. The right of first refusal is a collective right and all shares offered for sale by GEDA must be acquired under the same terms and conditions as set forth in the preceding paragraph."

In addition to the "Stock Purchase Agreement", Halliday and all the stockholders of MCS and their spouses signed another document, labeled "Agreement" on May 21, 1971 and annexed the "Stock Purchase Agreement" to the "Agreement". Paragraph 2 of the agreement provided:

"Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 6 set forth in the Stock Purchase Agreement annexed hereto, GEDA further agrees that it shall not offer for sale any of the shares within one hundred eight (180) days from the date of this agreement."

This supplemental "Agreement" was not shown to nor approved by the GEDA Board.

Admitted into evidence are transcripts of tape recordings made of meetings of the GEDA Board of Directors held on May 11, May 17, May 28, July 11, July 14, July 20, August 2, August 2, and September 1, 1971. While the transcripts have some blank spaces, and it is not possible to identify the people speaking in some instances due to poor recording quality, the transcripts are by and large an accurate record of what transpired at the board meetings.

Also admitted into evidence are the minutes of meetings of the GEDA Board of Directors held on May 11, July 14, July 20, August 2, August 3, and September 1, 1971 and March 1, 1972.

Subsequent to the May 21, 1971 agreements, GEDA operated MCS with the assistance of the former employees, namely, David Ulloa, Larry Gunn, and Albert Cruz. The company continued to incur large operational losses of around $15,000 a month, all of which was absorbed by GEDA. By the middle of July, the GEDA Board did not believe that GEDA could afford to subsidize the operations of MCS any longer without possibly causing the bankruptcy of GEDA.

At this point in time, Holmes entered into the picture after having been asked by James Halliday, then Administrator of GEDA, if he would be interested in purchasing MCS.

On July 14, 1971, the GEDA Board held a special informal meeting for the purpose of hearing a proposal from Holmes.

Holmes proposed that GEDA turn 85% of the MCS stock (21,000 shares) be sold to Holmes for $2.00 a share or $42,000, that 10% of the stock (3,000 shares) be sold to the original shareholders on a pro-rata basis for $1.00 a share ($1,000) and that 5% of the stock (1,500 shares) be sold to David Ulloa, Larry Gunn and Albert Cruz, the three officers of the corporation, who have been and will continue to be active in management, for $1.00 per share. Note, according to this proposal, GEDA will hold on to 15% of the stock. Albert Cruz and David Ulloa were present at this meeting and assisted in the Holmes' presentation. It is important to note at this time that David ulloa was the general manager of MCS and prior to May 21, 1971 was the majority stockholder of MCS, owning 15,500 of the 30,000 outstanding shares.

Holmes' proposal also called for the addition of $100,000 into MCS obtained from more loans, principally an additional $50,000 loan from FNCB and an additional $50,000 loan from GEDA.

The reaction of the GEDA Board was indeed favorable to the Holmes' proposal as is apparent from the transcripts of the meeting. After Holmes left the meeting, Director Ord stated, "This is the best offer of a way out we've ever had". Director Wharton stated, "It's probably the only one we're going to get for this company". Director Perry state, "If we don't do something, we'll lose the whole works, though."

It was at this point that the GEDA Board of Directors discovered that Mr.

Halliday had signed the supplemental agreement on May 21, 1971, which prohibited GEDA from offering the shares for sale for six months. Although the GEDA Board questioned the validity of the supplemental agreement since it was signed by the Administrator without knowledge of the board, it was decided that a round table discussion should be held between the original MCS shareholders and the GEDA Board in order to obtain the waiver of the original shareholders' Right of First Refusal in exchange for the benefits of the Holmes' proposal.

On May 28, 1971, the GEDA Board of Directors held a regular GEDA Board meeting. It appears from the transcript of that meeting that the members of the GEDA Board agreed that they would become the directors of MCS since MCS was wholly owned by GEDA. It then appears from the transcript that the GEDA Board Meeting was adjourned and an MCS Board of Directors meeting was convened. The Directors of MCS then elected James Halliday, President, Joe Perez, Vice-President, and Joe Cepeda, Secretary-Treasurer. Messrs. Halliday, Perez and Cepeda were all employees of GEDA.

On July 20, 1971, the three members of the MCS Board of Directors met in a round table meeting with five of the former stockholders of MCS, David Ulloa, Johnny Sablan, Robert Halsey, Larry Gunn, and Albert Cruz. David Ulloa was at all times also acting as a representative for his brother, Richard Ulloa. The three members of the MCS Board present were Guy Wharton, Roy Benito and Gerald Perry. All three were also members of the GEDA Board of Directors. While the minutes of the meeting were labeled as minutes of the Guam Economic Development Authority, the transcript of the meeting reveals that the meeting was opened by the Secretary as follows:

Round table meeting between the MCS Board of Directors and MCS stockholders regarding possible purchase of MCS stock by Technical Resources, Mr. Lee Holmes, Jenny Manufacturing, July 20, 10:00 A.M.

The transcript and minutes of the July 20, 1971 meeting reflect that the former shareholders of MCS led by David Ulloa objected to certain parts of the Holmes' proposal. Their objections to the proposal were as follows:

1. the former shareholders wanted to buy back 30% of the stock.

2. They wanted to buy back the stock for one dollar per shareholder rather than one dollar per share.

3. They wanted it made a condition to the waiver agreement that Holmes would obtain the necessary loan from FNCB.

After a long discussion, Holmes, the MCS Board members and the five former stockholders present finally agreed to the terms of the July 20, 1971 agreement which was introduced into evidence. In the agreement, the former shareholders gave up their right of first refusal on the condition that within a reasonable time a contract would be executed among GEDA, MCS, and Holmes and that such a contract would include the following provisions:

"a). Fifteen (15%) percent of the outstanding shares of MCS shall be made available for sale to the present Stockholders for the sum of ONE ($1.00) DOLLAR per share, and in such proportion as is the present stock ownership of the said Stockholders.

b). Fifteen (15%) percent of the outstanding shares of MCS shall be retained by GEDA and shall be made available for sale, for the sum of FOUR ($4.00) DOLLARS per share, to the following STOCKHOLDERS, in equal proportions: DAVID J. ULLOA, ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ, and LARRY E. GUNN, JOHNNIE SABLAN, and LEE M. HOLMES, when the debt owed GEDA by MCS is repaid in full."

If the contract between Holmes, GEDA, and MCS was not executed within 60 days from July 20, 1971, then the former stockholders could cancel the July 20, 1971 agreement with notice by the stockholders in writing to GEDA and Holmes.

This agreement was signed by Guy Wharton on behalf of Richard Cruz, Robert Halsey, and Joan Halsey. Lee Holmes signed "agreed" on the second page of the agreement...."

"...Attached to the August 4, 1971 "Agreement for Sale of MCS Stock" is Exhibit A, the May 21, 1971 "Stock Purchase Agreement", Exhibit B, the May 21, 1971 supplemental "Agreement", and Exhibit D, the July 20, 1971 "Agreement". In Section 5 of the August 4, 1971 "Agreement for Sale of MCS Stock", GEDA specifically represents to Homes that the July 20, 1971 agreement was made for the purpose of freeing all of the said shares of MCS stock from the "Right of First Refusal" held by the former shareholders. GEDA further warranted the legality of the July 20, 1971 "Agreement" to Holmes.

The August 4, 1971 "Agreement for Sale of MCS Stock" was signed by Jesus S.L. Guerrero, Chairman of the Board of Directors of GEDA, James C. Halliday, President of MCS, and Holmes. The agreement was witnessed by David Ulloa and Joe Perez.

David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, and Johnny Sablan exercised their rights to purchase MCS shares under the August 4, 1971 agreement. Defendant's Exhibit GG is a series of letters and installment notes relating to the shares in question. Johnny Sablan and David Ulloa both signed installment notes in exchange for their proportion of MCS shares. While the record does not reflect whether Richard Ulloa executed installment notes, it does reflect that he paid for his proportionate number of shares in September 1971. Herman Sarmiento also purchased his proportionate number of shares on September 20, 1971.

It is also apparent from the evidence that Richard Cruz sometime in August of 1971 purchased the right of Robert and Joan Halsey to purchase any MCS shares. At the time of the August 4, 1971 agreement, Richard Cruz, who at one time was an employee of MCS, was not an employee of MCS and had not been employed by MCS for quite some time. It is also apparent that Richard Cruz did not play a substantial part in the negotiations with GEDA and Holmes relating to the July 20, 1971 agreement and the August 4, 1971 agreement.

Defendants' exhibit CC-1-6 consists of a series of letters and notes relating to the purchase of MCS stock by Richard Cruz. On August 10, 1971, Larry Gunn, Secretary of MCS, wrote a letter to Richard Cruz reminding him that on July 30, 1971, he had indicated to Lee Holmes and David Ulloa that he intended to purchase his proportion of MCS shares. Gunn requests Cruz to either purchase his shares, if necessary on the installment basis, by August 13, 1971 or indicate his desire to relinquish his right to purchase the shares in writing.

Cruz replied to Gunn's letter on August 13, 1971 and informed Gunn that he would let him know of his decision by September 2, 1971.

On September 9, 1971, Gunn again wrote Cruz and requested him to notify Gunn within 15 days of the method of payment he desired to make for his 570 MCS shares. (Cruz was allowed to purchase his rightful amount of 525 and Halsey's amount of 45).

On October 5, 1971, Lee Holmes, Chairman of MCS, wrote a letter to Cruz calling to Cruz's attention that he had not made payment or offered to make payment for his MCS stock, and, therefore, MCS had no recourse but to dispose of the stocks.

On October 8, 1971, Richard Cruz signed an installment note for the purchase of 570 MCS shares to be paid in full not later than October 13, 1971. On October 13, 1971, Cruz did pay MCS $570.

However, Plaintiffs' Exhibit 17 is copy of a memorandum from Richard Cruz to MCS and is dated October 13, 1971. The memorandum is signed by Richard Cruz, and receipt of the memorandum is acknowledged by David Ulloa as President of MCS. The memorandum states as follows:

"Please be advise that my payment this date of $570.00, in cash, for MCS shares is not in anyway an indication of my acceptance of the sales agreement to Lee Holmes.

Furthermore, I do not agree with the Holmes-Geda sales agreement nor did I waive my rights under the May 21, 1971 Agreement."

It is the testimony of Richard Cruz that he purchased the 570 shares under protest of the Holmes-GEDA agreement of August 4, 1971 and specifically did not waive his right under the May 21, 1971 agreement.

It is the testimony of Lee Holmes that subsequent to October 13, 1971, he had a telephone conversation with David Ulloa in which he specifically asked Ulloa if Cruz had purchased his MCS shares. According to Holmes, Ulloa informed him that indeed Cruz had paid for the shares, but Ulloa did not say anything to Holmes about the conditional nature of the payment or of Cruz's insistence that he was not waiving his rights under the May 21, 1971 agreement.

Holmes also testified that when he returned to Guam as Chairman of MCS, he was unable to locate the memorandum or any mention of it in the MCS files.

David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, and Johnny Sablan continued in the active management of the company along with Holmes after August 4, 1971.

Soon after August 4, 1971, FNCB turned down Holmes' request for a loan subject to reconsideration at a later time. By November 1971, additional funds were provided by Holmes in the form of preferred shares and warrants raising an additional $118,000..."

"...CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

On February 28, 1972, the plaintiffs in this case filed their complaint.

On November 13, 1972, this court granted defendants' motion to disqualify counsel for the plaintiffs. That decision was appealed and was affirmed by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals on March 21, 1974.

On October 22, 1975, six days before trial, counsel for plaintiffs filed a motion with the court to amend the Second Amended Pretrial Order and any other necessary pleadings in order to incorporate the issue of fraud into the case.

Count I of plaintiffs' complaint alleges that GEDA breached the May 21, 1971 agreement by failing to first offer the 21,000 MCS shares now held by Holmes to plaintiffs, that Holmes knew of this failure, that defendants acted in bad faith, and that the plaintiffs were ready, willing and able to perform the terms of the said agreements. Therefore, plaintiffs demand that the court enforce a constructive trust on the shares in question.

Count II of the complaint demanded damages but is not a subject of this trial.

Plaintiffs contended in their motion to amend that evidence supported an allegation not made in the complaint, namely that GEDA and Holmes fraudulently induced all of the plaintiffs who executed the July 20, 1971 agreement, by which they waived their right of first refusal, to sign said agreement based on the promise from GEDA and Holmes that no contract would be executed transferring MCS shares from GEDA to Holmes, unless a bank commitment existed to lend MCS a dollar for each dollar advanced by Holmes, the plaintiffs, and GEDA. Plaintiffs furthermore contend that between July 20, 1971 and August 4, 1971, Holmes fraudulently represented to plaintiffs that FNCB had made a commitment to loan MCS $50,000, when in fact such representation was untrue.

The court denied plaintiffs' motion to amend the pleadings on the ground that the motion was untimely and prejudicial to the defendants and was not supported by the evidence.

JULY 20, 1971 AGREEMENT IS VALID

On October 21, 1975, plaintiffs filed a motion for summary judgment respecting the legal effect of the July 20, 1971 agreement, and a motion to amend the pleadings to whatever extent was necessary to hear evidence pertaining to and adjudicating the issues concerning the legality of the July 20, 1971 agreement.

It is plaintiffs' contention that the July 20, 1971 agreement, wherein most of the former shareholders waived their right of first refusal, was an invalid agreement and is void and of no effect since the agreement was signed by Guy Wharton, as Acting Chairman of its Board of Directors of GEDA, at a meeting attended by only three (3) our of the seven (7) directors.

Section 53554 of the Government Code of Guam provides:

"Section 53554. Board of Directors. All functions and powers of the Corporation shall be vested in and be exercised by and under the direction of a Board of Directors hereinafter referred to as the Board, composed of seven (7) members, appointed by the Governor of Guam with the advice and consent of the Guam Legislature. Members of the Board shall serve for a term of four (4) years. The Governor shall appoint a member of the Board to serve as Chairman."

Section 53558(c) of the Government Code provides that a majority of the GEDA Board shall constitute a majority for the transaction of business.

It is plaintiffs' contention that the GEDA Board, due to the lack of a quorum, had no authority to act on July 20, 1971. Consequently, the action it took, i.e., Guy Wharton signed the agreement, is void and of no effect.

It is undisputed that only three (3) members of the GEDA Board were present at the meeting on July 20, 1971. However, it is apparent from the transcript of the meeting that the meeting was a meeting of the Board of Directors of MCS and not a GEDA Board meeting. Moreover, the purpose of the meeting was to have a round table discussion with the former stockholder of MCS. The MCS Board presented the shareholders with Holmes' proposal. The former shareholders presented the Board with a counter-proposal.

The counter-proposal differed basically from the Holmes' proposal in the respect that the counter-proposal called for an immediate pro-rata sale of shares to the former shareholders of 15% and a later sale from GEDA to David Ulloa, Albert Cruz, Larry Gunn, Johnny Sablan, and Lee Holmes of 15% when the loans from GEDA to MCS were paid in full..."

"...Conceptually speaking, the July 20th agreement was merely a continuing offer made by the former shareholders to GEDA. GEDA accepted the offer on August 4, 1971 by signing a contract with Lee Holmes within the scope of the option. The act of the GEDA Board which the former shareholders claim is invalid is not an act committed on July 20, 1971, for the GEDA Board committed no act on July 20, 1971. The act performed by the GEDA Board on August 4, 1971, i.e. the execution of the Agreement for Sale of MCS Stock, is the act of which the plaintiffs complain. Yet, it is undisputed that the execution of the August 4, 1971 agreement was validly approved by a quorum of the GEDA Board at a duly held Special Meeting of the Board of Directors of GEDA on August 3, 1971..."

"... The former shareholders who signed the July 20, 1971 agreement signed the agreement with knowledge of the consequences and in an above board and open atmosphere, and by so doing waived their right of first refusal under the May 21, 1971 agreements and cannot now complain that they were not given the opportunity to exercise such right. In short, Plaintiffs David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, and Johnny Sablan have no right to enforce.

RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL IS COLLECTIVE

Plaintiffs Richard Cruz, Joan Halsey

and Robert Halsey did not, however agree to or sign the July 20, 1971 agreement.

The depositions of Robert Halsey and Joan Halsey show that on May 21, 1971, they sold their 300 shares of MCS stock, owned jointly by them, to GEDA. On August 1, 1971, the Halseys sold their 300 shares of stock to Richard Cruz for $3,000. Although Mr. Halsey was of the impression that he sold his stock to Cruz, he didn't actually own any shares on August 1, 1971. What he sold to Cruz were his rights under the May 21, 1971 agreement. Whatever rights the Halseys have in this case and under the contracts in question are clearly now possessed by Richard Cruz and have been in the possession of Richard Cruz beginning August 1, 1971.

The question crucial to Cruz's position is, "Did he still possess a right of first refusal in spite of the fact that the other former shareholders signed the July 20, 1971 Agreement?"

The last two sentences in Section 6 of the May 21, 1971 Stock Purchase Agreement are most pertinent to this issue:

> "Sec. 6. ...This right of first refusal is not an individual right to a shareholder to reacquire the shares transferred by that individual stockholder by this agreement or any other shares. The right of first refusal is a collective right and all shares offered for sale by GEDA must be acquired under the same terms and conditions as set forth in the preceding paragraph."

The term "collective right" is all important to the meaning of this section. Unfortunately, the Court and the counsel in this action have found no cases or treatises involving the use of this term or interpreting this term. The words themselves are ambiguous, and it is difficult to establish from the section itself what the parties intended the words to mean.

Agreements containing obscure, imperfect or ambiguous language are always open to interpretation, and established rules of interpretation are invoked to determine the meaning. Hudson Canal Co. v. Pennsylvania Coal Co., 75 U.S. 276 (1868). The avowed purpose and primary function of the court is the ascertainment of the intention of the parties. Williston, Contracts 3d Ed., § 601, Guam Code of Civil Procedure, § 1859. Under the law of Guam, a contract may be explained by reference to the circumstances under which it was made, and the matter to which it relates. Guam Civil Code, Sec. 1647..."

"... The evidence reflects that it was the intention of GEDA to take over MCS and to sell it back to the former shareholders if they could pay off all the obligations that GEDA had incurred with relation to MCS. The intent of the GEDA Board was clearly to offer the company to the original shareholders as a group..."

ACCEPTANCE OF BENEFITS

FORESTALLS COMPLAINT

In any event, the fact that Richard Cruz, who is also owner of the Halsey's rights, did not sign the July 20, 1971 agreement would not give him cause to complain even if the right of first refusal wa an individual right rather than a collective right. All of the plaintiffs in interest, David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, Johnny Sablan, and Richard Cruz, subscribed to the shares of stock to which they were entitled under the July 20, 1971 agreement. Richard Cruz paid for his shares in full and received his stock certificates.

Section 1549 of the Guam Civil Code provides:

"Section 1589. Assumption of obligation by acceptance of benefits. A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting."

Richard Cruz accepted the benefit of the July 20, 1971 agreement, but now claims that he is not bound by the obligations of that agreement. A chain of correspondence between Cruz and Larry Gunn and Lee Holmes indicates no disagreement on the part of Cruz with the July 20, and August 4, 1971 contracts. On October 8, Cruz subscribed to 570 MCS shares and received 570 shares. On October 13, 1971, Cruz paid for those shares. Plaintiffs produced a memorandum from Cruz to MCS, Inc., dated October 13, 1971 and acknowledged received by David Ulloa, President of MCS. The effect of the memorandum as pointed out earlier is that Cruz is not waiving his right under the

May 21 1971 agreement and does not accept the sales agreement between GEDA and Holmes. The existence of this memorandum is somewhat of a mystery to the court, since it was never found by Holmes, Chairman of MCS, in the MCS files. In any event, the condition that Cruz placed on his payment of $570 is of no effect. Cruz already subscribed to his shares and received his shares on October 8, 1971. At that time Cruz accepted the benefit of the July 20, 1971 agreement and was bound by the obligation in that agreement just as if he had signed the agreement.

EQUITABLE CONSIDERATIONS

While the plaintiffs have no right to enforce against the defendants under the contracts in question, they would be prohibited from enforcing any such right if any existed by equitable considerations. The plaintiffs have come into this court on the side of equity asking the court to impress a constructive trust upon MCS in favor of themselves.

A constructive trust is an involuntary trust. Smith v. Bliss, 44 C.A.2d 171 (1941). Guam Civil Code, § 224 provides:

> "Section 2224. Involuntary trust from fraud, mistake, etc. One who gains a thing by fraud, accident, mistake, undue influence, the violation of a trust, or other wrongful act is, unless he has some other and better right thereto, an involuntary trustee of the thing gained, for the benefit of the person who would otherwise have had it."

Plaintiffs have not pled nor have they presented any evidence to show the existence of fraud, accident, mistake, undue influence, the violation of a trust, or any other wrongful act. The plaintiffs have not alleged that GEDA held a fiduciary duty with relation to them. In fact, no such relationship could exist since GEDA is a government agency, and can only be a fiduciary for the general public.

In short, the plaintiffs have not alleged proper grounds for the relief they seek, let alone shown evidence of any proper ground.

In a court of equity, a frequently stated maxim is, "He who comes into equity must come with clean hands". 4 Witkin, Summary of California Law, 7 Ed., Equity, § 7, p. 2791.

Accordingly, where the right upon which the complainant relies has grown out of a wrong, breach of duty, or a violation of the law, the court of equity will deny relief. See Baxter v. Deneen, 57 A. 601, (Court of Appeals, Maryland 1903).

Plaintiffs, and each of them, lack clean hands to bring an equitable action seeking the imposition of a constructive trust for the stock of MCS acquired by defendant Holmes, for the reason that the shares of stock of MCS originally issued were issued contrary to the provisions of law. The original shareholders, plaintiffs in this action, issued stock to themselves in return for obtaining a GEDA guaranteed loan from FNCB. Further, the plaintiffs also received shares of stock contrary to law at the time of incorporation. At the time plaintiffs turned their shares over to GEDA under the May 21, 1971 agreements, they warranted that all of the shares (30,000 shares at par value of $10.00 per share for a total of $300,000) of MCS were validly issued and fully paid for. Both the July agreement and the August agreement incorporated the terms of the May 1971 agreements and therefore the representations therein. David Ulloa himself was a witness to the August 4, 1971 agreement and was one of the primary beneficiaries of the unlawful issuance of stock.

Section 356, Guam Civil Code, specifically states in pertinent part:

"...no corporation shall issue stock or bonds except in exchange for actual cash paid to the corporation or for property actually received by it at a fair valuation equal to the par value of the stock or bonds so issued ...." (Emphasis added)

From the evidence, it is clear that from 1969 through 1971, 30,000 shares with a cumulative par value of $300,000 was stated on the books of MCS. In fact, no more than between $30,000 and $40,000 was paid into the corporation as required by law. By May of 1971, the company was floundering, it was insolvent and there was on the books approximately $220,000 of current accounts payable besides the GEDA guaranteed loan of $200,000 with FNCB.

GEDA was required by the May 21st agreement to come in and take back the corporation in order to continue the company operations and to try to prevent the requirement of paying the $200,000 on the FNCB loan at that time. GEDA was also required to pay the trade creditors in an amount of approximately $220,000.

If the incorporators had paid in the full $300,000 as set forth in the corporate records, those funds could have been utilized to pay off the accounts payable prior to May 21, 1971 and GEDA might well not have been compelled to come in and salvage the dying operation of MCS.

It should be noted that prior to the February 28, 1972 filing of this complaint, but after the Holmes reorganization, GEDA had loaned an additional $75,000; Holmes had paid in or pledged to pay $42,000; and, on the strength of Holmes' management, an additional $177,000 of outside equity money was committed to the corporation.

Plaintiffs cannot be permitted to come into a court of equity to attempt to recapture a company which they claim as of February, 1972, is worth $15,000,000, after (1) investing only $30,000 to $40,000, (2) misrepresenting the value of the corporation's capital unlawfully as $300,000 (3) requiring the loan by GEDA of an additional $270,000 and subsequently another $75,000, and (4) encouraging outside equity parties under the reorganization, including Holmes, to invest approximately $219,000 more. The company was insolvent and floundering during the period of time the former stockholders operated it.

After February 1972 when the company was operational and financially feasible, the plaintiffs then suddenly decided that they wished to have the stocks and operation of the company returned to them. To benefit the very persons who had created the initial distressed condition of the corporation based upon undercapitalization and the unlawful issuance of stock would be inequitable. The wrongful acts of plaintiffs are clearly related to the conduct of the subject matter of this litigation.

Furthermore, plaintiffs, other than Cruz, are estopped by the doctrine of estoppel from asserting any rights under Section 6 of the May 21, 1971 agreement since they promised to waive those rights and knew of the reliance thereon placed by GEDA and Holmes on that promise, and failed to act to the detriment of GEDA and Holmes. Section 90, Restatement of Contracts, states:

"Section 90. Promise Reasonably Inducing Definite and Substantial Action. A promise which the promisor should reasonably expect to induce action or forbearance of a definite and substantial character on the part of the promisee and which does induce such action or forbearance is binding if injustice can be avoided only by enforcement of the promise."

GEDA has provided an additional loan of $75,000 to MCS. Holmes has invested $42,000 of his own money, has moved himself and his family to Guam, has devoted his constant labor to MCS, and has personally guaranteed loans to MCS, all in reliance on the validity of plaintiffs' July 20, 1971 promise. If plaintiffs, or any of them claim that the July 20, 1971 agreement was invalid because Cruz and Halsey did not execute it, or if the plaintiffs feel that the sale of the stock to Holmes was conditioned upon receiving financing from FNCB prior to August 4, and said plaintiffs failed to do anything to stop the transaction on August 4 before there was reliance by the parties and a substantial change of position, then said plaintiffs had the obligation to do so immediately after August 4, 1971. They are now estopped from asserting any imagined impropriety by having stood by and watched defendants and others change their position in reliance upon agreements which were signed and executed by and contained the promises of plaintiffs.

The maxim "Equity aids the vigilant" is given application in the doctrine of laches. Those who neglect their rights may be precluded from obtaining relief in equity. 4 Witkin, Summary of California law, 7 Ed., Equity, § 12. Delay is not a bar to equitable relief unless it words to the disadvantage or prejudice of other parties. The application of the doctrine to a case depends almost wholly on the particular facts. 4 Witkin, supra.

Based on the same facts that applied under the doctrine of estoppel, the doctrine of laches should be applied in this case. If the plaintiffs believed they had been defrauded, then evidence of that fraud, i.e., the failure of the FNCB loan to come through, or if plaintiffs believed that the July, 20, 1971 agreement was invalid, then they could have voiced their position in August of 1971 before GEDA and Holmes incurred large cash liabilities and considerable time, effort and reputation on the part of Holmes. However, plaintiffs chose to wait until it was evident that the company had been turned around, reached the breakeven point and was faced with the prospects of a bright future. It would be unfair to allow the plaintiffs to capitalize on their delay to the detriment of defendants.

CONCLUSION

Plaintiffs are not entitled to enforce the nonexistent right they seek to enforce. If such right existed, they would be barred by equitable considerations.

Plaintiffs' complaint is dismissed. Let Judgment issue.

SO ORDERED.

Dated this 16th day of February 1977.

CRISTOBAL C. DUENAS

JUDGE, DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM

ENTERED IN CIVIL DOCKET 2/17/77

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM

TERRITORY OF GUAM

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a public corporation, et al., Plaintiffs, vs. DAVID J. ULLOA, et al., Defendants.	)	Civil Case No. 197-72 JUDGMENT (N.O.V.)

The jury having rendered a verdict in favor of all named defendants and Judgment on the Verdict having been entered on October 5, 1977, the plaintiffs have moved for a Judgment N.O.V. or in the alternative for a new trial. The Court having heard the arguments of counsel for the respective parties and being fully advised in the premises;

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the plaintiff MCS recover of the defendants the following sums, notwithstanding the verdict of the jury, together with costs and charges:

David and Juanita Ulloa	$153,000
Richard Ulloa	$ 36,000
Richard and Pat Cruz	$ 36,000
Larry and Frances Gunn	$ 6,000
Frank and Marie Okiyama	$ 6,000
Johnny G. Sablan	$ 20,000

Dated: November 18, 1977

CRISTOBAL C. DUENAS
JUDGE, DISTRICT COURT
OF GUAM

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM

TERRITORY OF GUAM

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a public corporation, et al.,	) CIVIL CASE NO. 197-72
Plaintiffs,	) MEMORANDUM ORDER GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING IN PART PLAINTIFFS' MOTION FOR A JUDGMENT N.O.V. AND PLAINTIFFS' MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL
vs.
DAVID J. ULLOA, et al.,
Defendants.

The court has viewed the evidence in a light most favorable to the defendants, because as prevailing parties in a jury trial, they should enjoy the benefit of every reasonable inference. While a jury's finding must be afforded great weight and respect, the court has concluded that the jury's verdict was clearly erroneous and that the motion for a Judgment N.O.V. must be granted in favor of Marianas Communications Systems, Inc.,(MCS). [footnote omitted].

Section 331 of the Guam Civil Code clearly gives a corporation a cause of action against stockholder who have not fully paid their subscriptions for capital stock:

> "Section 331. Directors may levy. The board of directors or trustees of any stock corporation formed, organized or existing under this Title may at any time declare due and payable to the corporation unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock and may collect the same with interest accrued thereon or such percentage of said unpaid subscriptions as it may deem necessary." [Enacted 1953.]

By virtue of Section 331, MCS would have a valid cause of action against the defendants unless:

(1) MCS was not a "stock corporation formed, organized, or existing under this Title..." (i.e. Corporations, General Law).

(2) The board of directors did not

"declare due and payable to the corporation unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock..."

(3) That the defendants did not owe "unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock..."

As to (1), abundant evidence was offered to show that MCS was a corporation formed under the laws of Guam. It had filed its Articles with the Director of Revenue and Taxation, and it had received a corporate certificate. (See Section 296 of the Guam Civil Code). As Section 297 of the Guam Civil Code makes clear, a copy of the Articles of Incorporation, once filed with the Director of Revenue and Taxation, "shall be received in the courts and all other places as prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated." Finally, no contrary evidence was offered to suggest that MCS was not a corporation formed under the laws of Guam.

With regard to (2), Lee Holmes, the president of MCS, stated that the board of directors of MCS had declared the stocks in question "due and payable." This testimony was not contradicted in any way by the defendants, and the jury could not have had any basis for doubting this fact.

Finally, there can be no question as to (3), that the defendants owed unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock. Uncontradicted testimony and evidence offered by all parties make it very clear that on April 29, 1968, David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, Richard Cruz and Frank Okiyama executed MCS's Articles of Incorporation and signed the following subscriptions, (Plaintiffs' Exhibit #1):

David Ulloa (510 shares)(@$100/share)
$5100

Richard Ulloa (90 shares) (@$100/share)

$ 900

Richard Cruz 100 shares @100/share $1000

Frank Okiyama 300shares @100/share $3,000

In addition, on April 12, 1969, these same defendants signed subscriptions to the following additional amounts, (Plaintiffs' Exhibit #2):

David Ulloa 14,790 shares (@100/share)

$147,900

Richard Ulloa 3,500 Shares (@100/share)

$ 35,000

Richard Cruz 3,500 Shares (@100/share)

$35,000

Frank Okiyama 1,200 shares (@100/share)

$12,000

Also the testimony is uncontradicted that while Johnny Sablan received $45,000 in MCS Stock, he only paid $25,000 for such shares. Also Mr. and Mrs. Gunn never paid for their subscriptions.

It is clear that none of the above defendants paid valid legal consideration for these shares (with the exception of Johnny Sablan). Section 356 of the Guam Civil Code states that "no corporation shall issue stocks or bonds except in exchange for actual cash paid to the corporation or for property actually received by it at a fair value..." The defendants did claim that they were under the mistaken impression that the value of their services to the corporation could be a valid method of exchange; however, it is quite clear that the Guam Civil Code does not recognize this form of consideration. If, as the defendants insist, their mistaken reliance on a California corporations handbook could excuse satisfying the requirements of the Guam Civil Code, Section 356 could always be circumvented by claiming simple ignorance. As responsible businessmen attempting to form corporation under the laws of Guam, the defendants had a duty to determine exactly what the law required as to valid consideration for stocks issued. Any mistaken belief on their part is irrelevant because the requirements of the Guam Civil Code must control here.

After trial, the defendants introduced a new issue as to whether there was actually a valid subscription agreement, (thus negating the effect of Section 331). However, this factual issue was never properly before the jury (having never been argued or raised by a requested jury instruction). Any questions of the defendants' intent when they subscribed for the stocks was introduced by the plaintiffs to relate only to the elements of their cause of action and these facts never related to a possible defense regarding statutory liability. There was never any question raised at trial whether or not the subscription agreements were valid, and the defendants cannot raise such an issue at this late date.

Defendants have also relied on Bing Crosby Minute Maid Corporation v Eaton, 46 Cal.2d 484, 297 P.2d 5 (1956), for the proposition that Section .331 of the Guam Civil Code should not be interpreted to provide for statutory liability for watered stock when most jurisdictions seem to be content to limit such liability on a misrepresentation theory. [footnote omitted]. As the plaintiffs correctly point out, the case deals with California statutes which cannot be equated to Guam's statutory scheme for liability. Unlike Section 1110 of the California Corporations Code (now repealed; originally Civ. Code § 299), Section 331 of the Guam Civil Code clearly expresses

"an intent to broaden the basis of liability of holders of watered stock..." (297 P.2d 9). Such an intent to provide for liability on a basis in addition to a misrepresentation theory is also made clear by Section 340 of the Civil Code which states that:

> Nothing in this Title shall prevent the directors from collecting, by action in any court of proper jurisdiction, the amount due on any unpaid subscription, together with accrued interest and costs and expenses incurred.

Clearly the legislature intended Sections 331 and 340 to provide corporations with a statutory cause of action in the event that shareholder failed to pay complete and adequate consideration for unpaid subscriptions. This court is not sitting in equity and it must give legal effect to these provisions of the Guam Civil Code. Since all the facts necessary to establish liability under Section 331 are uncontroverted, as a matter of law, the defendants are liable to MCS for "unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock...with interest accrued thereon..."

Plaintiffs have also asked for a Judgment N.O.V. on the grounds that there could have been no factual question as to whether there was a breach of warranty between the defendants and Lee Holmes and GEDA, and whether certain other defendants are automatically liable to the plaintiffs because they were in default.

As the defendants correctly point out, a motion for a Judgment N.O.V. is generally restricted to the issues which have been raised on a motion for a directed verdict. See Rule 50, F.R.C.P. and Wright and Miller, Section 2537. While the plaintiffs argue that liberality should be the rule when interpreting whether a motion for a Judgment N.O.V. should be granted, they have failed to cite any cases contrary to the weight which restricts a party from asserting a ground not raised in the motion for a directed verdict. Therefore, the plaintiffs motion for a Judgment N.O.V. on the breach of warranty cause of action must be denied.

However, as Wright and Miller make clear in Section 2537 (at page 598), a party's failure to raise certain issues in a motion for directed verdict does not affect his right to a new trial. See Rule 59, F.R.C.P.; also Sears v. Pauly, 261 F.2d 304 (1st Cir. 1958). The jury's finding that there was no breach of warranty by the defendants is against the clear weight of the evidence. It seems clear that there was a warranty that the stocks were paid for when in fact only a fraction of the subscriptions was actually paid. (Plaintiffs' Exhibits #23 and #13). Since the jury's finding that the defendants were not liable for breach of warranty is against the clear weight of the evidence, the plaintiffs' motion for a new trial is granted.

The plaintiffs have also moved for a Judgment N.O.V. against Frank Okiyama, Marie Okiyama and Pat Cruz, all of whom defaulted before trial. Since these defendants had defaulted their liability was already legally determined and the jury only had power to determine the measure of their liability. Clearly the jury was acting in excess of its powers in finding that the defaulting defendants were not actually liable to plaintiffs and such a finding cannot be given any effect. Since the question of actual liability had already been determined it was not before the jury, and counsel for the plaintiffs had no reason to expect that the jury would make a finding in this area (except as to the amount of damages). It would be unfair to require counsel to make a motion for a directed verdict on an issue which had already been legally determined and which the jury had no power to consider. Furthermore, since the court had found that the other defendants were liable to the plaintiff corporation under Section 331, the defaulting defendants must be found similarly liable for the amount of their unpaid subscriptions.

Conclusion

Rule 50(c) of F.R.C.P. requires the District Court to rule both on the motion for Judgment N.O.V. and the motion for a new trial.

The court grants the motion for a Judgment N.O.V. in favor of MCS on a statutory liability theory because there can be no question that subscriptions were due and payable and that the defendants David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, Richard Cruz, and Frank Okiyama failed to pay any legal consideration for these shares. There also can be no question that Johnny Sablan failed to pay full valid consideration for the shares which he received. The court denies a motion in the alternative for a new trial because it is of the opinion that the facts introduced by the plaintiff corporation in support of its statutory liability theory are uncontroverted and would serve little purpose to present this issue to a new jury.

The court denies the motion for a Judgment N.O.V. in favor of Lee Holmes and GEDA based on a breach of warranty theory because no such ground was raised by the plaintiffs' motion for directed verdict.

However, the plaintiffs' motion for new trial is granted because the jury's finding that there was no breach of warranty is against the weight of the evidence.

The court grants the motion for Judgment N.O.V. in favor of the plaintiffs against Frank Okiyama, Marie Okiyama and Pat Cruz. Since these defendants were in default the jury had no power to determine anything but the measure of damages and the finding that the defendants were not liable is clearly erroneous. On a statutory liability theory, there can be no factual question that these defendants are liable for the amount due on their unpaid subscriptions. The court denies the alternative motion for a new trial for the same reasons outlined above and because these defendants are in default and their liability is no longer contested.

LET JUDGMENT ISSUE

SO ORDERED.

Dated this 18th day of November, 1977.

CRISTOBAL C. DUENAS
JUDGE DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM

CHING, ROSENZWEIG & BOERTZEL
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
GCIC BUILDING, SUITE 400
AGANA, GUAM 96910
CABLE "CHOSEN" GUAM
TELEPHONE 472-8868/69
Attorneys for Plaintiff

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF GUAM

TERRITORY OF GUAM

DAVID W. CASSIDY,C. RAY HASSLER, and ARK INVESTMENT CORPORATION,	)	CIVIL CASE NO.250-80
Plaintiffs,	)
vs.	)
WESTERN SYSTEMS, INC. and LEE M. HOLMES,	)	FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT
Defendants.	)

Plaintiffs complain of defendants and for their causes of action allege:

COUNT ONE

1. This court has jurisdiction by virtue of § 82 of the Guam Code of Civil Procedure, as amended.

2. Plaintiffs David W. Cassidy and C. Ray Hassler are natural persons and residents of Guam.

3. Ark Investment Corporation (hereinafter "Ark") is a Guam chartered corporation.

4. Defendant Western Systems, Inc. (hereinafter "Western') is a Guam corporation that has undergone several legal changes of name. Western was originally incorporated as "Marianas Communications System, Inc." in 1968. The name was changed pursuant to an amendment to the corporate articles in 1974 to "Guam Cable TV System". On January 30, 1979, also pursuant to an amendment to the corporate articles, the name was legally changed to "Guam Cable TV". On August 8, 1979, the name was changed to "Western Systems, Inc." pursuant to an amendment to the corporate articles. All references herein to "Western" shall also refer to said defendant corporation when known by its other names, as appropriate.

5. Defendant Lee M. Holmes is a natural person and a resident of Guam.

6. On August 4, 1971, an agreement was executed between defendants Western and Lee M. Holmes, and the Guam Economic Development Authority ("GEDA"). A copy of said agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit "A" (the "agreement").

7. At the time of the agreement, GEDA was the owner of all of the outstanding shares of the common stock of Western, which at that time, amounted to 30,000 shares at a par value of One Dollar each.

8. By the terms of the agreement, GEDA sold 21,000 of said shares to defendant Holmes; 4,500 of said shares were to be held by GEDA subject to being offered for sale to Holmes and others upon the happening of certain contingencies; and the remaining 4,500 shares were to be made available to the persons who originally owned the corporate shares prior to their acquisition by GEDA, as is further described below.

9. Section 2 of the agreement established a procedure whereby the original shareholders of the corporation would have the opportunity to acquire the 4,500 shares of Western. Each of the original shareholders were to be offered the right to purchase a quantity of the 4,500 shares, at the price of One Dollar per share in the proportion to the percentage of the original shares held prior to the acquisition of the shares by GEDA.

10. The agreement further provided that should any of the original shareholders refuse to acquire such shares, or should any of such original shareholders default in payment for such shares, then the non-acquired shares would be offered on a pro rata basis to the non-defaulting original shareholders under the same terms and conditions.

11. Richard G. Cruz was one of the original shareholders in defendant Western and was a beneficiary of the provisions of Section 2 of the agreement.

12. At the invitation of defendant Western and pursuant to the terms of the agreement, Richard G. Cruz was offered, and did pay for and acquire 570 shares of the 4,500 shares made available to the original shareholders, said shares being the full amount of shares he was entitled to acquire.

13. Of the remaining 3,930 shares to be offered to the original shareholders, most or all of such shares were not acquired by the original shareholders entitled to the first opportunity to acquire same, either due to their failure to exercise the option to acquire the shares, or to default in payment for the shares after exercise of the option.

14. By the expressed terms of the agreement, Western was to offer Richard G. Cruz the opportunity to acquire the shares not conveyed to the original shareholders.

15. On August 7, 1979, Richard G. Cruz, for valuable consideration, assigned all of his rights to acquire the above described shares, to plaintiff Cassidy.

16. Plaintiffs have made demand on Western to offer plaintiffs the opportunity to acquire such remaining shares of stock; however, Western has wrongfully failed and refused to offer plaintiffs the opportunity to acquire such shares as required by the agreement.

17. Since the execution date of the agreement, by virtue of amendments to its articles of incorporation, Western has split the stock of the corporation so that there are now 2,000,000 shares of stock of a par value of 2.5 cents per share representing the $50,000.00 authorized capital of the corporation, whereas at the time of the execution of the agreement, the $50,000.00 authorized capital of the corporation was represented by 50,000 shares at One Dollar per share par value. Each share of the corporation noted in the agreement is equivalent to forty current shares of the corporation.

18. At the time of the execution of the agreement, only sixty percent of the authorized capital stock of Western was issued and outstanding. Upon information and belief, all or part of the remaining forty percent of the authorized stock has been issued and is now outstanding. Had plaintiffs or their predecessors been given the opportunity to acquire the stock pursuant to the terms of the agreement, they would have acquired pre-emptive rights to maintain their proportionate ownership interest in Western with respect to the forty percent of the stock authorized but unissued as of the time of the agreement. But for the wrongful refusal of Western to comply with the terms of the agreement, plaintiffs would have had the opportunity to increase their shareholdings proportionately by acquiring such later issued additional stock at the price first offered by the corporation.

19. Prior to the time plaintiff Cassidy acquired the assignment of the share acquisition rights from Richard G. Cruz as described in paragraph 16 herein, Cassidy had entered into an oral partnership agreement with plaintiff, C. Ray Hassler, the substance of which was that the two of them would share equally the costs, risks and benefits of the Western stock acquisition rights. Accordingly, plaintiff Hassler has an interest in the rights asserted herein.

20. As a condition of the assignment of the share acquisition rights from Richard G. Cruz to Cassidy as described in paragraph 16 herein, Cassidy agreed to convey to ARK two-thirds of any of the Western stock acquired as a result of the Cruz-Cassidy assignment. Accordingly, Ark has an interest in the rights asserted herein.

COUNT TWO

21. Plaintiffs repeat the allegations contained in Count One of the complaint and incorporate them by reference herein.

22. At all time relevant hereto, defendant Lee M. Holmes had notice of plaintiffs' assignor's rights to acquire the remaining stock reserved for the original shareholders.

23. Upon information and belief, despite such notice, defendant Lee M. Holmes, with intent to wrongfully deprive plaintiffs and plaintiffs' assignor of their vested rights to such stock, acquired the stock for his own personal account and continues to hold such stock to the detriment of plaintiffs.

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs pray for judgment as follows:

A. That Western account for that portion of the 4,500 shares that were not conveyed to the original shareholder pursuant to Section 2 of the agreement.

B. That the court determine the number of current shares that plaintiffs are entitled to by virtue of the agreement, and order the corporation to offer such shares to the plaintiffs at a price equivalent to the offer price established by the agreement.

C. That defendant Lee M. Holmes be declared to be constructive trustee of such Western stock he has acquired that was to be reserved and allocated to plaintiffs, that said stock be ordered reconveyed to the corporation, and that the corporation then offer same to plaintiffs pursuant to the terms of the agreement.

D. That the court determine the number of additional shares plaintiffs would be entitled to by virtue of their pre-emptive rights had Western not breached the agreement, and order Western to make available to plaintiffs such shares at such prices they would have otherwise been entitled to acquire had not the corporation breached the agreement.

E. Such other relief to which plaintiffs are entitled in law or equity.

F. For costs for this action.

Dated this 29th day of December, 1980.

CHING, ROSENZWEIG & BOERTZEL

By JACK A. ROSENZWEIG

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF GUAM

TERRITORY OF GUAM

DAVID W. CASSIDY, et al.,	)	CIVIL CASE NO. 250-80
Plaintiffs,	)
vs.	)	DECISION AND ORDER
WESTERN SYSTEMS, INC.,et al.,	)
Defendants.	)

This matter came before the Court on 7 November 1984 on plaintiff's motion to vacate dismissal and schedule a trial date. Plaintiffs were represented by Jack Rosenzweig, Esq. Defendants were represented by J. Bradley Klemm, Esq. At the conclusion of the hearing on this motion the Court reserved decision.

This case came to trial in this Court on 22 June 1982. Plaintiffs introduced evidence pursuant to written and oral stipulations and then rested. Defendants then moved for dismissal pursuant to Rule 41(b) of this Court's Rules of Civil Procedure on the grounds that plaintiffs had shown no right to relief because they had failed to plead and prove an essential element of a prima facie case. The motion to dismiss was granted orally and followed by a written Decision and Order dated 30 June 1982.

Plaintiffs then made various motions, including a motion to reopen their case for the limited purpose of proving the missing element. In a Decision and Order dated 19 August 1982, this Court noted that defendants had recognized the flaw in plaintiffs' case at the two pretrial conferences and prepared accordingly. Defendants had even warned plaintiffs that their prima facie case was not established. Despite this warning, plaintiffs went ahead without remedying the defects in their case. Therefore, the Court felt it just to impose costs on plaintiffs as a condition to granting the motion to reopen. Cassidy v. Western Systems,Inc., Civil Case No. 250-80, Decision and Order at 4 (Guam Super. Ct. Aug. 19, 1982). The Court closed its opinion as follows:

> [P]laintiffs' motion to reopen for the limited purpose of proving the remedy at law is inadequate is granted upon the condition that plaintiffs pay defendants Five Hundred Dollars ($500) costs for approximately five hours of court time spent on these motions. Upon proof of such payment, counsel may move the Court to vacate its Decision and Order of dismissal and schedule a date to proceed with the trial.

Id. at 7.

There was no further activity in this case for almost two years until 8 August 1984 when plaintiffs tendered a check for $560.00 ($500 plus two years interest of six percent) to defendants' attorney. The check was drawn on the business account of plaintiffs' law firms. Defendants' attorney refused the tender.

On 23 August 1984, plaintiffs served a request to produce on defendants. On 27 August 1984 defendants filed an objection to the request to produce, on the grounds that the case had been dismissed in 1982 and no motion to vacate dismissal had been made.

On 19 October 1984, plaintiffs filed the motion now before the Court, contending that the condition imposed by the 19 August 1982 Decision and Order had not been fulfilled solely because of the defendant's actions. Defendants oppose the motion on various grounds, but relied primarily on the two year lapse between the 19 August 1982 Decision and Order and the tender of the ordered payment.

At the hearing plaintiffs argued that some confusion was caused by the two sentences of the 19 August 1982 Decision and Order which are quoted above.

Plaintiffs contend that the first sentence indicates their motion to reopen the case was granted, and the dismissal vacated, with the next step in the case to be the required payment. The second sentence clearly states that first plaintiffs must pay the $500, then the Court would consider a new motion to vacate. The Court admits the ambiguity but it sees no evidence it contributed to the delay in bringing the matter back before the Court.

Regardless of how those two sentences are construed, the result in this case must be the same. If the 19 August 1982 Decision and Order is construed as reopening the case, this Court still retains the power to dismiss it sua sponte for plaintiffs' failure to prosecute and delay in obeying a court order. See, e.g. Link v. Wabash Railroad Company, 370 U.S. 626, 82 S.Ct. 1386 (1982). The factors which the Court must consider in deciding whether to dismiss a case for failure to prosecute will be discussed in detail below, but primarily involve the length of delay, reasons for delay, and effects of delay. These are essentially the same factors this Court must weigh in deciding upon a motion to vacate dismissal. Rule 60(b) of this Court's Rules of Civil Procedure controls relief from judgments or orders when a request for such relief is based on reasons other than clerical mistakes. Rule 60(b) lists the reasons which the Court may accept as justification for relief, and provides that all motions for such relief must be made "within a reasonable time." Motions for relief based on certain factors, such as inadvertence or excusable neglect, must be made "not more than one year after the judgment, order, or proceeding was entered or taken."

In deciding whether to dismiss a case for failure to prosecute or delay in complying with a court order, a court must exercise its discretion and examine each case with regard to its own merits. Sandee Manufacturing Co. v. Rohm & Haas Co., 298 F.2d 41, 43 (7th Cir. 1962). There are several factors this Court usually considers. The first, of course, is the duration of a plaintiff's activity or delay. In the current case, plaintiffs left this case in limbo for two years. This Court previously dismissed a case because of neglect for a comparable period of time. Klinge v. Oledan, Civil Case No. 137082 (Guam Super. Ct. June 20, 1984). In Alexander v. Pacific Maritime Association, 434 F.2d 281 (9th Cir. 1970), cert. denied 401 U.S. 1009, 91 S.Ct. 1254, 28 L.Ed.2d 545 (1971), a case was dismissed due to a nine-month delay.

A second factor to be considered is the excuse for plaintiffs' inaction. In the current case, Exhibit 1 at trial showed that plaintiffs' attorney owned approximately one quarter of the claimed contract right at issue. Therefore, typical excuses for inactivity and delay, such as a breakdown in attorney-client communication, are not applicable here.

There was no good reason presented why the plaintiffs could not have promptly complied with the 19 August 1982 Court Order. At the hearing on this motion plaintiffs' counsel alluded rather vaguely to a vacation he believes he was on when the decision was filed; he does not deny service. But he went on to describe this as an "important" case, one it would be assumed he would make arrangements to have covered if away on vacation, and would check on upon his return.

A third factor to be considered is whether the defendants are prejudiced by the delay. Citizens Utilities Co. v. American Telephone and Telegraph Co., 595 F.2d 1171 (9th Cir. 1979), cert. denied 444 U.S. 931, 100 S.Ct. 273 (1979). A mid-trial delay can be much more prejudicial than a pre-trial delay. Defendants prepared their case once two years ago. They would obviously be prejudiced if made to repeat all the prior preparation, search for previously available witnesses who may have moved, and so forth. Certainly they could not be blamed for assuming the plaintiff was not going forward when the order was not complied with after even a few months.

A fourth factor to be considered is the policy considerations relating to a court's need to manage its docket, the need for a speedy resolution of disputes, and the policy favoring disposition of cases on the merits. Citizens Utilities Co., 595 F.2d at 1174. Plaintiffs' delay has prevented a speedy resolution of the dispute. Furthermore, because the delay took place in mid-trial, the Court after a two-year hiatus would have to take time out from pending matters to review its cryptic trial notes or listen to the tapes of prior proceedings to refresh recollections that would not need refreshing if plaintiffs had acted within a reasonable time. The background of this case is extremely complex, involving earlier lawsuits taking place in the federal courts as well as the facts of the instant controversy. At the time of trial, the Court was conversant with all of it- but time has faded that recollection.

While the policy favoring disposition of cases on the merits usually works against dismissal for failure to prosecute, that is not necessarily the case when there has been a prolonged mid-trial delay. A trial court judge sitting as finder of fact is the exclusive judge of the credibility of the witnesses who have testified. See 6 G.C.A. § 2503. In evaluating the credibility of a witness, it is appropriate for the trier of fact to consider the witness' demeanor while testifying and the manner in which he or she testifies. California Jury Instructions Civil [BAJI] §2.20 (P. Richards 6th rev.ed.Supp. 1983). It is obviously almost impossible for a court to retain clear recollections of these factors after a two year delay, and these faded or lost recollections cannot be refreshed by a transcript or tape recording. While this may not be a factor in the current case due to the nature of plaintiffs' evidence, it is clear that prolonged mid-trial delay will usually prejudice a court's efforts to resolve fairly a dispute on the merits.

All of the above factors would also be considered by this Court in deciding whether or not to vacate a dismissal in a case such as the one now before it. While the above list of factors is not complete, it is sufficient to indicate what should be the result here. Plaintiffs' motion to vacate dismissal and schedule a trial date is denied.

SO ORDERED, dated this 28th day of November 1984.

JANET HEALY WEEKS, JUDGE
SUPERIOR COURT OF GUAM

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF GUAM
TERRITORY OF GUAM

IN THE MATTER OF THE GUARDIANSHIP AD LITEM OF	) SPECIAL ) PROCEEDINGS
KRISTINA BILLET CRUZ, a Minor,	) NO. SP 0052-89
By RICHARD G. CRUZ,	) PETITION FOR ) RATIFICATION
Petitioner.	) OF STOCK SALE

Petitioner, RICHARD G. CRUZ, respectfully represents:

1. Petitioner is the father of Kristina Billet Cruz ("Kristina"), his daughter, who resides in Tumon, Guam.

2. Kristina was born on February 23, 1975 in Honolulu, Hawaii.

3. On or about October 20, 1977, Petitioner made a gift in trust to Kristina of 855 shares on common stock (the "stock") in Guam Cable TV System ("Guam Cable") under the Guam Uniform to Minors Act. A true and correct copy of the stock certificate evidencing said gift is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

4. An error was made in not registering the stock certificate in the manner specified under Civil Code of Guam § 1156 (1974) Supp.). It was at all times the intention of the parties to have the stocks comply with the Guam Uniform Gifts to Minors Act.

5. On or about April 25 ,1979, petitioner pursuant to his authority under Civil Code § 1156.1(f) sold the stock to C. Ray Hassler and David W. Cassidy ("buyers") for $8,550.00, and has since reinvested the proceeds from the stock sale in trust for Kristina.

6. Guam Cable insists that as a condition for the stock to be re-issued in buyer's names, the stock sale be judicially confirmed. (See, Exhibit B attached hereto.)

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays that his sale of the stock be confirmed by the Court.

Respectfully submitted this ___ day of January, 1989.

MOORE, CHING, BOERTZEL & LAWLOR
A Professional Corporation
Counsel for Petitioner

By MIKEL W. SCHWAB
A Licensed Employee

VERIFICATION

TERRITORY OF GUAM)
CITY OF AGANA) ss:
)

I, RICHARD G. CRUZ, the Petitioner named herein, being first duly sworn, deposes and says that he has read the foregoing petitioner and knows the contents thereof, and that the same is true of his own knowledge and belief, and as to those matter he believes them to be true.

Dated this 22d day of August 1988.

RICHARD G. CRUZ

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF GUAM

TERRITORY OF GUAM

IN THE MATTER OF THE GUARDIANSHIP AD LITEM OF	)	SPECIAL PROCEED-INGS NO. SP 0052-89
KRISTINA BILLET CRUZ, a Minor, By RICHARD G. CRUZ, Petitioner.	)	JUDICIAL CONFIRMA-TION AND ORDER

WHEREAS, Petitioner, Richard G. Cruz, having petitioned this Court to ratify his sale of stock on April 25, 1979 to C. Ray Hassler and David W. Cassidy ("Buyers") for $8,550.00, and both the said minor and her mother, Ana Billett Cruz, having filed affidavits herein approving of the sale and the petition herein, and

WHEREAS, it has been established to the satisfaction of the Court that it was the intention of the petitioner to make a valid sale under the Guam Uniform Gift to Minors Act, pursuant to Civil Code § 1156.1(f) and in any event a special guardian approved by the court may transfer the property of a minor pursuant to Civil Code §§ 236, 240 and 251,

THEREFORE, in furtherance of the above findings and for good cause showing IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that:

1. the April 25, 1979 sale of 855 shares of stock in Guam Cable T.V. System to C. Ray Hassler and David W. Cassidy ("Buyers") is hereby judicially confirmed and ratified in every respect.

2. The stock transfer shall henceforth have the same rights and effects as a certificate registered in the manner specified under Civil Code of Guam § 1156 (1974 supp.), as was the intention of petitioner when conveying the stock.

SO ORDERED March 15, 1989.

Honorable Peter Siguenza
JUDGE, SUPERIOR COURT OF GUAM

S. "Cy" Unpingco,Esq.
Pacific Lawyers Group
111 N. Market St. 3rd flr.
San Jose, CA 95113
(408) 279-5734
Attorney for Plaintiffs

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF GUAM
TERRITORY OF GUAM

DAVID CASSIDY, RAY HASSLER, Plaintiffs,	) Case No. 216-90
vs.	) COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES
LEE M. HOLMES, WESTERN SYSTEMS, INC.,and Does One through Twenty, inclusive, Defendants.	) FRAUD,BREACH OF CONTRACT, BREACH OF FIDUCIARY DUTY, BREACH OF COVENANT OF GOOD FAITH

COMES NOW THE Plaintiffs, by and through their attorney S. "Cy" Unpingco, who allege as follows:

JURISDICTION

1. Jurisdiction is vested in the Superior Court of Guam, in that the defendants Corporation and its predecessors is a business entity doing business in the Territory of Guam, and Lee

Holmes is a resident of, or does business in, the Territory of Guam. Does One through Ten are the remaining directors and shareholders of the defendants corporation. Does Eleven through Twenty are not known to the plaintiffs, and plaintiffs will request to amend this complaint as soon as their identities are known. Plaintiffs are informed and believe that each Doe is also responsible for the acts alleged herein. The plaintiffs are valid shareholders and valid assignees of shares which have been assigned to them, with all the rights attached to said shares.

2. At all times herein mentioned, the plaintiffs have not had the opportunity to learn of the facts alleged herein until recently; the defendants and each of them had a duty to inform the plaintiffs of the true facts and conditions as described herein, and owed a fiduciary duty to plaintiffs to disclose financial and other pertinent information. Plaintiffs are informed and believe and thereon allege that the Defendants and each of them concealed the facts that they were under a duty to divulge.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

FRAUD AND OPPRESSION

Plaintiffs reallege and incorporates by reference paragraphs one and two, for this first distinct and separate cause of action.

3. The true names and capacities, whether individual, corporate or otherwise, of defendants Does one through twenty, inclusive, are unknown to plaintiffs, who therefore sue said defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiffs are informed and believe and thereon allege that each of the defendants designated herein by such fictitious names is in some manner responsible for the events and happenings referred to in this complaint and caused damages proximately and foreseeably thereby to plaintiffs as herein alleged inasmuch as they were shareholders, directors, to others as yet unknown, conspiring to deprive plaintiffs of their rightful shares.

4. The defendants and each of them were obligated to provide plaintiffs with notice and an opportunity to have a right of first refusal regarding the shares of defaulting shareholders under the terms and conditions between the original shareholders and the defendants and each of them. Plaintiffs have just been made aware that none of the other original shareholders of Guam Cable T.V. were given notice of whether other shareholders had defaulted, pursuant to the provisions of the contract entered into between the defendants and each of them and the original shareholders, particularly the contracts dated May 1971, July 20, 1971, and August 4, 1971. Defendants have not transferred shares due plaintiffs under this court's Special Proceeding number 0052-89.

5. The defendants and each of them were also obligated, pursuant to the contracts, particularly the contracts entered on July 20, 1971 and the contract executed on August 4, 1971, between the defendants and the original shareholders of Guam Cable T.V., to offer fifteen per cent of Guam Cable T.V. after the loan to GEDA had been paid. Plaintiffs have only discovered recently that said loan was paid, but have no information as to the exact date when. When plaintiff discovers the exact dates of said payment, plaintiffs will seek leave to amend this complaint.

6. Plaintiffs are informed and believe and thereon allege that the defendants had full knowledge of their promises pursuant to their contractual provisions, but had no intention of fulfilling them; said contractual provisions constitute the representations made, and the plaintiffs allege that the defendants and each of them had no intention of fulfilling their promises, said representations constituting fraud.

7. Plaintiffs are informed and believe and thereon allege that the defendants and each of them had full knowledge of their promises pursuant to their contractual provisions, but concealed their true promises pursuant to their contractual provisions, but concealed their true intention, that is, they concealed their intentions not to fulfill their promises, and in fact intended not to fulfill their promises as stated in the contracts referred to herein.

8. Plaintiffs are informed and believe and thereon allege that the defendants and each of them had full knowledge of their duties and obligations under the contracts referred to herein, but willfully and intentionally concealed the facts they were obligated to disclose as alleged herein; said concealment constituted fraud through concealment of facts the defendants were required to disclose.

9. Plaintiffs are informed and believe and thereon allege that the defendants and each of them did each of the acts as alleged herein, intentionally and maliciously, with intent to oppress the original shareholders and their assignees, including the plaintiffs.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION

BREACH OF FIDUCIARY DUTY

Plaintiffs reallege paragraphs 1 through 9 for this second and separate and distinct cause of action.

10. The agreements described herein established a fiduciary duty to deal fairly with the original shareholders and their assignees. The failure of the defendants to disclose facts they were obligated to disclose, and their failure to offer the shares to the original shareholders and their assignees as described in the contracts, particularly but not exclusively, the July 20, 1971 and the august 4, 1971 agreements, constituted a breach of the fiduciary duty of the defendants and each of them.

11. By engaging in the deliberate, wilful, malicious and oppressive conduct as described herein, and by engaging in a deliberate campaign to eliminate the interests of the original shareholders, the defendants and each of them breached their fiduciary duty to deal fairly with the original shareholders and their assignees. Plaintiffs are informed and believe and thereon allege that the defendants and each of them absconded with the income, and other benefits owed to the minority shareholders, and appropriated the income and other benefits for their personal use to the detriment of the minority shareholders and their assignees.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION

BREACH OF CONTRACT

Plaintiffs reallege paragraphs 1 through 11, for this third separate and distinct cause of action.

12. The May 1971, July 20, 1971, and the August 4, 1971 agreements established the obligations of the defendants and each of them.

13. By failing to offer a right of first refusal of the shares of defaulting shareholders to non-defaulting shareholders, the defendants breached their contractual obligations.

14. The defendants and each of them breached their contractual duties by failing to offer 15% of the shares to the original shareholders after the GEDA loan had been paid as provided in the contractual agreements of May of 1971, July 10, 1971, and August 4, 1971.

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION

BREACH OF THE IMPLIED COVENANT OF GOOD FAITH AND FAIR DEALING

Plaintiffs reallege paragraphs 1 through 14 for this second separate and distinct cause of action.

15. The plaintiffs are informed and believe that the defendants and each of them intentionally and wilfully refused to comply with the provisions of the contracts described herein.

16. The plaintiffs are informed and believe that the defendants and each of them intended not to comply with the terms and conditions of the contract, in bad faith and without probable cause.

FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION

SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE

Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference paragraphs one through sixteen for this fifth and distinct cause of action.

17. Plaintiffs allege that the contracts described herein provide the basis of a cause of action for specific performance, and the plaintiff's remedies at law are inadequate with respect to the duty of the defendants to offer the shares that were due to the original shareholders who were not in default, and also with respect to the 15% that was due to the original shareholders after the payment of the GEDA loan. Plaintiffs are informed and believe and thereon allege that damages are difficult to calculate given the span of time and information not yet available.

18. Plaintiffs request that the defendants and each of them, comply with the provisions of the contracts and grant 30% of Guam Cable Television to the plaintiffs and other original shareholders according to their pro rata portion of shares held at the time the contracts were executed, plus interest, and appreciation in value.

SIXTH CAUSE OF ACTION

CONSPIRACY

Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate paragraphs one through 18, for this sixth separate and distinct cause of action.

19. The plaintiffs are informed and believe and thereon allege that the defendants and each of them, including the doe defendants, conspired in a joint effort to deny the plaintiffs the benefits of their contractual, common law and statutory rights.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray:

1. For general and compensatory damages according to proof;

2. For punitive damages where permitted by law;

3. For attorneys fees and costs;

4. Specific Performance according to the terms of the contracts,

5. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem proper.

JURY DEMAND

Plaintiffs request a trial by jury as to all causes that can be tried by a jury.

Date: 2/20/90

S."Cy"Unpingco,Esq.

Law Offices
KLEMM, BLAIR,STERLING & JOHNSON
A professional Corporation
Suite 1008 Pacific News Building
238 Archbishop F.C. Flores Street
Agana, Guam 96910

July 26, 1989

HAND DELIVER

Moore, Ching, Boertzel & Lawlor
A Professional Corporation
Suite 400, GCIC Building
414 West Soledad Avenue
Agana, Guam 96910

Re: Transfer of Guam Cable Stock from Cruz to Messrs. Hassler and Cassidy

Gentlemen:

This letter is in response to the letter written by Mikel W. Schwab to Mr. Lee Holmes dated June 28, 1989. I understand that Mr. Schwab is no longer with your firm and, accordingly, I have addressed this letter to the firm.

Mr. Schwab's letter essentially requests that the corporation, which is now known as Western Systems, Inc., cancel the certificate and issue a new certificate in favor of C. Ray Hassler and David W. Cassidy. The stock certificate in question is number 1214 for 855 shares and was issued to "Richard G. Cruz as Trustee for Kristina Billet Cruz." When a request was made to transfer the shares to Hassler and Cassidy back in 1980, the corporation refused to do so in the absence of a court order because the actual owner or beneficiary of the stock was a minor and there was no indication that Mr. Cruz had authority to transfer this minor's personal property.

This problem has apparently now, some nine years later, been resolved by the "Judicial Confirmation and Order"dated March 15, 1989 in Special Proceeding No. 0052-89. This order purports to confirm and ratify the transfer and provides, in part, as follows:

The stock transfer shall henceforth have the same rights and effects as a certificate registered in a manner specified under Civil Code of Guam Section 1156 (1974 Supp.) as was the intention of petitioner when conveying the stock.

Unfortunately, the endorsement on the certificate is ineffective because Mr. Cruz endorsed it by signing the name Richard G. Cruz. There is no further language that he is signing it in his fiduciary capacity as trustee for Kristina Billet Cruz. Therefore, this endorsement fails to comply with the requirements set forth in the stock certificate adjacent to the place where he signed, which reads as follows:

NOTICE. The signature of this assignment must correspond with the name as written upon the face of the certificate, in every particular, without alteration or enlargement or any change whatsoever.

With regard to the time or effective date that the certificate of stock could be sold, transferred or hypothecated, Mr. Schwab correctly pointed out the language of the stock certificate itself in his letter of June 28th which is as follows:

Certificates of stock may be sold, transferred or hypothecated by endorsement or separate deed, but the company shall not consider any transfer effective until the endorsed certificate is submitted for cancellation and a new one is issued in the name of the transferee.

Therefore, in our case, the transfer from Cruz to Hassler and Cassidy will not be effective until such time as the certificate is properly endorsed and submitted for cancellation.

Since the original attempt in 1980 to have these shares of stock transferred from the minor to Hassler and Cassidy, there have been other changes in the corporate structure of Guam Cable TV. The shares of stock of Western Systems, Inc., are now subject to restrictions on transfer contained in the Articles of Incorporation and By-laws which give the corporation the right of first refusal.

The purpose of this letter is to advise you that Western Systems, Inc., does exercise its right of first refusal and is prepared to pay the sum of $8,550 (the amount set forth in the Judicial Confirmation and Order) to Messrs. Hassler and Cassidy.

I would like to have an opportunity to discuss this matter with the attorney who will be handling the file. Please give me a call within the near future.

Very truly yours,

KLEMM, BLAIR, STERLING & JOHNSON
A Professional Corporation

J. Bradley Klemm

Supreme Court, U.S.
FILED

No. 92-1364

IN THE
Supreme Court of the United States
October Term, 1992

DAVID CASSIDY and RAY HASSLER,

Petitioners,

-v.-

WESTERN SYSTEMS, INC. and LEE M. HOLMES,

Respondents.

Brief in Opposition To Petition for a Writ of Certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit

BRIEF IN OPPOSITION

MARK SNYDER HOLMES
Counsel of Record for Respondents
530 West O'Brien Drive
Agana, Guam 96910
Telephone: (671) 477-7816/7/8

VERNON F.L. CHAR
CHAR SAKAMOTO ISHII & LUM
841 Bishop Street, Suite 850
Honolulu, Hawaii 96813
Telephone: (808) 522-5133

Counsel for Respondents

DICK BAILEY SERVICE (212) 608-7666 (718) 447-5358 (516) 222-2470 (914) 682-0848 Fax: (718) 273-8031
1-800-564-4918

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Did the district abuse its discretion in enjoining a suit filed ten years after the final federal judgments ended litigation of the same claims made by the petitioners' assignor?

2. Did the district court's injunction against relitigation of claims already litigated and barred by res judicata violate petitioners' First Amendment rights to petition the courts for redress, and their Fifth Amendment rights to due process?

3. Did the district court abuse its discretion in finding the petitioners guilty of bad faith when they sought to relitigate in 1990 claims resolved ten years earlier in two federal district court trials and three appeals to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals?

PARTIES

Pursuant to Rule 29.1, Western Systems, Inc. subsidiaries are wholly owned. Western Systems, Inc. has no parent.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

QUESTIONS PRESENTED FOR REVIEW i

PARTIES ii

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES v

OPINIONS BELOW 1

JURISDICTION 2

STATUTES INVOLVED 3

STATEMENT OF FACTS 3

ARGUMENT 10

I. The Present Case Does Not Warrant Review By This Court 10

]

II. The Ninth Circuit's Decision is Consistent With This Court's Opinion in Chick Kam Choo v. Exxon 11

A. The Exxon v. Chick Kam Choo Decision 12

B. General Discussion of Claim and Issue Preclusion Principles 14

C. The Present Case Does Not Conflict With Chick Kam Choo 16

III. Other Circuit Decisions Cited by the Petitioners Do Not Conflict With the Ninth Circuit's Opinion 20

IV. The Petitioners' Constitutional Rights Have Not Been Violated 22

V. The District Court's Award of Sanctions Was Proper 23

CONCLUSION 24

APPENDIX 25

Ulloa v. Guam Econ. Dev. Auth., Civ. No. 24-72 (D. Guam Feb. 16, 1977) ..... C1[1]

Guam Econ. Dev. Auth. v. Ulloa, Civ. No. 197-72 (D. Guam Nov. 18, 1977) C38, C47

Cruz v. Guam Econ. Dev. Auth., Civ. No. 72-3159 (9th Cir. March 21, 1974) C58

Ulloa v. Guam Econ. Dev. Auth., 580 F.2d 952 (9th Cir. 1978) C61

[1] The designations "A" and "B" have been used by Petitioners in both their original and subsequent "expanded" filing. To avoid further confusion, Respondents have used "C" in pagination of their Opposition.

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

Cases

American Town Center v. Hall 83 Assocs., 912 F.2d 104 (6th Cir. 1990) 20

Brown v. Felsen,
442 U.S. 127, 99 S. Ct. 2205,
60 L. Ed. 2d 767 (1979) 18

Browning Debenture Holders' Comm. v.
DASA Corp.,
605 F.2d 35 (2d Cir. 1978) 19

Chambers v. Nasco, Inc., 111 S. Ct. 2123 (1991) 23

Chick Kam Choo v. Exxon Corp.,
486 U.S. 140 (1988) 0, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20

DeCosme v. Sea Containers, Ltd.,
874 F.2d 66 (1st Cir. 1989) 22

Farias v. Bexar County Bd. of Trustees,
925 F.2d 866 (5th Cir. 1991) 20

In re G.S.F. Corp.,
938 F.2d 1467 (1st Cir. 1991) 20

Guam Economic Development Authority v.Ulloa,
628 F.2d 1356 (9th Cir. 1980) 7

LCS Service, Inc. v. Hamrick,
925 F.2d 745 (4th Cir. 1991) 20

Migra v. Warren City School Dist. Bd.of Educ., 465 U.S. 75, 104 S. Ct. 892,
79 L. Ed. 2d 56 (1984) 12

Mitchum v. Foster,
407 U.S. 225 (1972) 19

Mizokami Bros. of Arizona v. Mobay Chem. Corp., 660 F.2d 712 (8th Cir. 1981) 15, 16

Montana v. United States,
440 U.S. 147 (1979) 14

Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co. v.Burke,
897 F.2d 734 (4th Cir. 1990) 21

Nevada v. United States,
463 U.S. 110, 103 S. Ct. 2906,
77 L. Ed. 2d 509 (1983) 18

Parklane Hosiery Co., Inc. v. Shore,
439 U.S. 322, 99 S. Ct. 645,
58 L. Ed. 2d 552 (1979) 15

Parsons v. Chesapeake & Ohio Ry. Co.,
375 U.S. 71 (1963) 16

Riverdale Cotton Mills v. Alabama & Georgia Mfr. Co., 198 U.S. 188 (1905) 11

Samuel C. Ennis & Co., Inc. v. Woodmar Realty Co., 542 F.2d 45 (7th Cir. 1976) 19

Staffer v. Bouchard Trans. Co., Inc., 878 F.2d 638 (2d Cir. 1989) 21

Toucey v. New York Life Ins. Co.,
314 U.S. 118 (1941) 19

Ulloa v. Guam Econ. Dev. Auth.,
580 F.2d 952 (9th Cir. 1978) 6

Statutes

28 U.S.C. § 1651 3

28 U.S.C. § 2283 . . . . . 3, 12, 23

Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(b) 19

Miscellaneous

Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 17 15

Restatement (Second) of Judgments §19 14

Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 20 15,

16

Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 24(1) . . . 17

Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 25 18

Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 27 15

Supreme Court Rule 14.1 3

No. 92-1364

IN THE

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT

OCTOBER TERM, 1992

DAVID CASSIDY and RAY HASSLER,

Petitioners

-- v. --

WESTERN SYSTEMS, INC. and LEE M. HOLMES,

Respondents

Brief in Opposition To Petition for a Writ of Certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit

---

BRIEF IN OPPOSITION

OPINIONS BELOW

In this case there have been two trials in the United States District Court for the District of Guam, an evidentiary injunction hearing, and four appeals to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. The previous opinions are as follows:

1. The unpublished February 16, 1977 decision in Ulloa v. Guam Economic Dev. Auth., United States District Court for the District of Guam, Civ. No. 24-72, Appendix at C1[1].

---

[1] The designations "A" and "B" have been used by petitioners in both their original and subsequent "expanded" filing. To avoid further confusion, respondents have used "C" in pagination of their Opposition.

2. The unpublished November 18, 1977 decision and judgment in Guam Economic Dev. Auth. v. Ulloa, United States District Court for the District of Guam, Civ. No. 197-72, Appendix at C38 & C47.

3. The March 21, 1974 memorandum opinion of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, Civ. No. 72-3159, denying Cruz's appeal of the disqualification of his counsel, Appendix at C58..

4. Ulloa v. Guam Economic Dev. Auth., 580 F.2d 952 (9th Cir. 1978), affirming the district court's decision in Civ. No. 24-72, Appendix at C61.

5. Guam Economic Dev. Auth. v. Ulloa, 628 F.2d 1356 (9th Cir. 1980), affirming without published decision the district court's decision in Civ. No. 197-72.

6. The unpublished October 4, 1990 decision in Guam Economic Dev. Auth. v. Ulloa, United States District Court for the District of Guam, Civ. No. 197-72, enjoining the petitioners from relitigating their claims in the local Guam court. Petitioners' Appendix at 1B.

7. Western Systems, Inc. v. Cassidy, No. 90-16524, (9th Cir. March 30, 1992) the unpublished memorandum opinion affirming the injunction against the petitioners. Petitioners' Appendix at 1A.

JURISDICTION

This certiorari petition was due on November 25, 1992 (90 days after the Ninth Circuit's denial of rehearing on August 26, 1992), and petitioners attempted to file their petition on that day. Due to several clerical defects, the Office of the Clerk returned the petition pursuant to S.Ct. Rule 33.7. See Letter to Mr. Unpingco dated November 25, 1992.

Instead of fixing their clerical errors, petitioners misused the second chance given to them by the Court to attempt to expand on the issues presented to the Court for review. They have rewritten the questions on appeal, reorganized their arguments in the first 18 pages, added 17 pages of new arguments, and added 12 documents to the Appendix that are not properly includable under S.Ct. Rule 14.1(k).

Accordingly, we request that the Court either disregard or strike the new arguments added after the fact by the petitioners, or dismiss the petition altogether. See, S.Ct. Rule 33.7. Sanctions against petitioners may also be in order.

STATUTES INVOLVED

"The Supreme Court and all courts established by Act of Congress may issue all writs necessary or appropriate in aid of their respective jurisdictions and agreeable to the usages and principles of law." 28 U.S.C. § 1651.

"A court of the United States may not grant an injunction to stay proceedings in a State court except as expressly authorized by Act of Congress, or where necessary in aid of its jurisdiction, or to protect or effectuate its judgments." 28 U.S.C. § 2283.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The present petition closely parallels a petition for certiorari denied by the Court on January 11, 1993 in Richard Ulloa and David Ulloa v. Western Systems, Inc., et al., Supreme Court No. 92-715. The present petitioners, Cassidy and Hassler, are assignees of Richard Cruz. Cruz was a former shareholder of Marianas Communications System, Inc. ("MCS"), now named Western Systems, Inc. ("WSI"), the principal respondent herein. Cruz was a party and was represented by the same counsel as the Ulloa petitioners in the prior federal MCS shareholder litigation. Thus, the facts and arguments in the Ulloa petition and the present case overlap considerably; the reasons why certiorari is inappropriate in this case are the same reasons expressed in respondents' Opposition to Petition for Certiorari filed in Case No. 92-715 on December 15, 1992.

Cruz and others formed MCS in 1968 for the purpose of providing cable TV service in the territory of Guam. Although Cruz received 3,600 shares of MCS stock, he "failed to pay any legal consideration for [his] shares." Nov. 18, 1977 Order at 7, Respondents' Appendix at C44. Cruz also misrepresented on the corporate records that he had paid for his shares. February 16, 1977 Opinion at 2, Respondents' Appendix at C3. Instead of his own capital, Cruz and others issued stock to themselves in return for obtaining a loan guaranteed by a government agency, the Guam Economic Development Agency (GEDA). February 16, 1977 Opinion at 3, Respondents' Appendix at C3. By May 1971 "the company was indisputedly in grave financial trouble and was insolvent." Id.

To keep the company alive, GEDA agreed to take over MCS and its debt. On May 21, 1971, Cruz and the other shareholders sold their stock to GEDA, retaining a "collective" right of first refusal if GEDA resold the stock. Cruz falsely warranted to GEDA that the shares were "validly issued and fully paid for." Id. at 30, Respondents' Appendix at C33.

GEDA approached respondent Holmes as a prospective buyer of the company. Id. at 6, Respondents' Appendix at C6. As a precondition to Holmes' purchase, on July 20, 1971 most of the former shareholders signed a contract giving up their rights of first refusal in exchange for certain MCS stock options. Cruz did not sign the agreement. Nevertheless, Judge Duenas and the Ninth Circuit later held he was bound by it because he accepted its benefits. Feb. 16, 1977 Decision at 27, Respondents' Appendix at C31.

The stock purchase options were subsequently detailed in an "Agreement For Sale of MCS Stock," dated August 4, 1971. Although petitioners now claim the May, July, and August 1971 contracts "are not related in 'time, space, origin, or motivation', and their treatment as a unit does not conform to the parties' expectations or business understanding or usage," Petition at 22, in fact the August 4, 1971 contract incorporated by reference the prior May and July contracts, which were attached as exhibits. Feb. 28, 1977 Order at 10-11.

In paragraph 1 of the August 4, 1971 contract Holmes agreed to purchase 70% of MCS stock for $2 a share. In paragraph 2, MCS agreed to "make available" 15% of its stock to the former shareholders, including Cruz, for $1 a share. In paragraph 3, GEDA agreed to offer the remaining 15% of MCS stock in equal amounts to 5 persons, not including Cruz, for $4 a share (plus a 10% increase each year) when the MCS debt to GEDA was "repaid in full." Id. at 6-12.

Following the August 4th agreement, Cruz deliberated whether to purchase his MCS shares. Id. at 12. On October 13, 1971, he paid $570 and received his 570 shares. Cruz did not request to buy any of the MCS shares which the other shareholders declined to purchase. Oct. 4, 1990 Opinion at 4, Appendix at 7B.

Thereafter, Holmes invested personally or obtained the investment of $219,000 in new capital for MCS, "moved himself and his family to Guam," "devoted his constant labor to MCS," and "personally guaranteed loans to MCS." Feb. 16, 1977 Decision at 30-32, Respondents' Appendix at C35. As a result of "incurr[ing] large cash liabilities and considerable time, effort and reputation on the part of Holmes," MCS "turned around, reached the breakeven point and was faced with the prospects of a bright future." Id. at 32.

On February 28, 1972, Cruz, and other former shareholders, filed suit in the Guam federal district court against GEDA and Holmes to recover their shares of MCS stock. Cruz v. Guam Economic Dev. Auth., Civ. No. 24-72. All three 1971 contracts were attached to Cruz's complaint.

On November 28, 1972, GEDA, Holmes and MCS sued Cruz for his breach of warranty in the 1971 contracts, and to collect his unpaid stock subscriptions. Guam Economic Dev. Auth. v. Ulloa, Civil No. 19-72. The complaint specifically referred to the 1971 contracts. During the discovery phase of these two cases, "Cruz had ample opportunity to learn of all stock transactions by MCS." Oct. 4, 1990 Order at 6, petitioners' appendix at 10B.

Cruz' suit, Civ. No. 24-72, went to trial in 1975. Cruz's rights to purchase MCS shares pursuant to the August 4, 1971 agreement were the subject of frequent testimony. 24-72 Tr. at 654-56, 1141-42, 1151-54, 1235-38. On February 16, 1977, the district court issued a 34 page opinion that rejected all claims made by Cruz, and found that he "lack[ed] clean hands," "received shares of stock contrary to law," and was guilty of "wrongful acts." Id. at 30-32, Respondents' Appendix at C32 (emphasis added). Cruz appealed. The Ninth Circuit affirmed on all grounds. Ulloa v. Guam Economic Dev. Auth., 580 F.2d 952 (9th Cir. 1978), Respondents' Appendix at C61.

The watered stock case against Cruz, Civil No. 197-72, was tried before a jury in September, 1977. Cruz's rights to MCS stock were discussed often during the trial. 197-72 Tr. 355, 380-83, 495, 523, 539-40, 763-64. The Court found Cruz liable for watered stock because "none of the above defendants [including Cruz] paid valid legal consideration for these shares." Nov. 18, 1977 Order at 3, Respondents' Appendix at C41. On November 18, 1977, a judgment in the amount of $36,000 was entered against Cruz. Respondents' Appendix at C40. Cruz appealed. The decision was affirmed by the Ninth Circuit without published opinion. Guam Economic Dev. Auth. v. Ulloa, 628 F.2d 1356 (9th Cir. 1980). Cruz settled the judgment for $10,000 in March, 1985.

Cruz allegedly transferred some portion of his MCS shares in 1979 to petitioners Cassidy and Hassler. On April 7, 1980, Cassidy and Hassler filed suit against WSI and Holmes in the Guam Superior Court. Cassidy v. Western Systems, et al., Guam Superior Court, CV No. 250-80. They alleged that Cruz was denied the MCS shares not purchased by his former shareholders in violation of paragraph 2 of the August 4, 1971 agreement -- the precise claim enjoined by the District Court below. In 1984, the claim was dismissed for failure to prosecute. Cassidy and Hassler did not appeal. Oct. 4, 1990 Opinion at 7.

Despite the final orders by the federal and Guam courts in Civil Nos. 24-72, 197-72, and 250-80, Cassidy and Hassler sued WSI and Holmes again in the Guam Superior Court on February 28, 1990. Cassidy v. Western Systems, Inc. et al., Guam Superior Court, CV No. 216-90, In CV 216-90, Cassidy and Hassler contend that Cruz was denied his "right of first refusal regarding the shares of defaulting shareholders" under paragraph 2 of the August 4, 1971 agreement. They admit that "plaintiff's rights stem from a number of agreements, central among which was the contract executed on August 4, 1971 between the defendants and the original shareholders." They contend that they "have had no opportunity to learn the facts alleged herein until recently," despite litigating the same claims in the federal and Guam courts since 1972.

On October 4, 1990, the district court enjoined Cassidy and Hassler from pursuing the claims filed in Civ. No. 216-90. The court held that Cruz could have and should have sued in either Civ. No. 24-72 or 197-72 for any MCS shares he felt entitled to under the July 20, 1971 or August 4, 1971 agreements:

> [Cruz] knew in 1971 that the August 4th agreement gave him a right to any $1 shares that were refused by other shareholders, and that other shareholders could purchase his $1 shares if he refused to buy them. He had the same attorney as the Ulloas. He, as well as the Ulloas, did not sue for these shares, instead preferring to challenge other aspects of the August 4th agreement.
>
> . . .
>
> The obvious thrust of CV 216-90 is the July and August 4, 1971 agreements. Cruz had a full and fair opportunity for fourteen years to litigate his claims arising from the 1971 agreements in Civ. Nos. 24-72 and 197-72. Further litigation of his claims by his assignees Cassidy and Hassler is barred.

Oct. 4, 1990 Order at 7, 11. In addition, the court held that the Guam case had been filed by Cassidy and Hassler in bad faith:

> [A]ny claims Cassidy and Hassler had for additional $1 stock were conclusively decided by the Guam Superior Court in Cassidy v. Western Systems, Inc., et al., CV 250-80. In that case, they expressly asserted their rights to additional $1 stock under paragraph 2, and lost the case. Filing the same claims again in CV 216-90 is nothing but harassment and refusal to accept the judgments of the federal and Guam courts.

Id. at 11.

The Ninth Circuit affirmed the injunction order in a memorandum opinion filed on March 30, 1992. Petitioners' Appendix at 1A. The court held that Cassidy and Hassler's claims were barred by res judicata and relitigation of their claims was properly enjoined by the district court:

> Cassidy and Hassler contend that the relitigation exception does not apply to their action because there was a final judgment on the merits in their previous action in Guam Superior Court, which was dismissed for failure to prosecute. Cassidy and Hassler admit, however, that they "stand in the shoes" of Richard Cruz, who was a party to the previous federal litigation.... Thus, they are bound by the res judicata effect of the previous judgments against Cruz.

Petitioners' Appendix at 6A. The Ninth Circuit court further held that sanctions were warranted:

> The district court here found that Cassidy and Hassler exhibited bad faith by continuing their > litigation after the Ulloas' identical claims were rejected. We agree, and affirm the award of sanctions.

Petitioners' Appendix at 7A. Cruz' petition for rehearing and suggestion for rehearing en banc was denied on August 26, 1992. Cruz now seeks a writ of certiorari from this Court.

ARGUMENT

I. The Present Case Does Not Warrant Review By This Court

The present case is not appropriate for review by writ of certiorari. This is not a case of common application that would give guidance to the lower federal courts in the interpretation of the Anti-Injunction Act and Chick Kam Choo v. Exxon Corp., 486 U.S. 140 (1988). In this case petitioners' assignor was a party to two trials and three appeals in the federal courts. The federal litigation began in 1972 and ended in 1980 with a $36,000 judgment against Cruz. Cruz settled the judgment against him in 1985. Five years later petitioners attempted to relitigate in the Guam court the same claims that were decided by the federal litigation.

The petitioners have suffered no injustice. Their assignor Cruz had unclean hands, and was guilty of "misrepresenting the value of the corporation's capital unlawfully," and "wrongful acts." Feb. 16, 1977 Order at 30-32, Respondents' Appendix at C34. Filing the same claims in Guam court "is nothing but harassment and refusal to accept the judgments of the federal and Guam courts." Oct. 4, 1990 Order at 11, Petitioners' Appendix at 21B. The only injustice in this case has been suffered by respondents, who have endured more than twenty years of, in the District Court's words, "vindictive litigation" with Cruz and his assignees over the 1971 contracts. Id. at 11-12.

The relitigation exception to the Anti-Injunction Act would be meaningless if the federal courts were powerless to protect parties who prevail after eight years of federal litigation from further litigation ten years later of the same claims in local courts. "It is always to be understood that Federal tribunals are not moot courts, and that parties having substantial rights must when brought before those tribunals present those rights or may lose them." Riverdale Cotton Mills v. Alabama & Georgia Mfg. Co., 198 U.S. 188, 202 (1905). Despite some controversy as to the precise scope of injunctions allowable under the Act, nothing detracts from the common sense conclusion of the district and circuit courts that this litigation should be over.

Cases similar to the present one are fortunately uncommon. The petitioners' bad faith, their petulant refusal to accept the judgments of the federal courts, and their attempt to use the local court to obtain the stock denied by the federal courts are egregious circumstances. This case does not deserve further review.

II. The Ninth Circuit's Decision is Consistent With This Court's Opinion in Chick Kam Choo v. Exxon

The core of petitioners' certiorari application is their contention that the Ninth Circuit's opinion is inconsistent with this Court's opinion in Chick Kam Choo v. Exxon, 486 U.S. 140 (1988). In fact, both opinions are harmonious. Petitioners have simply confused issue preclusion with claim preclusion.[2] Chick Kam Choo was a forum non conveniens

---

[2] Because there is some confusion in the terminology used by various courts, in this brief we use "claim preclusion" case in which there was no final judgment on the merits in the federal court; Cruz's claim for MCS stock was litigated over eight years to a final judgment. Chick Kam Choo was an issue preclusion case, while the present case is a claim preclusion case. This simple distinction disposes of petitioners' arguments.

A. The Exxon v. Chick Kam Choo Decision

In Chick Kam Choo, a federal district court, after determining that Singapore law governed a foreign seaman's claims, dismissed the suit on forum non conveniens grounds. The plaintiff then filed an action in Texas state court. Relying on the relitigation exception to the Anti-Injunction Act, which allows a district court to enjoin state court proceedings when an injunction is "necessary in aid of its jurisdiction, or to protect or effectuate its judgments," 28 U.S.C. § 2283, the district court enjoined the plaintiff from litigating the merits of the case in the Texas court. The Supreme Court reversed.

This Court began its analysis by noting that the Anti-Injunction Act "is founded in the well recognized concepts of res judicata and collateral estoppel." 486 U.S. at 147 (emphasis added). "[A]n essential prerequisite for applying the relitigation exception" continued the Court, "is that the claims or issues which the federal injunction insulates from litigation in state proceedings actually have been decided by the federal court." 486 U.S. at 148 (emphasis added).

(often, but not always, called res judicata) and "issue preclusion" (often called collateral estoppel) as those terms are used in the Restatement (Second) of Judgments. See discussion in Migra v. Warren City School District Board of Education, 465 U.S. 75, 77 n.1, 104 S.Ct. 892, 79 L.Ed.2d 56 (1984).

This Court held that the district court's injunction was overbroad because it precluded the plaintiff from litigating her Singapore law claims in the Texas state courts. Claim preclusion was not applicable because "[t]he District Court did not resolve the merits of [the Singapore law] claim in its 1980 order. Rather, the only issue decided by the District Court was that petitioner's claims should be dismissed under the federal forum non conveniens doctrine." 486 U.S. at 148.

Issue preclusion, however, was applicable and the district court's injunction properly precluded further litigation of issues decided by the federal court. "Because in its 1980 decision the District Court decided that Singapore law must control petitioner's lawsuit, a decision that necessarily precludes the application of Texas law, an injunction preventing relitigation of that issue in state court is within the scope of the relitigation exception to the Anti-Injunction Act." 486 U.S. at 150.

Petitioners extrapolate from the words "actually have been decided," 486 U.S. at 148, the theory that Chick Kam Choo restricted the relitigation exception of the Anti-Injunction Act to issue preclusion cases only. Under their theory, a federal court that renders a final judgment has authority under The Anti-Injunction Act to enjoin relitigation of issues barred by issue preclusion, but not relitigation of claims barred by claim preclusion. Nothing in Chick Kam Choo expressly states this theory, and it contradicts this Court's express recognition that the relitigation exception to the Anti-Injunction Act "is founded in the well recognized concepts of res judicata and collateral estoppel," and allows an injunction of "claims or issues ... decided by the federal court." Chick Kam Choo, 486 U.S. at 147-48 (emphasis added).

B. General Discussion of Claim and Issue Preclusion Principles

The petitioners' argument confuses the doctrines of claim preclusion (sometimes called res judicata) and issue preclusion (sometimes called collateral estoppel). Briefly, the doctrine of claim preclusion provides that "a valid and final personal judgment rendered in favor of the defendant bars another action by the plaintiff on the same claim." Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 19. Claim preclusion does not apply to cases dismissed on grounds of forum non conveniens, however, such as Chick Kam Choo. This exception is stated in § 20 of the Restatement (Second) of Judgments:

> (1) A personal judgment for the defendant, although valid and final, does not bar another action by the plaintiff on the same claim:
>
> (a) When the judgment is one of dismissal ... for improper venue....

As the Comment to the Restatement (Second) explains:

> Ordinarily, after a judgment is rendered in an action, the claim is extinguished by the judgment's bar or merger effect, and therefore it is impossible to maintain a subsequent action on the claim. But there are exceptions. For example, when a judgment for the defendant is based on lack of jurisdiction, improper venue, or nonjoinder or misjoinder of parties, the plaintiff is not precluded from maintaining another action on the claim.

Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 17, Comment c (emphasis added).

Issue preclusion, on the other hand, precludes relitigation of issues actually litigated:

> When an issue of fact or law is actually litigated and determined by a valid and final judgment, and the determination is essential to the judgment, the determination is conclusive in a subsequent action between the parties, whether on the same or a different claim.

Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 27; Parklane Hosiery Co., Inc. v. Shore, 439 U. S. 322, 326 n.5, 99 S.Ct. 645, 58 L.Ed.2d 552 (1979); Montana v. United States, 440 U.S. 147, 153 (1979).

While the rules of claim preclusion do not apply to cases like Chick Kam Choo dismissed on grounds of forum non conveniens, the rules of issue preclusion do apply. The Comment to Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 20 makes this clear:

> The rules of issue preclusion (see §§ 27, 28) apply to a valid and final personal judgment for the defendant even though the judgment is one which, under this Section [listing exceptions to the general rule of claim preclusion], does not bar another action on the same claim.

See, Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 20, Illustration 1 at 171.

In Mizokami Bros. of Arizona v. Mobay Chem. Corp., 660 F.2d 712 (8th Cir. 1981), the plaintiff's suit in the District of Arizona was dismissed against one defendant on forum non conveniens grounds. The plaintiff then refiled in the Western District of Missouri. The Eighth Circuit held that claim preclusion did not apply to the forum non conveniens dismissal:

> In the present case the applicable res judicata principle is issue preclusion. Because there has been no judgment on the merits of Mizokami's claim, a second action is not barred by the rules of claim preclusion. [citations omitted] The prior forum non conveniens dismissal precludes relitigation of only those issues of law and fact actually litigated and necessary to the [prior court's] decision.

660 F. 2d at 715 (emphasis added); see also, Parsons v. Chesapeake & Ohio Ry. Co., 375 U.S. 71 (1963). Similarly, in Chick Kam Choo further litigation of issues actually litigated was barred by issue preclusion, there was no basis for claim preclusion.

C. The Present Case Does Not Conflict With Chick Kam Choo

With these principles in mind, the distinction between Chick Kam Choo, a case dismissed for forum non conveniens reasons, and the present case, a case litigated to final judgment over eight years, becomes apparent. In Chick Kam Choo, the district court's injunction was overbroad because the case had been dismissed on forum non conveniens grounds; thus, issue preclusion applied but not claim preclusion. The forum non conveniens dismissal in Chick Kam Choo "preclude[d] relitigation of only those issues of law and fact actually litigated and necessary to the [court's] decision." Mizokami Bros. of Arizona v. Mobay Chem. Corp., 660 F.2d 712, 715

(8th Cir. 1981); Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 20(1)(a).

The injunction approved by this Court in Chick Kam Choo went as far as the law of claim and issue preclusion allowed: litigation of the Singapore law claim was not barred by claim preclusion, but the choice of Singapore law issue was issue preclusion and could not be relitigated in the state court. In short, the district court's injunction in Chick Kam Choo was overbroad because it violated the principles of claim and issue preclusion; this Court did not hold, as petitioners suggest, that the relitigation exception is inapplicable in all claim preclusion cases.

An entirely different situation is presented in the present case. Although the petitioners claim there has been no final judgment on Cruz's claims, the merits of the 1971 contracts were litigated in two trials and three appeals. Thus, his assignees' claim in the Guam court for more MCS stock based on the same 1971 contracts is barred by claim preclusion:

> When a valid and final judgment rendered in an action extinguishes the plaintiff's claim pursuant to the rules of merger or bar ... the claim extinguished includes all rights of the plaintiff to remedies against the defendant with respect to all or any part of that transaction, or series of connected transactions, out of which the action arose.
>
> Restatement (Second) of Judgments, § 24(1) (emphasis added).

The claim for MCS stock asserted by Cruz in his 1972 federal lawsuit is the same claim for MCS

(now known as Western Systems, Inc.) stock made by his assignees in the 1990 Guam suit, even though in the federal cases he sought rescission of the 1971 contracts and his assignees now claim breach of the same contracts:

> Having been defeated on the merits in one action, a plaintiff sometimes attempts another action seeking the same or approximately the same relief but adducing a different substantive law premise or ground. This does not constitute the presentation of a new claim when the new premise or ground is related to the same transaction or series of transactions, and accordingly the second action should be held barred.

Restatement (Second) of Judgments § 25, comment d. at 212.

Claim preclusion prevents a plaintiff from suing first for rescission of a contract, losing, then suing for breach of the same contract, because the "claim" is the same. See, Restatement (Second) of Judgments, § 25, comments h, j, k, and illustrations 23, 24, and 25; Brown v. Felsen, 442 U.S. 127, 131, 99 S.Ct. 2205, 60 L.Ed.2d 767 (1979); Nevada v. United States, 463 U.S. 110, 103 S.Ct. 2906, 77 L.Ed.2d 509 (1983). The federal cases conclusively decided Cruz's claim for MCS stock under any aspect of the 1971 transactions and any theory or cause of action. Because Cruz's 1972 federal lawsuit was decided on the merits, and was not dismissed for forum non conveniens reasons, the 1990 Guam suit for breach of the 1971 contracts is a "claim" that "actually [has] been decided by the federal court," Chick Kam Choo, 486 U.S. at 148, and was properly enjoined.

To read Chick Kam Choo as petitioners suggest would substantially limit the finality of federal court judgments. Under their theory, a plaintiff's claim could be dismissed on the merits by a federal court for statute of limitations, laches, or other procedural grounds and the plaintiff could file again in state court. This result would contradict Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(b), which provides that such a dismissal normally operates as an adjudication upon the merits. See e.g., Browning Debenture Holders' Comm. v. DASA Corp., 605 F.2d 35, 39 (2d Cir. 1978) (dismissal of federal case for failure to post a bond was a dismissal on the merits and merited an injunction of a subsequent state court suit). Claims that should have been litigated in prior federal proceedings would be barred by claim preclusion if the plaintiff reasserted the claim in federal court, but would not be barred if the plaintiff reasserted the same claim in state court.

Congress could have prohibited the federal courts from enjoining any state court proceedings. It has not. To the contrary, recognizing that prevailing federal parties deserve protection from repetitive litigation in the state courts, and the possibility of conflicting rulings, in 1948 Congress overruled Toucey v. New York Life Ins. Co., 314 U.S. 118 (1941), and amended the Anti-Injunction Act expressly to authorize the federal courts to enjoin attacks on final federal court judgments. Mitchum v. Foster, 407 U.S. 225, 236 (1972); Samuel C. Ennis & Co., Inc. v. Woodmar Realty Co., 542 F.2d 45 (7th Cir. 1976).

No plaintiff should get two chances at winning. No defendant should have to defend the same claim in two courts. The lesson of Chick Kam Choo is that when a case is dismissed for forum non conveniens reasons, there is no claim preclusion in either the federal or the local court. But where a case is decided on the merits in a federal court, whether or not every issue or theory of recovery is addressed in the court's opinion, the plaintiff's claims are "actually decided" and further litigation in the local court may be enjoined.

In the present case, Cruz had eight years in the federal courts and his final appeal ended ten years ago. The district court did not abuse its discretion in enjoining his assignees from suing again. The holding of the Ninth Circuit in the present case conforms to the Chick Kam Choo decision.

III. Other Circuit Decisions Cited by the Petitioners Do Not Conflict With the Ninth Circuit's Opinion

The petitioners cite cases from five other Circuit Courts of Appeal allegedly in conflict with the Ninth Circuit's opinion. Petition at 14. Upon close examination, with the lone exception of Farias v. Bexar County Bd. of Trustees, 925 F.2d 866 (5th Cir. 1991), these cases are distinguishable.

The first case cited by petitioners, In re G.S.F. Corp., 938 F.2d 1467 (1st Cir. 1991) actually agrees closely with the Ninth Circuit's opinion in the present case. In In re G.S.F. Corp., two parties settled a property dispute pending in the bankruptcy court. One party then sued two years later in the state court. The First Circuit held that the bankruptcy court was authorized to enjoin the state court suit because the federal court settlement encompassed all claims concerning the property, whether specifically mentioned in the settlement stipulation or not. 938 F.2d at 1467

In the next case cited by the petitioners, LCS Servs., Inc. v. Hamrick, 925 F.2d 745 (4th Cir. 1991), the Fourth Circuit concluded that a district court's injunction was overbroad "because no claim or issue pending in the state court actions has ever been decided by the United States District Court." 925 F.2d at 749. Likewise, in American Town Center v. Hall 83 Assocs., 912 F.2d 104 (6th Cir.

1990), the court refused to require a district court to issue an injunction when "additional claims" were made in the state court proceeding. 912 F.2d at 112 n.2. Here, the petitioners sought in the Guam court the same MCS stock based on the same 1971 contracts at issue in the federal litigation. The claim was the same one Cruz litigated in the federal court.

In the next case cited, Nationwide Mutual Ins. Co. v. Burke, 897 F.2d 734 (4th Cir. 1990), an insurer that had prevailed in a declaratory judgment action in federal court requested the federal court to enjoin a state court from enforcing a settlement agreement the insurer had voluntarily made to settle a case in the state court. Recognizing that the "relitigation exception applies...when the federal judgment is claim preclusive," the Fourth Circuit nevertheless held that the federal court's decision on insurance coverage was "irrelevant to the state law issue of enforceability of the settlement agreement". 897 F.2d at 737-38. Here, the federal court's final judgment regarding Cruz's rights to stock under the 1971 contracts was the same claim made by Cruz's assignees in the Guam court.

Next, petitioners cite Staffer v. Bouchard Transp. Co., Inc., 878 F.2d 638 (2d Cir. 1989). In Staffer, an injured seaman recovered damages against his employer. The employer recovered contribution for almost the entire amount from a third-party defendant, a doctor. The seaman then sued the doctor directly in state court. The Second Circuit refused to enjoin the seaman's state court suit because his medical malpractice claim had not been litigated in the prior federal case. The claim decided by the federal court was only the contribution claim between the employer and the doctor; the seaman was not even a party to the contribution claim. Here, Cruz was a party to the federal litigation and his claim for MCS stock under the 1971 contracts, no matter what theories his assignees now advance, were litigated on the merits.

The last case cited by petitioners is DeCosme v. Sea Containers, Ltd., 874 F.2d 66 (1st Cir. 1989). In DeCosme, a seaman was killed in a crane accident. The seaman's estate sued in federal court, and the case was consolidated with another case involving injured seamen. The workman's compensation insurance fund was a party to the wrongful death case, but not the injury case. Both cases were consolidated for trial. A settlement was reached to dismiss the cases, but did not include the fund as a signatory, nor was the fund mentioned in the final judgment. The fund's attorney signed a satisfaction of judgment under the impression it was for the wrongful death case only. The fund then sued in local court for reimbursement of claims paid in the injury case.

The First Circuit held that "there is a legitimate question whether either res judicata or collateral estoppel would apply" to the fund's suit to recover reimbursement paid in the injury case. 874 F.2d at 68. The court did not find a "strong and unequivocal showing of relitigation of the same issue." Id. The fund did not sign the settlement, was not mentioned in the final federal court judgment, and was not even a party to the injury case. The court's reluctance to bar the fund from litigating its reimbursement rights in the injury case is understandable. In the present case, Cruz was a party to both federal cases, litigated for eight years and lost. Res judicata definitely applies. Thus, the "conflicting" cases cited by Cruz, with one exception, do not conflict with the Ninth Circuit's decision.

IV. The Petitioners' Constitutional Rights Have Not Been Violated

Although they admit they did not raise the argument until their en banc petition, petitioners now argue that the district court's injunction violates their "Fundamental Right to Due Process and Access to the Courts." Petition at 24.

The petitioners cite no authority for the proposition that a relitigation injunction as authorized by 28 U.S.C. § 2283, or the well-established principles of res judicata, violates the Constitution.

A writ of certiorari is not appropriate to review these arguments because petitioners have failed to raise them in a timely manner, and because they have no merit. Petitioners ignore the fact that their assignor Cruz litigated the same claims for MCS stock in the federal court from 1972 to 1980. They litigated the same claims in the Guam court from 1980 to 1984. They have had their due process and access to the courts; the district court's injunction simply prevented them from attempting to circumvent the final federal judgments against their assignee Cruz.

V. The District Court's Award of Sanctions Was Proper

The final issue raised by petitioners is "whether a Federal Court has the inherent power to sanction parties who bring suit in State of [sic] Territorial Courts." Petition at 25. This Court held that it does in Chambers v. Nasco, Inc., 111 S.Ct. 2123, 2134 (1991)("[a]s long as a party receives an appropriate hearing, ... the party may be sanctioned for abuses of process occurring beyond the courtroom ...."). The district court below found the petitioners in bad faith and this finding was upheld by the Ninth Circuit. Certiorari is not warranted.

CONCLUSION

The petition for writ of certiorari should be denied.

Respectfully submitted,

Dated: April 12, 1993

MARK SNYDER HOLMES
Counsel of Record for Respondents Western Systems,
Inc. and Lee M. Holmes

APPENDIX

Ulloa v. Guam Econ. Dev. Auth.,
Civ. No. 24-72 (D. Guam Feb. 16, 1977) . . . . . C1[1]

Guam Econ. Dev. Auth. v. Ulloa,
Civ. No. 197-72 (D. Guam Nov. 18, 1977) C38, C47

Cruz v. Guam Econ. Dev. Auth., Civ. No. 72-3159 (9th Cir. March 21, 1974) C58

Ulloa v. Guam Econ. Dev. Auth.,
580 F.2d 952 (9th Cir. 1978) C61

---

[1] The designations "A" and "B" have been used by Petitioners in both their original and subsequent "expanded" filing. To avoid further confusion, Respondents have used "C" in pagination of their Opposition.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM

TERRITORY OF GUAM

ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ, CEZI CRUZ, PATRICIA C. CRUZ, RICHARD G. CRUZ, FRANCES M. GUNN, LARRY E. GUNN, ROBERT E. HALSEY, JOHN M. HALSEY, FRANK V. OKIYAMA, MARIE B. OKIYAMA, JOHNNY GUEVARA SABLAN, BARBARA P. SARMIENTO, HERMAN B. SARMIENTO, DAVID J. ULLOA, JUANITA S. ULLOA, and RICHARD F. ULLOA,	)	CIVIL CASE NO. 24-72
Plaintiffs,	)	OPINION
vs.	)
GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a public corporation, and LEE M. HOLMES,	)
Defendants.	)

On February 28, 1972, plaintiffs filed the complaint in this action to enforce a constructive trust (Count I) and for damages (Count II). It was determined at the pretrial conference conducted on June 9, 1972, that the trial would be limited to Count I, namely the enforcement of a constructive trust.

Plaintiffs are the former stockholders of Marianas Communications Systems, Inc., hereinafter referred to as "MCS." Defendant Guam Economic Development Authority, hereinafter referred to as "GEDA", is a public corporation and was originally the guarantor of MCS, subsequently the sole stockholder of MCS, and is presently a minority stockholder of MCS. Defendant Lee Holmes is presently the largest single stockholder of MCS.

The action was filed by sixteen original shareholders of MCS. However, over the course of this case, ten (10) of the original plaintiffs and their claims were dismissed. The remaining plaintiffs are David J. Ulloa, Richard F. Ulloa, Richard G. Cruz, Robert E. Halsey, Joan M. Halsey, and Johnny Guevara Sablan.

HISTORY OF MCS

MCS was incorporated in 1968 by David J. Ulloa, Frank V. Okiyama, Richard G. Cruz, and Richard F. Ulloa and had a purported capital of $10,000 with 1,000 shares of stock issued at a par value of $10.00 a share. The purpose of the company was to establish a cable television system in the Territory of Guam.

In 1969, the four original stockholders conferred with GEDA personnel with regard to obtaining a loan from GEDA, or a GEDA guarantee, if the company could secure a bank loan. The amount of the loan or guarantee requested was $200,000.

Later in 1969, the authorized shares of stock were increased to 30,000 shares with a purported capital value of $300,000. The original four shareholders subscribed to an additional 23,000 shares. First National City Bank, hereinafter referred to as "FNCB", approved a $200,000 GEDAguaranteed loan to MCS in 1970. At the time, the original four shareholders indicated on the corporate books that the $230,000 worth of stock that had been subscribed to was paid in full in exchange for the efforts expended in obtaining the loan. No cash or property was ever paid for the 23,000 shares issued.

In the middle of 1970, MCS started receiving the money and by April or may of 1971 the $200,000 from the loan had been spent and MCS had incurred additional outstanding bills totaling close to $221,000. At this time, the company was indisputably in grave financial trouble and was insolvent. In April of 1971, MCS had approximately 550 subscribers and thirty-five miles of cable installed. The company was experiencing technical problems with the quality of its televisions tapes and was hampered by an insufficient supply of programs. In order for the company to break even on its operation, it would be necessary to increase subscribers up to 2,500. In short, as of April 1971, the company was losing large sums of money per month on its operation and had no prospects of obtaining further financing for the desperately needed capital improvements. As a consequence, buyers were sought for the company. While at least one company expressed interest in purchasing MCS, and even obtained an option to purchase, it declined to exercise its option.

As of May 11, 1971, it became obvious that MCS would be forced to shut down its operation. The consensus of opinion among the members of the GEDA Board was that the liquidation value of MCS's assets was negligible.

At a Board of Directors meeting of GEDA on May 11, 1971, the Board decided it had two alternatives: One, to pay off its obligation to FNCB of $200,000 and let MCS go bankrupt or Two, to take over the stock of MCS and further finance its operation at a loss until GEDA could find somebody else to take over the company. At this meeting, the GEDA Board voted to take over MCS wholeheartedly and to provide the amount of money necessary to turn the company into a successful operation.

FACTS OF THE CASE

On May 21, 1971, Mr. James Halliday, Administrator for GEDA, entered into two agreements with all of the shareholders of MCS and their spouses. These agreements were entitled "Stock Purchase Agreement" and "Agreement". The primary issues in this litigation involve these two agreements as well as an agreement executed July 20, 1971 by most of the original shareholders of MCS and GEDA.

By the terms of the May 21, 1971 agreements, the original shareholders of MCS sold their shares in MCS to GEDA for the price of $1.00 per shareholder, regardless of the number of shares owned by the particular shareholder.

In the agreement, the original shareholders represented to GEDA that all of the shares issued previously and turned over to GEDA were lawful, and that the company was duly organized and in good standing under the laws of Guam.

Section 6 of the agreement, entitled Right of First Refusal, provided that GEDA would not transfer the shares of stock without first permitting the former shareholders an opportunity to repurchase all of the shares. However, this right to repurchase was conditional in two respects. First, that the purchase price for the original shareholders must be equal to the total amount expended by GEDA, the payment of all debts and liabilities incurred in the operation of the company and the removal of all guarantees made by GEDA, plus a reasonable service fee. If the former shareholders failed to exercise their option to repurchase within 30 days, then GEDA would be free to "transfer, alienate, or otherwise dispose of such shares without restriction." As of May, 1971, the purchase price would equal approximately $421,000 plus a reasonable service fee. MCS owed $200,000 to FNCB on a loan for which GEDA was the guarantor, and MCS also had another $221,000 in accounts payable.

The right to repurchase was conditioned further by the following clause in Paragraph 6:

> "This right of first refusal is not an individual right to a shareholder to reacquire the shares transferred by that individual stockholder by this agreement or any other shares. The right of first refusal is a collective right and all shares offered for sale by GEDA must be acquired under the same terms and conditions as set forth in the preceding paragraph."

In addition to the "Stock Purchase Agreement", Halliday and all the stockholders of MCS and their spouses signed another document, labeled "Agreement" on May 21, 1971 and annexed the "Stock Purchase Agreement" to the "Agreement". Paragraph 2 of the agreement provided:

> "Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 6 set forth in the Stock Purchase Agreement annexed hereto, GEDA further agrees that it shall not offer for sale any of the shares within one hundred eighty (180) days from the date of this agreement."

This supplemental "Agreement" was not shown to, nor approved by, the GEDA Board.

Admitted into evidence are transcripts of tape recordings made of meetings of the GEDA Board of Directors held on May 11, May 17, May 28, July 11, July 14, July 20, August 2, August 3, and September 1, 1971. While the transcripts have some blank spaces, and it is not possible to identify the people speaking in some instances due to poor recording quality, the transcripts are by and large an accurate, record of what transpired at the board meetings.

Also admitted into evidence are the minutes of meetings of the GEDA Board of Directors held on May 11, July 14, July 20, August 2, August 3, and September 1, 1971 and March 1, 1972.

Subsequent to the May 21, 1971 agreements, GEDA operated MCS with the assistance of the former employees, namely, David Ulloa, Larry Gunn, and Albert Cruz. The company continued to incur large operational losses of around $15,000 a month, all of which was absorbed by GEDA. By the middle of July, the GEDA Board did not believe that GEDA could afford to subsidize the operations of MCS any longer without possibly causing the bankruptcy of GEDA.

At this point in time, Holmes entered into the picture after having been asked by James Halliday, then Administrator of GEDA, if he would be interested in purchasing MCS.

On July 14, 1971, the GEDA Board held a special informal meeting for the purpose of hearing a proposal from Holmes. Holmes proposed that GEDA turn 851 of the MCS stock back to the MCS Treasury, and that 70% of the stock (21,000 shares) be sold to Holmes for $2.00 a share or $42,000, that 10% of the stock (3,000 shares) be sold to the original shareholders on a pro-rata basis for $1.00 a share

($1,000) and that 5% of the stock (1,500 shares) be sold to David Ulloa, Larry Gunn and Albert Cruz, the three officers of the corporation, who have been and will continue to be active in management, for $1.00 per share. Note, according to this proposal, GEDA will hold on to 15% of the stock. Albert Cruz and David Ulloa were present at this meeting and assisted in the Holmes' presentation. It is important to note at this time that David Ulloa was the general manager of MCS and prior to May 21, 1971 was the majority stockholder of MCS, owning 15,500 of the 30,000 outstanding shares.

Holmes' proposal also called for the addition of $100,000 into MCS obtained from more loans, principally an additional $50,000 loan from FNCB and an additional $50,000 loan from GEDA.

The reaction of the GEDA Board was indeed favorable to the Holmes' proposal as is apparent from the transcripts of the meeting. After Holmes left the meeting, Director Ord stated, "This is the best offer of a way out we've ever had". Director Wharton stated, "It's probably the only one we're going to get for this company". Director Perry stated, "If we don't do something, we'll lose the whole works, though."

It was at this point that the GEDA Board of Directors discovered that Mr. Halliday had signed the supplemental agreement on May 21, 1971, which prohibited GEDA from offering the shares for sale for six months. Although the GEDA Board questioned the validity of the supplemental agreement since it was signed by the Administrator without knowledge of the board, it was decided that a round table discussion should be held between the original MCS shareholders and the GEDA Board in order to obtain the waiver of the original shareholders' right of First Refusal in exchange for the benefits of the Holmes' proposal.

On May 28, 1971, the GEDA Board of Directors held a regular GEDA Board meeting. It appears from the transcript of that meeting that the members of the GEDA Board agreed that they would become the directors of MCS since MCS was wholly owned by GEDA. It then appears from the transcript that the GEDA Board Meeting was adjourned and an MCS Board of Directors meeting was convened. The Directors of MCS then elected James Halliday, President, Joe Perez, Vice-President, and Joe Cepeda, Secretary-Treasurer. Messrs. Halliday, Perez and Cepeda were all employees of GEDA.

On July 20, 1971, the three members of the MCS Board of Directors met in a round table meeting with five of the former stockholders of MCS, David Ulloa, Johnny Sablan, Robert Halsey, Larry Gunn, and Albert Cruz. David Ulloa was at all times also acting as a representative for his brother, Richard Ulloa. The three members of the MCS Board present were Guy Wharton, Roy Benito and Gerald Perry. All three were also members of the GEDA Board of Directors. While the minutes of the meeting were labeled as minutes of the Guam Economic Development Authority, the transcript of the meeting reveals that the meeting was opened by the Secretary as follows:

> "Round table meeting between the MCS Board of Directors and MCS stockholders regarding possible purchase of MCS stock by Technical Resources, Mr. Lee Holmes, Jenny Manufacturing, July 20, 10:00 A.M."

The transcript and Minutes of the July 20, 1971 meeting reflect that the former shareholders of MCS led by David Ulloa objected to certain parts of the Holmes' proposal. Their objections to the proposal were as follows:

1. The former shareholders wanted to buy back 30% of the stock.

2 . They wanted to buy back the stock for one dollar per shareholder rather than one dollar per share.

3. They wanted it made a condition to the waiver agreement that Holmes would obtain the necessary loan from FNCB.

After a long discussion, Holmes, the MCS Board members and the five former stockholders present finally agreed to the terms of the July 20, 1971 agreement which was introduced into evidence. In the agreement, the former shareholders gave up their right of first refusal on the condition that within a reasonable time a contract would be executed among GEDA, MCS, and Holmes and that such a contract would include the following provisions:

"a). Fifteen (15%) percent of the outstanding shares of MCS shall be made available for sale to the present Stockholders for the sum of ONE ($1.00) DOLLAR per share, and in such proportion as is the present stock ownership of the said Stockholders.

b). Fifteen (15%) percent of the outstanding shares of MCS shall be retained by GEDA and shall be made available for sale, for the sum of FOUR ($4.00) DOLLARS per share, to the following Stockholders, in equal proportions: DAVID J. ULLOA, ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ, and LARRY E. GUNN, JOHNNIE SABLAN, and LEE M. HOLMES, when the debt owed GEDA by MCS is repaid in full."

If the contract between Holmes, GEDA, and MCS was not executed within 60 days from July 20, 1971, then the former stockholders could cancel the July 20, 1971 agreement with notice by the stockholders in writing to GEDA and Holmes.

This agreement was signed by Guy Wharton on behalf of GEDA and by all of the plaintiffs, with the exceptions of Richard Cruz, Robert Halsey, and Joan Halsey. Lee Holmes signed "agreed" on the second page of the agreement.

The transcript of this meeting reveals that the former shareholders, especially, David Ulloa, wanted to include in the agreement a condition that Holmes would obtain a loan from FNCB, with which to make the further capital improvements which would bring MCS up to the breakeven point. Holmes represented to the former shareholders that if GEDA would loan another $50,000 and the shareholders would contribute $46,500 in equity financing by purchasing the stock then FNCB would probably match those amounts with a loan. However, Holmes made the representation that FNCB's attitude was favorable, but that it would not commit itself to such an arrangement at this time. Holmes further represented that a commitment from the bank was interrelated to a lot of things, and that if FNCB would not grant the loan, he would either raise the money elsewhere or would call off the whole deal. In that event, the waiver could be cancelled. At this point in the meeting, any discussion of requiring Holmes to produce a loan from FNCB as a part of the agreement ceased.

The former shareholders who agreed to the July 20, 1971 agreement represented 26,200 shares of the 30,000 shares outstanding an of May 21, 1971. The only former shareholders who did not sign the July 20, 1971 agreement were Richard Cruz and Robert and Joan Halsey representing 3,800 shares.

The question arose during the meeting as to the legal consequences if some of the former shareholders did not sign the agreement. Assistant Attorney General Charles Troutman was asked his opinion on the subject, and he replied both at the meeting and on July 29, 1971 with a written opinion. Troutman took the position that the former shareholders' right of refusal under the May 21, 1971 agreements was a collective right and not an individual right.

Troutman's opinion stated in part:

> "It is my interpretation of this collective right that the former shareholders may agree among themselves as to what method they will use to determine if they, as a group will repurchase the shares or fail to do so. Therefore, the group may determine that the decision is by a physical majority of the group, or a majority of shares formerly held, and that if the group decides to grant a waiver on the right of repurchase, it may do so with recourse to a majority decision.
>
> "Further, an individual has no right to repurchase independent from the group decision. As a result, the individual's signature on the original agreements, or on any subsequent agreement or waiver thereof operates only as one of a group, rather than as an individual. The effect of the original signatures is merely that the decision of the group was unanimous, and any waiver of the 180-day period would require the signatures to have the same effect, that of members of a group which may or may not be unanimous.

"Therefore, the group of former stockholders may decide that as a group they will abrogate the original 180-day plan, and any dissenting member may complain only against the group's decision, not against GEDA for acting upon that decision."

On August 4, 1971, Holmes, GEDA, and MCS executed a contract called "Agreement for Sale of MCS Stock", the terms of which required GEDA to sell 26,500 shares of MCS stock to the MCS Treasury for the sum of $1. Holmes was required to buy 21,000 shares of MCS stock from MCS for the price of $42,000. The provisions agreed upon in the July 20, 1971 agreement were included in the August 4, 1971 agreement.

Attached to the August 4, 1971 "Agreement for Sale of MCS Stock" is Exhibit A, the July 21, 1971 "Stock Purchase Agreement", Exhibit B, the May 21, 1971 supplemental "Agreement", and Exhibit D, the July 20, 1971 "Agreement". In Section 5 of the August 4, 1971 "Agreement for Sale of MCS Stock", GEDA specifically represents to Holmes that the July 20, 1971 agreement was made for the purpose of freeing all of the said shares of MCS stock from the "Right of First Refusal" held by the former shareholders. GEDA further warranted the legality of the July 20, 1971 "Agreement" to Holmes.

The August 4, 1971 "Agreement for Sale of MCS Stock" was signed by Jesus S. L. Guerrero, Chairman of the Board of Directors of GEDA, James C. Halliday, President of MCS, and Holmes. The agreement was witnessed by David Ulloa and Joe Perez.

David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, and Johnny Sablan exercised their rights to purchase MCS shares under the August 4, 1971 agreement. Defendant's Exhibit GG is a series of letters and installment notes relating to the shares in question. Johnny Sablan and David Ulloa both signed installment notes in exchange for their proportion of MCS shares. While the record does not reflect whether Richard Ulloa executed installment notes, it does reflect that he paid for his proportionate number of shares in September 1971. Herman Sarmiento also purchased his proportionate number of shares on September 20, 1971.

It is also apparent from the evidence that Richard Cruz sometime in August of 1971 purchased the right of Robert and Joan Halsey to purchase any MCS shares. At the time of the August 4, 1971 agreement, Richard Cruz, who at one time was an employee of MCS, was not an employee of MCS and had not been employed by MCS for quite some time. It is also apparent that Richard Cruz did not play a substantial part in the negotiations with GEDA and Holmes relating to the July 20, 1971 agreement and the August 4, 1971 agreement.

Defendants' Exhibit CC-1-6 consists of a series of letters and notes relating to the purchase of MCS stock by Richard Cruz. On August 10, 1971, Larry Gunn, Secretary of MCS, wrote a letter to Richard Cruz reminding him that on July 30, 1971, he had indicated to Lee Holmes and David Ulloa that he intended to purchase his proportion of MCS shares. Gunn requests Cruz to either purchase his shares, if necessary on the installment basis, by August 13, 1971 or indicate his desire to relinquish his right to purchase the shares in writing.

Cruz replied to Gunn's letter on August 13, 1971 and informed Gunn that he would let him know of his decision by September 2, 1971.

On September 9, 1971, Gunn again wrote Cruz and requested him to notify Gunn within 15 days of the method of payment he desired to make for his 570 MCS shares. (Cruz was allowed to purchase his rightful amount of 525 and Halsey's amount of 45).

On October 5, 1971, Lee Holmes, Chairman of MCS, wrote a letter to Cruz calling to Cruz's attention that he had not made payment or offered to make payment for his MCS stock, and, therefore, MCS had no recourse but to dispose of the stocks.

On October 8, 1971, Richard Cruz signed an installment note for the purchase of 570 MCS shares to be paid in full not later than October 13, 1971. On October 13, 1971, Cruz did pay MCS $570.

However, Plaintiffs' Exhibit 17 is a copy of a memorandum from Richard Cruz to MCS and is dated October 13, 1971. The memorandum is signed by Richard Cruz, and receipt of the memorandum is acknowledged by David Ulloa as President of MCS. The memorandum states as follows:

> "Please be advise that my payment this date of $570.00, in cash, for MCS shares is not in anyway an indication of my acceptance of the sales agreement to Lee Holmes.
>
> Furthermore, I do not agree with the Holmes-Geda sales agreement nor did I waive my rights under the May 21, 1971 Agreement."

It is the testimony of Richard Cruz that he purchased the 570 shares under protest of the Holmes-GEDA agreement of August 4, 1971 and specifically did not waive his right under the May 21, 1971 agreement.

It is the testimony of Lee Holmes that subsequent to October 13, 1971, he had a telephone conversation with David Ulloa in which he specifically asked Ulloa if Cruz had purchased his MCS shares. According to Holmes, Ulloa informed him that indeed Cruz had paid for the shares, but Ulloa did not say anything to Holmes about the conditional nature of the payment or of Cruz's insistence that he was not waiving his rights under the May 21, 1971 agreement.

Holmes also testified that when he returned to Guam as Chairman of MCS, he was unable to locate the memorandum or any mention of it in the MCS files.

David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, and Johnny Sablan continued in the active management of the company along with Holmes after August 4, 1971.

Soon after August 4, 1971, FNCB turned down Holmes' request for a loan subject to reconsideration at a later time. By November 1971, additional funds were provided by Holmes in the form of preferred shares and warrants raising an additional $118,000.

On December 16, 1971, the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., filed a complaint for Infringement of Copyright and Unfair Competition in the U. S. District Court, Central District of California, against MCS and the Ulloas. The suit was resolved by Holmes.

In January of 1972, another $59,000 was provided in equity capital and by February 28, 1972, approximately 52 miles of cable was in operation and approximately 2,430 subscribers were connected. In short, MCS's prospects for success were far greater on February 28, 1972 than on August 4, 1971. As of the date of trial, MCS was servicing 12,125 subscribers and had installed 270 miles of cable.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

On February 28, 1972, the plaintiffs in this case filed their complaint.

On November 13, 1972, this court granted defendants' motion to disqualify counsel for the plaintiffs. That decision was appealed and was affirmed by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals on March 21, 1974.

On October 22, 1975, six days before trial, counsel for plaintiffs filed a motion with the court to amend the Second Amended Pretrial Order and any other necessary pleadings in order to incorporate the issue of fraud into the case.

Count I of plaintiffs' complaint alleges that GEDA breached the May 21, 1971 agreement by failing to first offer the 21,000 MCS shares now held by Holmes to plaintiffs, that Holmes knew of this failure, that defendants acted in bad faith, and that the plaintiffs were ready, willing and able to perform the terms of the said agreements. Therefore, plaintiffs demand that the court enforce a constructive trust on the shares in question.

Count II of the complaint demanded damages but is not a subject of this trial.

Plaintiffs contended in their motion to amend that evidence supported an allegation not made in the complaint, namely, that GEDA and Holmes fraudulently induced all of the plaintiffs who executed the July 20, 1971 agreement, by which they waived their right of first refusal, to sign said agreement based on the promise from GEDA and Holmes that no contract would be executed transferring MCS shares from GEDA to Holmes, unless a bank commitment existed to lend MCS a dollar for each dollar advanced by Holmes, the plaintiffs, and GEDA. Plaintiffs furthermore contend that between July 20, 1971 and August 4, 1971, Holmes fraudulently represented to plaintiffs that FNCB had made a commitment to loan MCS $50,000 when in fact such representation was untrue.

The court denied plaintiffs' motion to amend the pleadings on the ground that the motion was untimely and prejudicial to the defendants and was not supported by the evidence.

JULY 20, 1971 AGREEMENT IS VALID

On October 21, 1975, plaintiffs filed a motion for summary judgment respecting the legal effect of the July 20, 1971 agreement, and a motion to amend the pleadings to whatever extent was necessary to hear evidence pertaining to adjudicating the issues concerning the legality of the July 20, 1971 agreement.

It is plaintiffs' contention that the July 20, 1971 agreement, wherein most of the former shareholders waived their right of first refusal, was an invalid agreement and is void and of no effect since the agreement was signed by Guy Wharton, as Acting Chairman of its Board of Directors of GEDA, at a meeting attended by only three (3) out of the seven (7) directors.

Section 53554 of the Government Code of Guam provides:

> "Section 53554. Board of Directors. All functions and powers of the Corporation shall be vested in and be exercised by and under the direction of a Board of Directors hereinafter referred to as the Board, composed of seven (7) members, appointed by the Governor of Guam with the advice and consent of the Guam Legislature. Members of the Board shall serve for a term of four (4) years. The Governor shall appoint a member of the Board to serve as Chairman."

Section 53558(c) of the Government Code provides that a majority of the GEDA Board shall constitute a majority for the transaction of business.

It is plaintiffs' contention that the GEDA Board, due to the lack of a quorum, had no authority to act on July 20, 1971. Consequently, the action it took, i.e., Guy Wharton signed the agreement, is void and of no effect.

It is undisputed that only three (3) members of the GEDA Board were present at the meeting on July 20, 1971. However, it is apparent from the transcript of the meeting that the meeting was a meeting of the Board of Directors of MCS and not a GEDA Board meeting. Moreover, the purpose of the meeting was to have a round table discussion with the former stockholders of MCS. The MCS Board presented the shareholders with Holmes' proposal. The former shareholders presented the Board with a counter-proposal.

The counter-proposal differed basically from the Holmes' proposal in the respect that the counter-proposal called for an immediate pro-rata sale of shares to the former shareholders of 154 and a later sale from GEDA to David Ulloa, Albert Cruz, Larry Gunn, Johnny Sablan, and Lee Holmes of 15% when the loans from GEDA to MCS were paid in full.

The transcript reflects a series of negotiations. Finally, Guy Wharton, Acting Chairman of the GEDA Board, stated that he did not have the authority to agree to the former shareholders' counter-proposal since a quorum was not present. However, he stated that Director Vicente Benavente was on island and had stated to him that if his vote were needed to contact him. Wharton directed one of the GEDA employees to find Benavente and obtain his approval of the agreement. Benavente was contacted and did initial the agreement.

If the July 20, 1971 meeting were to be construed as a GEDA Board meeting, it is undisputed that a quorum of the GEDA Board was not present on July 20, 1971. Nevertheless, the agreement signed on July 20 was not a bilateral contract. GEDA was not obligated to do anything under the terms of the agreement. In essence, the former shareholders were granting GEDA the option to sell the MCS shares, subject to the conditions outlined, unhindered by their right of first refusal. If at the end of sixty (60) days, GEDA had not exercised the option, then the option would lapse at the command of the former shareholders. GEDA was not obligated to any course of action by the July 20, 1971 agreement.

An offer which is to be kept open for a certain time or a proposal made to be accepted within a specified time, is a continuing offer. It is the view of some authorities that an option consists of two elements: One, the offer to perform a certain act, which is an uncompleted contract until it is accepted; and the other, the agreement to give the optionee a certain time within which to exercise his option of accepting. Some authorities even take the view that an option so long as it remains unaccepted, is a unilateral writing lacking the mutual elements of a contract, but when accepted by the optionee an executory contract arises, mutually binding upon the parties. 17 Am.Jur.2d, 370, §32. Crane-Rankin Development Co. v. Duke, 90 P.2d 883 (S.Ct. Okla. 1939).

Conceptually speaking, the July 20th agreement was merely a continuing offer made by the former shareholders to GEDA. GEDA accepted the offer on August 4, 1971 by signing a contract with Lee Holmes within the scope of the option. The act of the GEDA Board which the former shareholders claim is invalid is not an act committed on July 20, 1971, for the GEDA Board committed no act on July 20, 1971. The act performed by the GEDA Board on August 4, 1971, i.e. the execution of the Agreement for Sale of MCS Stock, is the act of which the plaintiffs complain. Yet, it is undisputed that the execution of the August 4, 1971 agreement was validly approved by a quorum of the GEDA Board at a duly held Special Meeting of the Board of Directors of GEDA on August 3, 1971.

Even if it could be held that the July 20, 1971 agreement was a contract illegally and invalidly executed by GEDA, the evidence supports a conclusion that the agreement was duly ratified by the GEDA Board on August 3, at the time the Board considered and approved each and every paragraph in the August 4, 1971 agreement.

A Municipal Corporation may ratify and thus make binding an otherwise invalid contract.

> "Generally, a governmental body may effectively ratify what it could theretofore have lawfully authorized. Ratification after the act is said to be as potent as authority before the act. Irregular and, void acts may be ratified or confirmed at a subsequent meeting, provided it is a valid or legal meeting. Thus, where the action in allowing a claim is invalid because of a lack of a majority vote as required by law, it may be ratified at a subsequent meeting by resolution confirming such previous action." 4 McQuillen, Municipal Corporations (1968 Ed.) § 13.47.

"It is a general rule that whatever acts public officials may do or authorize to be done in the first instance may subsequently be adopted or ratified by them with the same effect as though properly done under previous authority." McQuillen, Municipal Corporations, Third Ed., § 29.104, Vol. 10, 420.

In the context of a contract approved at a meeting subject to a procedural infirmity, 56 Am.Jur.2d, Municipal Corporations § 158, p. 212. notes:

"Even though all members of the council are not notified of a special meeting, the proceedings at the meeting, which are not ultra vires, are validated by a ratification, understandingly done, at a subsequent regular meeting."

It is undisputed that GEDA had the authority to enter into the July 20, 1971 agreement and that such action was not an ultra vires act. Certainly, Section 53553 of the Government Code of Guam provides GEDA such authority:

"Section 53553. General powers: termination date. The Corporation shall have, and may exercise, the following general powers in carrying on the activities specified in § 53552 of this Chapter:

(a) ....

(b) ....

(c) ....

(d) ....

(e) ....

(f) To acquire, in any lawful manner, any property -- real, personal, or mixed, tangible or intangible, and to hold, maintain, use, and operate the same; and to sell, lease, encumber or otherwise dispose of the same, whenever any of the foregoing transactions are deemed necessary or appropriate to the conduct of the activities authorized by this Chapter, and on such terms as may be prescribed by the Corporation.

(g) To enter into and perform such contracts, leases, cooperative agreements, or other transactions with any agency or instrumentality of the United States, or with any state, territory, or possession, or any political subdivision thereof, or with any person, firm, association or corporation, as may be deemed necessary or appropriate to the conduct of the activities authorized by this Chapter, and on such terms as may be prescribed by the Corporation.

(h) To execute all instruments necessary or appropriate in the exercise of any of its functions.

...."

It is not even necessary for a board of a Municipal Corporation to specifically ratify a previously invalidly performed act. A ratification can be done by implication. State v. District Court of Hennepin Co., 33 Minn. 235, 22 N.W. 625 (1885). In fact, ratification may be accomplished by some affirmative action by proper officers, inaction, mere silence, acquiescence, acceptance of the contract, or failure of the public corporation to object. See 10 McQuillen, Municipal Corporations, § 29.106.

There can be no doubt that even if the GEDA Board took some action on July 20, 1971 without the approval of a quorum, it was within the power of the Board to subsequently ratify that action and that the Board did properly ratify that act on August 4, 1971. In Paragraph 5 of the August 4, 1971 agreement, GEDA incorporated the July 20 agreement as Exhibit "D" and specifically warrants to Holmes the legality of that agreement.

Plaintiffs have presented public policy arguments as to why the July 20, 1971 agreement should be found to be invalid. The public policy arguments have no merit. GEDA obligated itself to do nothing by the July 20 agreement, and in no way could it or the Government of Guam or the public be affected detrimentally.

The former shareholders who signed the July 20, 1971 agreement signed the agreement with knowledge of the consequences and in an above board and open atmosphere, and by so doing waived their right of first refusal under the

May 21, 1971 agreements and cannot now complain that they were not given the opportunity to exercise such right. In short, Plaintiffs David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, and Johnny Sablan have no right to enforce.

RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL IS COLLECTIVE

Plaintiffs Richard Cruz, Joan Halsey and Robert Halsey did not, however, agree to or sign the July 20, 1971 agreement. The depositions of Robert Halsey and Joan Halsey show that on May 21, 1971, they sold their 300 shares of MCS stock, owned jointly by them, to GEDA. On August 1, 1971, the Halseys sold their 300 shares of stock to Richard Cruz for $3,000. Although Mr. Halsey was of the impression that he sold his stock to Cruz, he didn't actually own any shares on August 1, 1971. What he sold to Cruz were his rights under the May 21, 1971 agreement. Whatever rights the Halseys' have in this case and under the contracts in question are clearly now possessed by Richard Cruz and have been in the possession of Richard Cruz beginning August 1, 1971.

The question crucial to Cruz's position is, "Did he still possess a right of first refusal in spite of the fact that the other former shareholders signed the July 20, 1971 Agreement?"

The last two sentences in Section 6 of the May 21, 1971 Stock Purchase Agreement are most pertinent to this issue:

> "Sec. 6. .... This right of first refusal is not an individual right to a shareholder to reacquire the shares transferred by that individual stockholder by this agreement or any other shares. The right of first refusal is a collective right and all shares offered for sale by GEDA must be acquired under the same terms and conditions as set forth in the preceding paragraph."

The term "collective right" is all important to the meaning of this section. Unfortunately, the Court and the counsel in this action have found no cases or treatises involving the use of this term or interpreting this term. The words themselves are ambiguous, and it is difficult to establish from the section itself what the parties intended the words to mean.

Agreements containing obscure, imperfect or ambiguous language are always open to interpretation, and established rules of interpretation are invoked to determine the meaning. Hudson Canal Co. v. Pennsylvania Coal Co., 75 U.S. 276 (1868). The avowed purpose and primary function of the court is the ascertainment of the intention of the parties. Williston, Contracts, 3d Ed., § 601, Guam Code of Civil Procedure, § 1859. Under the law of Guam, a contract may be explained by reference to the circumstances under which it was made, and the matter to which it relates. Guam Civil Code, Sec. 1647.

Unfortunately, the GEDA Board did not hold a meeting on May 21, 1971, and the Stock Purchase Agreement was not executed during a meeting. However, GEDA made the decision to enter into the Stock Purchase Agreement at a meeting on May 11, 1971. The minutes of the meeting and a transcript of the meeting were admitted into evidence. Also admitted into evidence are minutes of GEDA Board meetings for the following dates: December 10, 1970, January 14, January 15, January 26, February 2, February 8, and April 16, 1971.

It is obvious from the facts as of May 1971 that MCS was out of money, was incurring large monthly operating losses, was unable to raise any additional credit, owed as much as $200,000 in current accounts payable, and was without any prospective buyers. GEDA was guarantor of a $200,000 loan made by FNCB to MCS. The loan was in default and the bank could the note at any time.

It should again be mentioned that GEDA is a public corporation whose purpose is "to assist in the implementation of an integrated program for the economic development of Guam." Section 53552(a), Government Code of Guam. It was intended that GEDA be a catalyst in economic development by aiding private enterprise without unfairly competing with it.

The transcript and minutes of the May 11, 1971 meeting and the minutes of earlier GEDA Board meetings in 1971 indicate the overriding concerns of the GEDA Board were: One, to make sure that it didn't lose the $200,000 for which it was liable; and Two, that MCS continue to operate. It appears from the evidence that throughout January, February, March, and April of 1971, GEDA paid some of MCS's accounts payable in order to keep MCS afloat.

As of May 1971, the GEDA Board had only two (2) alternatives: One, it could allow MCS to go bankrupt and pay FNCB $200,000; or Two, it could take over the stocks of MCS and keep it operating until it could find a buyer. Under the first alternative, GEDA would be sure to lose $200,000 plus whatever additional money MCS owed GEDA at that time. Under the second alternative, GEDA would assume all liabilities of MCS, totalling almost $400,000 but stood a chance of selling the company and getting some of its money back.

Throughout the first five (5) months of 1971, the GEDA Board recognized the probability that it would have to take over MCS. The evidence reflects that it was the intention of GEDA to take over MCS and to sell it back to the former shareholders if they could pay off all the obligations that GEDA had incurred with relation to MCS. The intent of the GEDA Board was clearly to offer the company to the original shareholders as a group. If the original shareholders could come up with the money to pay off all of MCS's debts, then the ownership of MCS would revert to the situation that existed prior to the takeover. The alternatives foreseen by the parties as of May 21, 1971 were either:

1. GEDA would sell MCS to the same owners it purchased it from as a group, or

2. GEDA would sell MCS to some other concern, or

3. GEDA would not be able to sell MCS to anyone and MCS would go broke.

All of the plaintiffs contend that "collective right", should be interpreted to mean that no action can be taken with regard to the right of first refusal, unless all of the former shareholders are in concurrence. In other words, if everyone wanted to abrogate the right other than one former shareholder, then the right could not be abrogated.

The parties were indeed in a serious situation. It was not their intent to jeopardize the success of their efforts to salvage MCS on the chance that one of the former shareholders may not agree with the rest of the former shareholders. The plaintiffs' contention is unreasonable in light of the surrounding circumstances.

Even when viewing Section 6 in light of secondary rules of contract interpretation, such meaning cannot be given to "collective right" by the court.

The intention, with which the law is concerned in construing and giving effect to a contract, is that of the parties at the time of entering into the contract, regardless of any events occurring afterward, at least if such subsequent events were not reasonably within the contemplation of the parties when the contract was made. 17 Am.Jur.2d, Contracts, § 244. While normally the court will not attempt to continue the intent of the parties to a contract in light of subsequent events, the incident at hand is an exception to the rule. On May 21, 1971, the plaintiffs and GEDA executed the Stock Purchase Agreement. At that point in time, the parties contemplated that somewhere in the near future the exercise of the collective right of first refusal would arise. Indeed, that issue did arise at the MCS Board meeting on July 20, 1971, more than six (6) months before any dispute arose. The transcript of the July 20, 1971 meeting provides the court with the unique opportunity to witness what the parties to the contract themselves construed Section 6 to mean. Courts strongly incline to give effect to such interpretation.

> But there is a secondary rule (Williston, Cont., § 623) that interpretation may be given to a Contract by the acts and/or declarations of the parties, done or made while the agreement is in process of fulfillment, and before any differences have arisen between them, to which "mutual interpretation" (as Dean Wigmore has called it) courts strongly and properly incline to give effect. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Union Pacific R. Co., 297 F. 788, 790 (2nd Cir. 1924).

The transcript indicates that David Ulloa, who had previously been the majority stockholder in MCS, raised the issue of what would happen if one of the former shareholders refused to sign the waiver. At this point, Charles Troutman, legal counsel to GEDA, gave his opinion that a former shareholder who did not sign the waiver would be entitled to sue GEDA for damages incurred by GEDA's failure to wait six (6) months until selling the stock.

Toward the end of the meeting, Mr. Troutman revised his legal opinion as to the consequences of a former shareholders not signing the waiver. After having further considered Section 6, Troutman came to the conclusion that the right of first refusal was a collective right and that only the group as a whole could repurchase the shares. Troutman then stated that whatever action the group, i.e. , the former stockholders, decided to take would have to be determined by a majority vote of the former stockholders just as if they were still stockholders. A dialogue then took place between Troutman and David Ulloa in which Ulloa expressed his concurrence with this interpretation. Present were three (3) members of the GEDA Board and four (4) other former shareholders, Johnny Sablan, Robert Halsey, Larry Gunn, and Albert Cruz. No one expressed any contrary interpretation of Section 6 or offered any opposition to the Troutman-Ulloa interpretation.

Troutman later followed up the matter with a written opinion elaborating and confirming his oral opinion. A copy of the opinion was available for the former shareholders to see. The evidence does not reflect whether or not any of the former shareholders saw the written opinion. However, it is clear that no objection to this interpretation of Section 6 was voiced by anyone, up to and including August 4, 1971.

The May 21, 1971 "Stock Purchase Agreement" was drafted by Edward Terlaje, counsel for the former MCS shareholders. An important rule of contract interpretation is that, one who writes the contract in question can by exactness of expression more easily prevent mistakes in meaning than can the party who is not responsible for the choice of words. Therefore, doubts arising from the ambiguity of language are resolved in favor of the party who was not responsible for choosing that language. Williston, 3d Ed. § 621.

ACCEPTANCE OF BENEFITS FORESTALLS COMPLAINT

In any event, the fact that Richard Cruz, who is also owner of the Halsey's rights, did not sign the July 20, 1971 agreement would not give him cause to complain even if the right of first refusal was an individual right rather than a collective right. All of the plaintiffs in interest, David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, Johnny Sablan, and Richard Cruz, subscribed to the shares of stock to which they were entitled under the July 20, 1971 agreement. Richard Cruz paid for his shares in full and received his stock certificates.

Section 1589 of the Guam Civil code provides:

> "Section 1589. Assumption of obligation by acceptance of benefits. A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting."

Richard Cruz accepted the benefit of the July 20, 1971 agreement, but now claims that he is not bound by the obligations of that agreement. A chain of correspondence between Cruz and Larry Gunn and Lee Holmes indicates no disagreement on the part of Cruz with the July 20, and August 4, 1971 contracts. On October 8, Cruz subscribed to 570

MCS shares and received 570 shares. On October 13, 1971, Cruz paid for those shares. Plaintiffs produced a memorandum from Cruz to MCS, Inc. dated October 13, 1971 and acknowledged received by David Ulloa, President of MCS. The effect of the memorandum as pointed out earlier is that Cruz is not waiving his right under the May 21, 1971 agreement and does not accept the sales agreement between GEDA and Holmes. The existence of this memorandum is somewhat of a mystery to the court, since it was never found by Holmes, Chairman of MCS, in the MCS files. In any event, the condition that Cruz placed on his payment of $570 is of no effect. Cruz already subscribed to his shares and received his shares on October 8, 1971. At that time, Cruz accepted the benefit of the July 20, 1971 agreement and was bound by the obligation in that agreement just as if he had signed the agreement.

EQUITABLE CONSIDERATIONS

While the plaintiffs have no right to enforce against the defendants under the contracts in question, they would be prohibited from enforcing any such right if any existed by equitable considerations. The plaintiffs have come into this court on the side of equity asking the court to impress a constructive trust upon MCS in favor of themselves.

A constructive trust is an involuntary trust Smith v. Bliss, 44 C.A.2d 171 (1941). Guam Civil Code, §224 provides:

> "Section 2224. Involuntary trust from fraud, mistake, etc. One who gains a thing by fraud, accident, mistake, undue influence, the violation of a trust, or other wrongful act is, unless he has some other and better right thereto, an involuntary trustee of the thing gained, for the benefit of the person who would otherwise have had it."

Plaintiffs have not pled nor have they presented any evidence to show the existence of fraud, accident, mistake, undue influence, the violation of a trust, or any other wrongful act. The plaintiffs have not alleged that GEDA held a fiduciary duty with relation to them. In fact, no such relationship could exist since GEDA is a government agency, and can only be a fiduciary for the general public.

In short, the plaintiffs have not alleged proper grounds for the relief they seek, let alone shown evidence of any proper ground.

In a court of equity, a frequently stated maxim is, "He who comes into equity must come with clean hands". 4 Witkin, Summary of California Law, 7 Ed., Equity, § 7, p. 2791.

Accordingly, where the right upon which the complainant relies has grown out of a wrong, breach of duty, or a violation of the law, the court of equity will deny relief. See Baxter v. Deneen, 57 A. 601, (Court of Appeals, Maryland 1903).

Plaintiffs, and each of them, lack clean hands to bring an equitable action seeking the imposition of a constructive trust for the stock of MCS acquired by defendant Holmes, for the reason that the shares of stock of MCS originally issued were issued contrary to the provisions of law. The original shareholders, plaintiffs in this action, issued stock to themselves in return for obtaining a GEDA guaranteed loan from FNCB. Further, the plaintiffs also received shares of stock contrary to law at the time of incorporation. At the time plaintiffs turned their shares over to GEDA under the May 21, 1971 agreements, they warranted that all of the shares (30,000 shares at par value of $10.00 per share for a total of $300,000) of MCS were validly issued and fully paid for. Both the July agreement and the August agreement incorporated the terms of the May 1971 agreements and therefor, the representations therein. David Ulloa himself was a witness to the August 4, 1971 agreement and was one of the primary beneficiaries of the unlawful issuance of stock.

Section 356, Guam Civil Code, specifically states in pertinent part:

> "....no corporation shall issue stock or bonds except in exchange for actual cash paid to the corporation or for property actually received by it at a fair valuation equal to the par value of the stock or bonds so issued...." (Emphasis added).

From the evidence, it is clear that from 1969 through 1971, 30,000 shares with a cumulative par value of $300,000 was stated on the books of MCS. In fact, no more than between $30,000 and $40,000 was paid into the corporation as required by law. By May of 1971, the company was floundering, it was insolvent and there was on the books approximately $220,000 of current accounts payable besides the GEDA guaranteed loan of $200,000 with FNCB. GEDA was required by the May 21st agreement to come in and take back the corporation in order to continue the company operations and to try to prevent the requirement of paying the $200,000 on the FNCB loan at that time. GEDA was also required to pay the trade creditors in an amount of approximately $220,000.

If the incorporators had paid in the full $300,000 as set forth in the corporate records, those funds could have been utilized to pay off the accounts payable prior to May 21, 1971 and GEDA might well not have been compelled to come in and salvage the dying operation of MCS.

It should be noted that prior to the February 28, 1972 filing of this complaint, but after the Holmes reorganization, GEDA had loaned an additional $75,000; Holmes had paid in or pledged to pay $42,000; and, on the strength of Holmes' management, an additional $177,000 of outside equity money was committed to the corporation,

Plaintiffs cannot be permitted to come into a court of equity to attempt to recapture a company which they claim, as of February, 1972, is worth $15,000,000, after (1) investing only $30,000 to $40,000, (2) misrepresenting the value of the corporation's capital unlawfully as $300,000, (3) requiring the loan by GEDA of an additional $270,000 and subsequently another $75,000, and (4) encouraging outside equity parties under the reorganization, including Holmes, to invest approximately $219,000 more. The company was insolvent and floundering during the period of time the former stockholders operated it.

After February 1972 when the company was operational and financially feasible, the plaintiffs then suddenly decided that they wished to have the stocks and operation of the company returned to them. To benefit the very persons who had created the initial distressed condition of the corporation based upon undercapitalization and the unlawful issuance of stock would be inequitable. The wrongful acts of plaintiffs are clearly related to the conduct of the subject matter of this litigation.

Furthermore, plaintiffs, other than Cruz, are estopped by the doctrine of estoppel from asserting any rights; under Section 6 of the May 21, 1971 agreement since they promised to waive those rights and knew of the reliance thereon placed by GEDA and Holmes on that promise, and failed to act to the detriment of GEDA and Holmes.

Section 90, Restatement of Contracts, states:

> "Section 90. Promise Reasonable Inducing Definite and Substantial Action. A promise which the promisor should reasonably expect to induce action or forbearance of a definite and substantial character on the part of the promisee and which does induce such action or forbearance is binding if injustice can be avoided only by enforcement of the promise."

GEDA has provided an additional loan of $75,000 to MCS. Holmes has invested $42,000 of his own money, has moved himself and his family to Guam, has devoted his constant labor to MCS, and has personally guaranteed loans to MCS, all in reliance on the validity of plaintiffs' July 20, 1971 promise. If plaintiffs, or any of them claim that the July 20, 1971 agreement was invalid because Cruz and Halsey did not execute it, or if the plaintiffs feel that the sale of the stock to Holmes was conditioned upon receiving financing from FNCB prior to August 4, and said plaintiffs failed to do anything to stop the transaction on August 4 before there was reliance by the parties and a substantial change of position, then said plaintiffs had the obligation to do so immediately after August 4, 1971. They are now estopped from asserting any imagined impropriety by having stood by and watched defendants and others change their position in reliance upon agreements which were signed and executed by and contained the promises of plaintiffs.

The maxim "Equity aids the vigilant" is given application in the doctrine of laches. Those who neglect their rights may be precluded from obtaining relief in equity. 4 Witkin, Summary of California Law, 7 Ed., Equity, § 12.

Delay is not a bar to equitable relief unless it works to the disadvantage or prejudice of other parties. The application of the doctrine to a case depends almost wholly on the particular facts. 4 Witkin, supra.

Based on the same facts that applied under the doctrine of estoppel, the doctrine of laches should be applied in this case. If the plaintiffs believed they had been defrauded, then evidence of that fraud, i.e., the failure of the FNCB loan to come through, or if plaintiffs believed that the July 20, 1971 agreement was invalid, then they could have voiced their position in August of 1971 before GEDA and Holmes incurred large cash liabilities and considerable time, effort and reputation on the part of Holmes. However, plaintiffs chose to wait until it was evident that the company had been turned around, reached the breakeven point and was faced with the prospects of a bright future. It would be unfair to allow the plaintiffs to capitalize on their delay to the detriment of defendants.

CONCLUSION

Plaintiffs are not entitled to enforce the nonexistent right they seek to enforce. If such right existed, they would be barred by equitable considerations.

Plaintiffs' complaint is dismissed.

Let Judgment issue.

SO ORDERED.

Dated this 16th day of February, 1977.

/s/
CRISTOBAL C. DUENAS
JUDGE, DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM

TERRITORY OF GUAM

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a public corporation, et al.	)	CIVIL CASE NO. 197-72
Plaintiffs,	)	MEMORANDUM ORDER GRANTING
vs.	)	IN PART AND DENYING PLAINTIFFS' MOTION
DAVID J. ULLOA, et al.,	)	FOR A JUDGMENT N.O.V. AND
Defendants.	)	PLAINTIFFS' MOTION IN THE ALTERNATIVE FOR A NEW TRIAL

The court has viewed the evidence in a light most favorable to the defendants, because as prevailing parties in a jury trial, they should enjoy the benefit of every reasonable inference. While a jury's finding must be afforded great weight and respect, the court has concluded that the jury's verdict was clearly erroneous and that the motion for a Judgment N.O.V. must be granted in favor of Marianas Communications Systems, Inc., (MCS).[1]

---

[1] The defendants have suggested that the plaintiffs' motion for a directed verdict was improper because it was made after the court had already instructed the jury. it is true that Rule 50(a) requires a motion for a directed verdict "at the close of the evidence offered by an opponent." However, as Wright and Miller states in section 2537 at pages

Section 331 of the Guam Civil Code clearly gives a corporation a cuase of action against stockholders who have not fully paid their subscriptions for capital stock:

> "Section 331. Directors may levy. The board of directors or trustees of any stock corporation formed, organized, or existing, under this Title may at any time declare due and payable to the corporation unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock and may collect the same with interest accrued thereon or such percentage of said unpaid subscriptions as it may deem necessary." [Enacted 1953.]

By virtue of Section 331, MCS would have a valid cause of action against the defendants unless:

596-97, even though a motion for a directed verdict must be made at the close of all evidence, "the courts take a liberal view of what constitutes a motion for directed verdict in deciding whether there was a sufficient prerequisite for the motion for judgivent. The defendants have not offered a case where a motion for directed verdic made after jury instructions was held fatal to a motion for Judgment N.O.V., and the court has likewise been unable to find any such case directly on point. it is true that a technical reading of this rule would seem to require the plaintiffs to have made their motion for a directed verdict immediately after the defendant offered his case, but at least one case has held that such a motion may be made after closing arguments. Martin v. Erie Lackawanna Railroad 388 P.2d 802, 804 (6th Cir. 1968). The court rules that plaintiffs' motion for a directd verdict was properly made under Rule 50(a), because any other result 'could be to enshrine form over substance." Moran v. Raymond Corporation, 484 F.2d 1008, 1014 (7th Cir. 1973).

(1) MCS was not a "stock corporation formed, organized, or existing under this Title..." (i.e. Corporations, General Law).

(2) The board of directors did not "declare due and payable to the corporation unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock..."

(3) That the defendants did not owe "unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock..."

As to (1), abundant evidence was offered to show that MCS was a corporation formed under the laws of Guam. it had filed its Articles with the Director of Revenue and Taxation, and it had received a corporate certificate. (See Section 296 of the Guam Civil Code). As Section 297 of the Guam Civil Code makes clear, a copy of the Articles of Incorporation, once filed with the Director of Revenue and Taxation, "shall be received in the courts and all other claces as prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated." Finally, no contrary evidence was offered to suggest that MCS was not a corporation formed under the laws of Guam.

With regard to (2), Lee Holmes, the president of MCS, stated that the board of directors of MCS had declared the stocks in question "due and payable." This testimony was not contradicted in any way by the defendants, and the jury could not have had any basis for doubting this fact.

Finally, there can be no question as to (3), that the defendants owed unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock. Uncontradicted testimony and evidence offered by all parties make it very clear that on April 29, 1968, David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, Richard Cruz and Frank Okiyama executed MCS's Articles of Incorporation and signed the following subscriptions, (Plaintiffs' Exhibit #l):

David Ulloa	510 Shages (@$100/share)	$5,100
Richard Ulloa	90 Shares (@$100/share)	$900
Richard Cruz	100 Shares (@$100/share)	1,000
Frank Okiyama	300 Shares (@$100/share)	$3,000.

In addition, on April 12, 1969, these same defendants signed subscriptions to the following additional amounts, (Plaintiffs' Exhibit #2):

David Ulloa	14,790 Shares (@$100/share)	$147,900
Richard Ulloa	3,510 Shares (@$100/share)	$35,100
Richard Cruz	3,500 Shares (@$100/share)	$35,000
Frank Okiyama	1,200 Shares (@$100/share)	$12,000

Also, the testimony is uncontradicted that while Johnny Sablan, received $45,000 in MCS stock, he only paid $25,000 for such shares. Also, Mr. and Mrs. Gunn never paid for their subscriptions.

It is clear that none of the above defendants paid valid legal consideration for these shares (with the exception of Johnny Sablan). Section 356 of the Guam Civil Code states that "no corporation shall issue stocks or bones except in exchange for actual cash paid to the corporation or for property actually received by it at a fair value..." The defendants did claim that thev were under the mistaken impression that the value of their services to the corporation could be a valid method of exchange; however, it is quite clear that the Guam Civil Code does not recognize this form of consideration. If, as the defendants insist, their mistaken reliance on a California corporations handbook could excuse satisfying the requirements of the Guam Civil Code, Section 356 could always be circumvented by claiming simple Ignorance. As responsible businessmen attempting to form corporation under the laws of Guam, the defendants had a duty to determine exactly what the law required as to valid consideration for stocks issued. Any mistaken belief on their part is irrelevant because the requirements of the Guam Civil Code must control here.

After trial, the defendants introduced a new issue as to whether there was actually a valid subscription agreement, (thus perhaps negating the effect of Section 331). However, this factual issue was never properly before the jury (having never been argued or raised by a requested jury instruction). Any questions of the defendants' intent when they subscribed for the stocks was introduced by the plaintiffs to relate only to the elements of their cause of action and these facts never related to a possible defense regarding statutory liability. There was never any question raised at trial whether or not the subscriction agreements were valid, and the defendants cannot raise such an issue at this late date.

Defendants have also relied on Bing Crosby Minute Maid Corporation v. Eaton, 46 Cal.2d 484, 297 P.2d 5 (1956), for the proposition that Section 331 of the Guam Civil Code should not be interpreted to provide for statutory liability for watered stock when most jurisdictions seem to be content to limit such liability on a misrepresentation theory.[2]

As the plaintiffs correctly point out, the case deals with California statutes which cannot be equated to Guam's statutory scheme for liability. Unlike Section 1110 of the California Corporations Code (now repealed; originally Civ. Code §299), Section 331 of the Guam Civil Code clearly expresses "an intent to broaden the bdsis of liability of holders of watered stock ... " (297 P.2d 9). Such an intent to provide for liability on a basis in addition to a misrepresentation theory is also made clear by Section 340 of the Civil Code which states that:

---

[2] See Volume 44 of the California Law Review at pages 941-95 for the view that Minute Maid was incorrectly decided and that there actually was statuary liability under the California Code for watered stock.

> Nothing in this Title shall prevent the directors from collecting, by action in any court of proper jurisdiction, the amount due on any unpaid subscription, together with accrued interest and costs and expenses incurred.

Clearly the legislature intended Sections 331 and 340 to provide corporations with a statutory cause of action in the event that shareholder failed to pay complete and adequate consideration for unpaid subscriptions. This court is not sitting in equity and it must give legal effect to these Provisions of the Guam Civil Code. Since all the facts necessary to establish liability under Section 331 are uncontroverted, as a matter of laxer, the defendants are liable to MCS for "unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock ... with interest accrued thereon..."

Plaintiffs have also asked for a Judgment N.O.V. on the grounds that there could have been no factual question as to whether there was a breach of warranty between the defendants and Lee Holmes and GEDA, and whether certain other defendants are automatically liable to the plaintiffs because they were in default.

As the defendants correctly point out, a motion for a Judgment N.O.V. is generally restricted to the issues which have been raised on a motion for a directed verdict. See Rule 50, F.R.C.P. and Wright and Miller, Section 2537. While the plaintiffs argue that liberality should be the rule when interpreting whether a motion for a Judgment N.O.V. should be granted, they have failed to cite any cases contrary to the weight of authority which restricts a party from asserting a ground not raised in the motion for a directed verdict. Therefore, the plaintiffg motion for a Judgment N.O.V. on the breach of warranty cause of action must be denied.

However, as Wright and Miller make clear in Section 2537 (at page 598), a party's failure to raise certain issues in a motion for directed verdict does not affect his right to a new trial. See Rule 59, F.R.C.P.; also Sears v. Pauly, 261 F.2d 304 (1st Cir. 1958). The jury's finding that there was no breach of warranty by the defendants is against the clear weight of the evidence. It seems clear that there was a warranty that the stocks were paid for when in fact only a fraction of the subscriptions was actually paid. (Plaintiffs' Exhibits #23 and #13). Since the jury's finding that the defendants were not liable for breach of warranty is against the clear weight of the evidence, the plaintiffs' motion for a new trial is granted.

The plaintiffs have also moved for a judgment N.O.V. against Frank Okiyama, Marie Okiyama and Pat Cruz, all of whom defaulted before trial. Since these defendants had defaulted their liability was already legally determined and the jury only had power to determine the measure of their liability. Clearly the jury was acting in excess of its powers in finding that the defaulting defendants were nct actually liable to plaintiffs and such a finding cannot be given any effect. Since the question of actual liability had already been determined it was not before the jury, and counsel for the Plaintiffs had no reason to expect that the jury would make a finding in this area (except as to the amount of damages). It would be unfair to require counsel to make a motion for a directed verdict on an issue which had already been legally determined and which the jury had no power to consider. Furthermore, since the court had found that the other defendants were liable to the plaintiff corporation under Section 331, the defaulting defendants must be found similarly liable for the ainount of their unpaid subscriptions.

Conclusion

Rule 50(c) of F.R.C.P. requires the District Court to rule both on the motion for Judgment N.O.V. and the motion for a new trial.

The court grants the motion for a Judgment N.O.V. in favor of MCS on a statutory liability theory because ihere can be no question that subscriptions were due and payable and that the defendants David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, Richard Cruz, and Frank Okiyama failed to pay any legal consideration for these shares. There also can be no question that Johnny Sablan failed to pay full valid consideration for the shares which he received. The court denies a motion in the alternative for a new trial because it is of the opinion that the facts introduced by the plaintiff corporation in support of its statutory liability theory are uncontroverted and it would serve little purpose to present this issua to a new jury.

The court denies the motion for a Judgment N.O.V. in favor of Lee Holmes against GEDA based on a breach of warranty theory because no such ground was raised by the plaintiffs' motion for directed verdict. However, the plaintiffs' motion for a new trial is granted because the jury's finding that there was no breach of warranty is against the weight of the evidence.

The court grants the motion for Judgment N.O.V. in favor of the plaintiffs against Frank Okiyama, Marie Okiyama and Pat Cruz. Since these defendants were in default the jury had no power to determine anything but the measure of damages and the finding that the defendants were not liable is clearly erroneous. On a statutory liability theory, there can be no factual question that these defendants are liable for the amount due on their unpaid subscriptions. The court denies the alternative motion for a new trial for the same reasons outlin above and because these defendants are in default and their liability is no longer contested.

LET JUDGMENT ISSUE.

SO ORDERED.

Dated this 18th day of November, 1977.

/s/
CRISTOBAL C. DUENAS
JUDGE, DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM
TERRITORY OF GUAM

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a public corporation, et al. Plaintiffs,	)	CIVIL CASE NO. 197-72
vs.	)
DAVID J. ULLOA, et al., Defendants.	)	JUDGMENT (N.O.V.)

The jury having rendered a verdict in favor of all the named defendants and Judgment on the Verdict having been entered on October 5, 1977, the plaintiffs have moved for a Judgment N.O.V. or in the alternative for a new trial. The Court having heard the arguments of counsel for the respective parties and being fully advised in the premises;

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the plaintiff MCS recover of the defendants the following sums, notwithstanding the verdict of the Jury, together with costs and charges:

David and Juanita Ulloa	$153,000
Richard Ulloa	$ 36,000
Richard and Pat Cruz	$ 36,000
Larry and Frances Cunn	$ 6,500
Frank and Marie Okiyama	$ 5,000
Johnny G. Sablan	$ 20,000

Dated: November 18, 1977

/s/
CRISTOBAL C. DUENAS
JUDGE, DISTRICT COURT OF GUAM

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, et al., Plaintiffs-Appellees,
v.
David J. ULLOA, et al.,
Defendants-Appellants.

No. 86-2535.

United States Court of Appeals,
Ninth Circuit

Argued and Submitted April 10, 1987

Decided March 14, 1988.

Judgment creditor brought motion authorization to enforce judgment. United States District Court for the district of Guam, Cristobal C. Duenas, granted motion and appeal was taken. Court of Appeals, Poole, Circuit Judges held that: (1) judgment creditor's move for authorization to enforce judgment a expiration of five years was within discretion of District Court; (2) judgment creditor was not required to show exercise due diligence in attempting to enforce judgment in order to be granted motion authorization to enforce judgment after expiration of five-year statutory period; (3) service of notice of motion for authorization to enforce judgment upon attorney of record was adequate.

Affirmed.

1. Federal Civil Procedure §2691

Guam statute providing for five years to obtain writ of execution was not statute of limitations or repose and merely provided limited time within which judgment creditor could obtain writ of execution as of matter of right, while thereafter, issuance of writ called for exercise of trial court's discretion, so that upon expiration of five-year period in which execution was available as of matter of right, judgment bad not lapsed or expired because enforcement was still available by leave of court, by motion, or by judgment in original pro. seeding based upon supplemental pleadings. Guam Code Civ.Proc. § 685.

2. Federal Civil Procedure §2691

Notwithstanding fact that five-year period during which judgment creditor could obtain writ of execution as of matter of writ had expired, judgment did not lapse or expire, so that grant of judgment creditor's motion for authorization to enforce judgment eight years after judgment was obtained was within discretion of district court; motion for authorization to enforce judgment was not barred either before or after amendment to code substituting six-year time requirement Guam Code Civ. Proc. §§ 336, 681, 685.

3. Federal Civil Procedure §2691

Under Guam statute, judgment creditor was not required to demonstrate exercise of due diligence in attempting to enforce judgment in order to entitle judgment creditor to grant of motion for authorization to enforce judgment eight years a judgment was obtained. Guam Code Proc. § 685.

4. Federal Civil Procedure §2691

At time judgment creditor served notice of motion for authorization to enforce judgment upon judgment debtor's former attorney, former attorney remained judgment debtor's attorney of record, so that under federal rule, notice was adequate. Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 5(b), 28 U.S.C

John A. Spade, and David A. Mair, Mair, Hogan & Spade, Agana, Guam, defendants-appellants.

Richard L. Johnson, Klemm, Blair, Sterling & Johnson, Agana, Guam, for plaintiffs-appellees.

Appeal from the United States District Court of Guam.

Before POOLE, NORRIS and BRUNETTI, Circuit Judges.

POOLE, Circuit Judge:

David, Juanita and Richard Ulloa (hereinafter collectively "Ulloa") appeal from order of the district court granting motion of Western Systems, Inc. ("WSI") for an order enforcing judgment. We have jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1291, and affirm.

The District Court of Guam, sitting as a local court of original jurisdiction, entered judgment for WSI and against Ulloa and various other defendants on November 1977. Thereafter WSI made numerous unsuccessful attempts to collect from Ulloa. By May 1979 it became apparent that further attempts at enforcement would be fruitless; accordingly, WSI focused its collection energies on the remaining judgment debtors. On July 15, 1986, more than eight years after entry of judgment, WSI sought further enforcement authorization pursuant to Guam Code of Civil Procedure Section 685.[3] That motion was granted and this appeal timely followed.[4]

---

[3] All statutory references are to the Guam

Ulloa questions the propriety of the district court's conclusion that § 685, as amended, authorizes the order. Section 685 interacts with two other Guamanian statutes. Section 681 provides that a writ of execution will issue as a matter of right for five years after entry of judgment; section 336 places a five year limit on the filing of a separate action to enforce a judgment Section 685, enacted in 1953, originally provided that > [i]n all cases the judgment may be enforced or carried into execution after the lapse of five (5) years from the date of its entry, by leave of the court, upon motion, or by judgment for that purpose, founded upon supplemental pleadings; but nothing in this section shall be construed to revive a judgment for the recovery of money which shall have been barred by limitation at the time of the taking effect of this Code.

California Codes of Civil Procedure.

[4] Conclusions of law of the District Court Guam, sitting as a local trial court, are reviewed de novo. Cf. In re McLinn, 739 F.2d 1395 Cir.1984) (en banc) (on direct appeal, a district court's conclusions as to issues of state law may be reviewed de novo). This court recently granted a rehearing en banc in People of Guam v. Yang, 800 F.2d 945 (9th Cir.1986), rehearing en banc granted, 833 F.2d 1379 (1987), to reconsider the appropriate standard of review for the District Court of Guam's conclusions of local law. Yang, however, involved a decision of the District Court of Guam sitting in its appellate capacity and, thus, does not control this case. See also Schenck v. Government of Guam, 609 F.2d 387 (9th Cir.1979) (deferential standard of review for legal determinations of District Court of Guam sitting as appellate court).

In 1982 the Guam legislature amended section 685 by substituting a six year time requirement Pub.L. No. 16-120. No other language was changed. Inexplicably, sections 681 and 336 retained their five year provisions. The apparent result is a one year gap wherein enforcement cannot be had by suit writ or motion.

This gap, Ulloa contends, effectively extinguished the district court's power to enforce WSI's judgment. The judgment was entered more than five but less than six years prior to the effective date of the 1982 amendment Since the five year period of sections 681 and 336 had run, and section 685 by its terms will not revive a judgment "barred by limitation", WSI became fore er ineligible for discretionary process under section 685.

[1,2] Ulloa's analysis is flawed in number of respects. First and foremost section 681 is not a statute of limitations repose; it merely provides a limited time within which the judgment creditor m obtain the writ of execution as a matter right. Thereafter, under section 685, issuance of the writ calls for exercise the trial court's discretion. Upon the e ration of section 681's five-year period, which execution is available as a matter right, the judgment has not lapsed or expired because enforcement of section 685 still available by leave of court, by motion or by a judgment in the original proceeding based upon supplemental pleadings. Since "supplemental" pleadings have relationship to prior pleadings in the same action, proper reading of section 685 would se to be that the judgment may be enforced that manner. Second, since section does not cause a judgment to expire, there is no moribund judgment to "revive" a section 685 is not offended by subsequent enforcement WSI's motion was not barred by the language of section 685 either before or after amendment It lows that the district court properly concluded that the 1982 amendment did not cause the judgment to expire and its plain terms permitted further enforcement of judgment reasonably interpreted, the final sentence of section 685 simply upholds the integrity of section 336; it does not speak at all to motions to enforce.[5] The California court of appeal has construed identical statutory language as speaking to the date of original enactment rather than the date of reenactment. See Greeley v. Suey Sing Benev. Ass'n, 28 Cal.App.2d 536, 538-39, 83 P.2d 54, 55 (1938). Under this reasoning, the final sentence of section 685 does no more than prohibit the revival of judgments which were barred when the statute took effect in 1953. We conclude that the district court properly construed the statute.

[3] Ulloa next contends that even if a section 685 motion was available to WSI, it was not entitled to relief because it failed to exercise due diligence in attempting to enforce the judgment pursuant to section 681. Ulloa concedes, as it must, that the statute contains no express diligence requirement It insists, however, that such a requirement should be implied from California legal developments. This assertion lacks merit.

Guam section 685 is virtually identical to the 1895 version of California's section 685. The California legislature amended its statute in 1933 to require a demonstration of diligence by providing that the movant must include an affidavit explaining his failure to proceed in compliance with section 681.[6] Ulloa contends that the California model is highly persuasive that a diligence requirement was intended by the Guam legislature in 1953.

---

[5] The district court's conclusion is further supported by controlling case law. It established that California cases construe statutory language later adopted by Guam legislature cut controlling light the Guam provisions. See Roberto v. Aguon, 519 F.2d 754, 755 (9th Cir.1973). The district court arrived at the same conclusion without identifying its route. Despite lack of explanation, it is the result, not reasoning, upon which an appellate passes judgment. Myers v. United States Parole Comm'n, 813 F.2d 957, 959 (9th Cir.1987).

In our view, the California experience proves the contrary. The Guam legislature's 1953 decision to adopt the 1895 version rather than the 1933 version of the California statute constitutes an implicit rejection of the 1933 amendment. Even when amending the statute with almost thirty years of hindsight, the Guam legislature eschewed California's due diligence language. Thus the 1982 amendment of section 685 may more logically be considered a reiteration of the 1953 rejection of California's due diligence requirement. The extension of the Roberto rule of construction advanced by Ulloa would effectively hold the Guam legislature hostage to the enactments of its California counterpart. That rule cannot be applied to impose requirements that the Guam legislature has implicitly rejected. We will not so extend Roberto. The district court's apparent conclusion[7] that diligence is not required under section 685 was correct.

Ulloa misses two further points to impeach that conclusion. First it argues that California case law between 1895 and 1933 read a due diligence requirement into the 1895 version of the statute. Second, it argues that the Guam legislature could not have intended to confer unbounded discretion

---

[6] In 1982 California substantially revised its statutory scheme for enforcement of judgments. See California Code of Civil Procedure §§ 683.010-683.320.

[7] Again, the reasoning of the district court is not set out with precision or clarity. However, our review of its Memorandum Order convinces us that the court concluded that an affidavit demonstrating diligence is not required by the statute.

upon the local trial courts in authorizing execution because section 685 is meant to be only a limited exception to section 681. Moreover, it argues that subjecting judgment debtors to such latitude contravenes basic considerations of fairness.

These contentions are unpersuasive. The California decisions construing the section 685 of 1895 vintage impose no requirement of due diligence, or other standard of vigor. Butcher v. Brouwer, 21 Cal.2d 354, 357, 132 P.2d 206, 206 (1942). See, eg., Creditors Adjustment Co. v. Newman, 185 Cal. 509, 197 P. 334 (1921); Weldon v. Rogers, 159 Cal. 700, 115 P. 464 (1911); Harlan v. Harlan, 154 Cal. 341, 98 P. 32 (1908); Bredfield v. Hannon, 151 Cal. 497, 91 P. 334 (1907); Doehla v. Phillips, 151 Cal. 488, 91 P. 330 (1907). Indeed, the 1933 amendment was animated by the legislature's desire to curb the trial court's discretion to grant the writ See 5 B. Witkin, California Procedure, at 3554 (2d ed. 1971). Thus, pre-1933 California case law fortifies rather than undermines the district court's conclusion.

As to the second point, we see nothing unreasonable in the entrustment of broad discretion to the trial court to grant the writ under section 685. In any case we are convinced that this is what the legislature intended; it is not our province to question its wisdom. We hold that the district court correctly concluded that due diligence is not required under section 685. We find it necessary to reach the court's alternate holding that due diligence was in fact demonstrated by WSI.

[4] Ulloa's final contention is that the service of notice of WSI's motion was defective. WSI served the notice of motion on Herman Skipper, Ulloa's former attorney. However, at the time Skipper remained Ulloa's attorney of record. Under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 5(b), notice served upon a party's attorney of record is adequate.[8] We hold that Ulloa received sufficient notice of WSI's motion.

Since the district court correctly construed the Guam statute, we AFFIRM.

---

[g] It is undisputed that Ulloa received adequate actual notice to respond to the motion.

IN THE UNITES STATES COURT OF APPEALS
FOR THE NINTH CIRCUIT

ALBERT THOMAS CRUZ, CEZI CRUZ, PATRICIA C. CRUZ, RICHARD G. CRUZ, FRANCES M. GUNN, LARRY E. GUNN, ROBERT E. HALSEY, JOHN M. HALSEY, FRANK V. OKIYAMA, MARIE B. OKIYAMA, JOHNNY GUEVARA SABLAN, BARBARA P. SARMIENTO, HERMAN B. SARMIENTO, DAVID J. ULLOA, JUANITA S. ULLOA, and RICHARD F. ULLOA,	)	Filed Mar 21, 1974
Plaintiffs-Appellants,	)	NO. 72-3159
vs.	)	MEMORANDUM
GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a public corporation, and LEE M. HOLMES,	)
Defendants-Appellees.	)

On Appeal from the United States District Court for the District of Guam

Before: MERRILL and KILKENNY, Circuit Judges, and EAST, District Judge*

In November 1971, there was a meeting of the Committee on Agriculture, Resources and Development of the Guam Legislature, the purpose of which was to inquire into the operations of the GEDA respecting certain transactions. Andrew Gayle of Trapp, Gayle & Co. was present at this meeting in the capacity of counsel for the Committee.

In February, 1972, plaintiffs, represented by other defendants to enforce a constructive trust and for damages arising out of the same facts and transactions which were the subject of the November, 1971, legislative committee hearing.

Defendants moved to disqualify Trapp, Gayle & Co. upon the grounds that their appearance in this action violated Canon 9 of the ABA Canons of Ethics: "A lawyer should avoid even the appearance of unprofessional impropriety." Specifically defendants relied on Ethical Consideration No. 9-3 ("After a lawyer leaves * * * public employment, he should not accept employment in connection with any matter in which he had substantial responsibility prior to his leaving * * *.") and Disciplinary Rule No. 9-101(B) ("A lawyer shall not accept private employment in a matter in which he had substantial responsibility while he was a public employee.")

The District Court entered an order granting defendants' motion and this appeal followed.

Appellants do not contend that the District Court did not have before it the proper standards for a determination that Andrew Gayle had "substantial responsibility" in a relevant respect; nor do they contend that the result is not supported by the evidence. Their sole contention is that no "finding" of substantial responsibility was made, and that this requires reversal.

---

* Honorable William G. East, Senior United States District Judge for the District of Oregon, sitting by designation.

In our judgement such a finding is implicit in the court's order.

Judgement affirmed.

David J. ULLOA, Richard F. Ulloa and Johnny Guevara Sablan,
Plaintiffs-Appellants,

v.

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a
Public Corporation, and Lee M. Holmes,
Defendants-Appellees.

Robert E. HALSEY, Joan M. Halsey and Richard G. Cruz, Plaintiffs-Appellants,

v.

GUAM ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, a
Public Corporation, and Lee M. Holmes,
Defendants-Appellees.

Nos. 77-2509, 77-3538.

580 F.2d 952

United States Court of Appeals
Ninth Circuit.

Aug. 16, 1978.

Former shareholders of Guam corporation brought suit alleging that, due to the bad faith of defendants, the Guam Economic Development Authority had failed to first offer to the former shareholders, as required under certain stock purchase agreements, the 21,000 shares of stock that the GEDA had sold to the individual defendant. The former shareholders requested that the court impose a constructive trust in their favor. The United States District Court for the Territory of Guam, Cristobal C. Duenas, J., ruled in favor of defendants, and six of the former shareholders appealed. The Court of Appeals, Wong, District Judge, sitting by designation, held that: (1) the agreement under which the former shareholders purportedly waived their rights of first refusal was not rendered invalid by reason of the lack of a quorum of the GEDA board; (2) unanimous consent of the former shareholders was not required in order to modify certain earlier stock purchase agreements; (3) the language of the stock purchase agreements did not overcome the presumption created by the Guam Civil Code that the right of first refusal possessed by the former shareholders was joint and not several; (4) under all the circumstances, the trial court did not abuse discretion in denying the former shareholders' motion to amend the pretrial order to include the issue of fraud; (5) if the former shareholders intended to rely on fraud as a basis for obtaining a constructive trust, fraud was an element that had to be affirmatively pleaded and proved, and (6) the district court did not commit clear error in holding that plaintiffs failed to fulfill the requirements of a constructive trust.

Affirmed.

1. Corporations § 426(12)

General rule with respect to ratification is that ratification of a contract or other act will be implied if the corporation, represented by a board of directors who have knowledge of the facts, accepts and retains the benefits of the contract or act or recognizes the contract as binding or acquiesces in the contract; ratification may be by acquiescence.

2. Corporations §137

Despite fact that no quorum of the Guam Economic Development Authority board was present at meeting when agreement was reached under which shareholders purportedly waived rights of first refusal afforded them by a prior stock purchase agreement between GEDA and the shareholders, where the GEDA board had power to enter into the second agreement and the conduct of the GEDA board subsequent to signing the second agreement was unequivocally sufficient to establish ratification, the agreement was not invalid because of the lack of a quorum. Government Code Guam §53558(c).

3. Corporations §113

Even when read in conjunction with provision of stock purchase agreement that the agreement could only be changed by a writing signed by the party against whom enforcement of change or waiver was sought, term "collective right" in section of the agreement prohibiting the Guam Economic Development Authority from transferring or disposing of certain shares of stock unless the shares had first been offered for sale to the former stockholders and that the stockholders' right of first refusal was a "collective right" did not require that the agreement could be modified only by unanimous consent of the former shareholders, some of whom owned but a de minimis fraction of the outstanding shares; though term "collective right" was ambiguous, an interpretation requiring unanimity of consent was unreasonable in light of financial risk to GEDA.

4. Corporations §113

Language of stock purchase agreement whereby the Guam Economic Development Authority was prohibited from transferring certain stock unless stock was first offered further stated "This right of first refusal is not an individual right to a shareholder to reacquire the shares transferred. . . [but] is a collective right" was not sufficient to overcome presumption created by the Guam Civil Code that the right of first refusal possessed by the former shareholders was joint and not several, Civil Code Guam §1431.

5. Corporations §137

Where agreement which released the Guam Economic Development Authority from its promise to afford former shareholders a right of first refusal with respect to shares purchased the GEDA was signed by all but three of the 16 former shareholders who had signed the original agreement containing the right of first refusal, the signatories to the later agreement thereby discharged the GEDA of its obligation to the other former shareholders as well.

6. Federal Civil Procedure §1935

In view of fact that appellants completely failed to substantiate their claim of lack of undue prejudice and of their failure to specifically identify fraud in any of the pleadings and in view of the three-year delay in moving to amend a pretrial order and fact that the issue of fraud was raised for the first time on the eve of trial, district court did not abuse discretion in denying motion to amend pretrial order so as to include issue of fraud.

7. Federal Civil Procedure §636

If former shareholders intended to rely on fraud as a basis for obtaining a constructive trust in some 21,000 shares, shareholderswere required to affirmatively plead and prove fraud with specificity. Civil Honorable Dick Yin Wong, United States District Judge, District of Hawaii, sitting by designation.

Code Guam §1431; Fed.Rules Civ.Proc. Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.

8. Trusts §110

Evidence in suit wherein former shareholders sought imposition of a constructive trust in favor of them over some 21,000 shares did not support shareholders' contention that they were induced by a fraudulent representation into entering into an agreement whereby they waived their rights of first refusal under an earlier stock purchase agreement.

Robert D. Wyatt (argued), John A. Bohn (argued), Agana, Guam, for plaintiffs-appellants.

George T. Okamura of Damon, Shigekane, Key -- Char, Honolulu, Hawaii, for David J. Ulloa et al.

J. Bradley Klemm (argued), of Klemm, Dear & Lawrence, Agana, Guam. and Vemon F. L. Char (argued), Damon, Shigekane, Key & Char, Honolulu, Hawaii, for Robert E. Halsey et al.

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Territory of Guam.

Before CHAMBERS and WALLACE, Circuit Judges, and WONG, District Judge.

WONG, District Judge:

Appellants in consolidated Case Nos. 77-2509 and 77-3538 are six of the 16 former shareholders of Marianas Communications Systems, Inc. ("MCS"), a Guam corporation founded in 1968 for the purpose of establishing a cable television system for Guam and the Northern Marianas.[1] By 1969, the corporation was in need of extra funds, and the officers and shareholders of MCS sought to obtain the additional financing from the Guam Economic Development Authority ("GEDA"), an incorporated government agency created for the purpose of stimulating economic growth in the Territory of Guam. GEDA ultimately agreed to guarantee a loan in the amount of $200,000 obtained by MCS from the Guam offices Of the First National City Bank ("FNCB").

Throughout the years 1971 and 1972, MCS continued to experience severe financial difficulties. After the failure of at least two attempts by MCS to obtain needed capital from outside corporations, MCS once again tumed to GEDA. By a Stock Purchase Agreement dated May 21, 1971, each of the MCS shareholders agreed to sell, for a nominal consideration, all of the issued MCS stock to GEDA, who was in tum to assume all of the outstanding obligations of MCS and attempt to transform MCS into a viable enterprise. Section 6 of the Stock Purchase Agreement prohibited GEDA from transferring, alienating or in any way disposing of any MCS shares unless such shares were first offered for sale to the original 16 MCS shareholders. The shareholders' right of first refusal was set at a purchase price equal to the total amount of money expended and incurred by GEDA in the operation of the company.

1. The six Appellants are Robert and Jim Halsey, Richard Cruz, David Ulloa, Richard Ulloa, and Johnny Sablan. Most of the remaining 10 former shareholders assigned their interests in the action below and in any MCS stock to D. Ulloa in September and October of 1974. See C.T. 403--409. By Order filed April 18, 1975, nine of these remaining 10 shareholders were dismissed by the trial court for lack of prosecution. In its Opinion, the district court also found that on August 1. 1971, Robert and Joan Halsey sold their entire interest in any Mcs shares to Richard Cruz. See C.T. 693,406.

By a supplemental Agreement also entered into on May 21, 1971, each of the MCS shareholders and GEDA agreed that notwithstanding Section 6 of the Stock Purchase Agreement, GEDA would be further prohibited from offering for sale any of the MCS shares within 180 days of the May 21st Agreement. Both the Stock Purchase Agreement and supplemental Agreement (hereinafter referred to as "May 21st agreements") were signed by each of the 16 MCS shareholders and James Halliday, the GEDA Administrator.[2]

Less than two months after the May 21st agreements were entered into, GEDA was approached by Lee Holmes, who, with the support of David Ulloa, met with the GEDA Board on July 14, 1971 to discuss the possible sale of MCS. In its most basic temms, Holmes proposed to purchase 21,000 shares (70 percent) of MCS stock for a total purchase price of $42,000; to have GEDA offer, in varying amounts, 4,500 shares (15 percent) of MCS stock to the former MCS shareholders; to have GEDA retain the remaining 4,500 shares (15 percent) until the GEDA loan

2. A question subsequently arose as to whether Halliday possessed the authority to bind GEDA to the may 21st agreements. At a GEDA Board meeting held on August 3, 1971, the Board unanimously agreed to ratify the May 21st agreements. See C.T. 59.

was paid off, at which time the shares were to be offered by GEDA to Holmes, D. Ulloa, Sablan, and three other fommer MCS shareholders at $4.00 per share; and to have both GEDA and FNCB increase their respective loans by $50,000 each.

Holmes' proposal was favorably greeted by the GEDA Board, and on July 20,1971, a meeting between Holmes, three of the seven GEDA Board members, and five of the former MCS shareholders was held to further discuss the proposal. This meeting resulted in the drawing up of an Agreement, dated July 20, 1971, providing for the cancellation of both the former MCS shareholders' right of first refusal contained in Section 6 of the May 21st Stock Purchase Agreement and the 180-day prohibition of the sale of MCS stock contained in paragraph 2 of the May 21st supplemental Agreement. The July 20th Agreement was conditioned upon the execution of a contract by Holmes, GEDA, and MCS for the sale of MCS stock to Holmes, and was signed by Guy Wharton (on behalf of GEDA), Holmes, and all of the 16 former MCS shareholders except Richard Cruz and Robert and Joan Halsey.

Further meetings of the GEDA Board were held on August 2 and 3, 1971, and by an Agreement for Sale of MCS Stock dated August 4, 1971, GEDA agreed to sell 70 percent of the MCS stock to Holmes on the terms described above, with the exception of the deletion of any reference to a $50,000 matching loan from FNCB. This August 4th Agreement was signed by Jesus Guerrero (on behalf of GEDA), Halliday (on behalf of MCS), Holmes, and witnessed and signed by D. Ulloa and one J. S. Perez.

Pursuant to the terms of the August 4th Agreement, the shares of MCS stock prescribed therein were sold by GEDA to Holmes and the former MCS shareholders. On February 28, 1972, the 16 former MCS shareholders filed suit, claiming, inter alia, that due to the bad faith of defendants Holmes and GEDA, the latter had failed to first offer to them, as required under the May 21st agreements, the 21,000 shares of MCS stock sold to Holmes. The former MCS shareholders therefore requested that the court impose a constructive trust in favor of them over the 21,000 shares.

The trial court ruled in favor of Holmes and GEDA, and six of the former shareholders appealed, raising a number of issues for this Court's consideration.

[1,2] Appellants first claim that the July 20th Agreement, under which the former MCS shareholders purportedly waived their rights of first refusal, is not a binding agreement due to the lack of a quorum of the GEDA Board. It is clear that the July 20th Agreement was not properly transacted due to the absence of a Board quorum. Guam Government Code, §53558(c). While no Guam case law exists on this point, it is also clear, however, that the general rule with respect to ratification is that

> "ratification of a contract or other act will be implied if the corporation, represented by the board of directors, who have knowledge of the facts, accepts and retains the benefits of the contract or act, or recognizes it as binding, or acquiesces in it. They > may ratify by acquiescence, and need not act at a meeting regularly called, but may ratify without any formal action. 2 Fletcher Cyc. Corp. §762.

See also Petroleum Anchor Equipment, Inc. v. Tyra, 419 S.W.2d 829, 834 (Tex.Sup. Ct.1967) ("Ratification of an unauthorized act may be express or it may be implied from a course of conduct ...."); See-Tee Mining Corp. v. National Sales, Inc., 76 N.M. 677, 417 P.2d 810, 812 (1966) ("Ratification of the action of a corporate officer for which there may have been no antecedent authority may be express or implied [citations omitted), and may be implied by the corporation's acquiescence in or recognition of its officer's unauthorized act, or by the corporation's acts tending to show an acceptance or adoption of the contract [citations omitted]"); Monteleone v. Southern California, 26.4 Cal.App.2d 798, 70 Cal.Rptr. 703 (Second Dist.1968); Johnson v. Community DevelopmentCorp., 222 N.W.2d 847 (N.D.Sup.Ct.1974); 19 C.J.S. Corporations §1141 (1940).

That the GEDA Board possessed the original authority to enter into a contract in the nature of the luly 20th Agreement cannot be disputed. Guam Government Code, §53553.

An examination of the conduct of the GEDA Board subsequent to the signing of the July 20th Agreement unequivocally demonstrates Board action sufficient to establish ratification. As the July 20th Agreement states in paragraph 4 thereof, the Agreement was conditioned upon the execution of a contract for sale of MCS stock to Holmes among GEDA, MCS, and Holmes. Holmes in fact subsequently submitted a proposed contract of sale for GEDA's consideration, paragraph 5 of which explicitly referred to the fact that by the July 20th Agreement, GEDA and the former MCS shareholders agreed to abrogate the latter's rights of first refusal contained in the May 21st agreements. This paragraph was specifically discussed at the August 2nd and 3rd GEDA Board meetings. The following notation was entered in the minutes of the August 3rd meeting:

> "Section [paragraph] 5 [of Holmes' proposed contract] -- The Administrator [of GEDA] pointed out that the last part of this section regarding the abrogation of the former shareholders had been changed to read . . . 'GEDA will jointly with Holmes and MCS defend any claim thereon by any persons or other entity.' The Board agreed to this."

Therefore, not only did the GEDA Board recognize the existence of the July 20th Agreement, but it was even willing to go so far as to agree to defend Holmes and MCS on any claim arising from the Agreement. Finally, of course, by that Agreement for Sale of MCS Stock dated August 4, 1971, and agreed upon at the August 2nd and 3rd Board meetings, GEDA agreed to sell 21,000 shares to Holmes, despite the fact that on the previous day, the Board had specifically ratified the May 21st agreements containing the former MCS shareholders' rights of first refusal. Paragraph 5 of the August 4th Agreement both recognized the July 20th abrogation of the former Shareholders' rights of first refusal and asserted the obligation to defend noted above. Appellants do not contend that quorum was lacking at the August 2nd and 3rd meetings, and, as indicated previously, the August 4th agreement was witnessed and signed by D. Ulloa. Subsequently, of course, GEDA did in fact sell MCS stock to Holmes and the former shareholders pursuant to the August 4th Agreement.

Under these circumstances, for this Court to now hold that the July 20th Agreement was not ratified by the Board would not only serve to completely vitiate the clearly expressed intent of the Board and elevate mere formalism over substance, but would also serve to permit the former MCS share. holders to evade a contract they freely and willingly entered into.

[3] Richard Cruz raises the further argument that because he did not sign the July 20th Agreement, it was not binding upon him. Section 6 of the May 21st Stock Purchase Agreement provides in peltinent part that:

> "GEDA shall not transfer, alienate or in any way dispose of any shares of the Company unless such share shall first have been offered for sale to the Stockholders.... This right of first refusal is not an individual right to a shareholder to reacquire the shares transferred by that individual stockholder by this agreement or any other shares. The right of first refusal is a collective right and all shares offered for sale by GEDA must be acquired under the same terms and conditions as set forth in the preceding paragraph."

Section 7 (entitled "Miscellaneous") of the Agreement states in subsection (a) that:

> "This agreement contains the entire agreement between the parties and can only be changed by agreement in writing signed [)y the party against whom enforcement of any change, waiver, modification or discharge is sought."

This Court agrees with the trial court that the term "collective right," even when read in conjunction with Section 7(a) of the Agreement, is ambiguous, and we agree with the trial court's interpretation thereof. As pointed out by the district court, the May 21st agreements were entered into at a time when MCS was in dire financial straits. GEDA, in assuming control over the corporation, obviously needed as much flexibility and freedom to operate as possible. To hold that the May 21st agreements could be modified only by unanimous consent of the 16 former MCS shareholders (some of whom owned but a de minimis fraction of the outstanding shares) would amount to an unreasonable interpretation of the term "collective right" in light of the risk such an interpretation would impose upon the future success and viability of the corporation. Moreover, the "non-unanimity" view was expressed both orally and in writing by Charles Troutman, legal counsel to GEDA, and no objection to such a view was voiced by any of the former MCS shareholders.

[4] Further support of the trial court's interpretation can be found in §1431 of the Guam Civil Code, which section provides in pertinent part that:

> "An obligation imposed upon several persons, or a right created in favor of several persons, is presumed to be joint and not several.... This presumption in the case of a right, can be overcome only by express words to the contrary."

In interpreting the words "joint right," §130(b) of the Restatement, Contracts, provides that:

> ".... [A] discharge by a joint obligee of his individual right operates as a discharge of the joint right of all....
>
> "Illustration:
>
> " 1. A, B and C have a joint right to the delivery of a horse by D. A discharged D from any duty to himself in consideration of $50 paid by D to A. This discharges D's duty to B and C as well as to A. It would be otherwise if with D's knowledge, A was acting with intent to defraud B and C."

See also Forbes v. First Camden National Bank, 25 N.J.Super. 17, 95 A.2d 416, 418419 ("[I]t is the general rule that each of several joint obligees has power to discharge the entire claim by release, or accord and satisfaction, or the acceptance of payment of other performance. Thus, in Ely v. Ely, 70 N.J.L. 31, 56 A. 246 (Sup.Ct. §1903), one joint creditor, acting without the knowledge or consent of his co-obligee, accepted from the debtor a horse and a small sum of money in satisfaction of the debt; and the court held that the obligation to both creditors was discharged. To a like effect are Restatement, Contracts, §130; Williston, Contracts, 344; and Annotation in 142 A.L.R. 371. Professor Williston, at 317, finds an implied agency whereby each obligee is empowered to act for all in relation to the debt.").

[5] The language of the May 21st agreements does not succeed in overcoming the presumption created by §1431 of the Guam Civil Code that the right of first refusal possessed by the former MCS shareholders was joint, and not several. By releasing GEDA of its promise to afford the former MCS shareholders first refusal in consideration for the right to later purchase MCS stock, the signatories to the July 20th Agreement thereby discharged GEDA of its obligation to the other former MCS shareholders (i. e., Cruz and the Halseys) as well.

Appellants further contend that even if the July 20th Agreement is deemed to be binding upon all parties concerned, Holmes and/or GEDA acted fraudulently, in bad faith, and/or breached their fiduciary duties, and a constructive trust over the 21,000 shares owned by Holmes should therefore be imposed in favor of them.[3] The trial court held that "Plaintiffs have not pled nor have they presented any evidence to show the existence of fraud, accident, mistake, undue influence, the violation of a trust,

3. Section 2224 of the Guam Civil Code provides that:

> "One who gains a thing by fraud, accident, mistake, undue influence, the violation of a trust, or other wrongful act is, unless he has some other and better right thereto, an involuntary trustee of the thing gained, for the benefit of the person who would otherwise have had it."

or other wrongful act." (C.T. 701.)

[6] The complaint in this case was filed on February 28, 1972. Trial was ordered set for October 28, 1975. On October 20, 1975, GEDA and Holmes filed a Trial Memorandum in which they stated, inter alia, that since fraud had been neither specifically pleaded in the complaint as required by Rule 9(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure nor included in the pretrial order as an issue for trial, the plaintiffs should be precluded from trying the issue of fraud. In a memorandum filed October 22, 1975, the plaintiffs conceded that with respect to the issue of fraud, they had failed to satisfy the specificity requirements of Rule 9(b) and include it in the pretrial order. The plaintiffs therefore moved to amend the pretrial order so as to include the issue of fraud. This motion was denied by the trial court, apparently on the ground that it was "untimely and prejudicial to the defendants and was not supported by the evidence." (C.T. 687.) Although Appellants claim in their Opening Brief that "There was no 'undue prejudice' to defendant because the discovery proceedings had made amply clear to defendants the intention of plaintiffs to introduce such evidence," they are unable to point to anything in the record to support this contention. Given the complete failure of Appellants to substantiate their claim of lack of undue prejudice, the failure to specifically identity fraud in any of the pleadings, the three year delay in moving to amend the pretrial order (which order was filed on October 18, 1972), and the raising of the issue of fraud on the eve of trial, we cannot say that the trial court abused its discretion in denying the plaintiffs' motion.

Appellants also contend that the trial court erred in denying their post-trial motion to amend the pre-trial order to conform to proof. F.R.Civ.P. 15(b). While it is true that the trial court did state that the plaintiffs had failed to plead the existence of fraud, it also found that the plaintiffs failed to present any evidence to show the existence of fraud. Under these circumstances, then, the question of whether the trial court erred in denying the motion to conform to the evidence collapses into the issue of whether the trial court erred in concluding that the plaintiffs had failed to prove the elements of a constructive trust (discussed infra).

[7] Finally, Appellants argue that fraud was simply a "defense to Appellees' defense" and therefore did not fall within the specificity requirements of Rule 9(b). Whether a "defense to a defense" falls within Rule 9(b) is a question we need not answer at this time, for it is clear that the thrust of the plaintiffs' complaint was to seek a constructive trust over the shares owned by Holmes. As provided by §2224 of the Guam Civil Code, fraud, mistake, undue influence, etc., must be established in order to obtain a constructive trust. If the plaintiffs intended to rely upon fraud as a basis for obtaining a constructive trust, it was an element which had to be affirmatively pleaded and proved and therefore fell within the prescriptions of Rule 9(b).

[8] Appellants claim that they are entitled to a constructive trust on the ground that they were induced into entering into the July 20th Agreement by the fraudulent representation of Holmes that he would obtain a firm loan commitment from FNCB prior to purchasing any MCS stock from GEDA. In fact, no such loan commitment was ever obtained from FNCB, or any other lending institution.

As those portions of the transcript of the July 20th meeting between the former MCS shareholders and GEDA

Board members quoted in the margin clearly indicate, however, D. Ulloa specifically agreed to withdraw the shareholders' request for a firm loan commitment.[4] That the sale of MCS stock to Holmes was not made contingent upon the securing of a loan commitment is made even clearer by the following statement made by D. Ulloa at the July 20th meeting:

> "Mr. Ulloa: I think with the understanding that-it's solely between GEDA and Mr. Holmes-if the bank does not come up with these funds, or whatever the source that Mr. Holmes has as far as his resources to raise money, I think we could leave it up to you people-I think GEDA, 4 "Mr. Ulloa: In other words, you're saying that the agreement between you and GEDA would be contingent upon securing this thing from the bank?

---

"Mr. Holmes; Absolutely. You bet. That's why I don't want to have them sign the thing too. By gosh, to get the bank to sign a contract-it's a lot different, you can sign a note to the bank and they're very happy to okay it, but to get a bank to sign a contract, I don't know what that involves with this bank here. I know what it involves in the States. They've got to get the loan board together, or somebody else (comment here by M,. Ulloa but cannot be understood) and it's a real paid (sic). I just think it's an unnecessary complication.

"Mr. Cepeda: Mr. Holmes, I don't think M,. Ulloa's referring to having the bank in the contract itself, signing it.

"Mr. Ulloa: No.

"Mr. Cepeda: Just a condition in there that the $50,000.00 as proposed in your letter be raised by either First City Bank or any other lending institution, or for that matter, probably any individual as a loan to MCS.

"Mr. Ulloa: Yeah, you know we don't care what the source is." R.T. 253-254.

> we're going to let GEDA be the guardian of our interest, then and see that they weight the factor and in the event that there's nonceivable there's no commitment anyplace, I think it's entirely up to GEDA to consummate the deal or not."

The above statement of D. Ulloa clearly indicates that the former MCS shareholders were forsaking any further interest in the question of whether Holmes would be able to obtain additional funds and from what source, and that it was entirely up to GEDA and Holmes as to whether any MCS shares would be sold to Holmes.

That Holmes was not being required to obtain any loan commitment prior to his purchase of MCS stock is further substantiated by those portions of the transcript of the August 3rd GEDA Board meeting quoted in the margin.[5]

---

5. "Mr. Holmes: Does it have to be FNCB?

"Mr. Wharton: I was going to say that we could make that FNCB or some other financial institution, or some other lender.

"Mr. Guerrero: Or some other lending institution.

"Mr. Wharton: Or some other lender, it doesn't have to be an institution.

"Mr. Perry: Some other source.

"Mr. Guerrero; Some other lender acceptable to GEDA, you know, could be an individual, could be anybody.

"Mr. Holmes: Well, let's say if worse comes to worse and FNCB turns it down. If FNCB tums it down in New York, then we don't have a deal, it's back in your hands.

"Mr. Guerrero: Well, you would have a deal at that point, see, but then you would have to look for the money someplace else.

"Mr. Guerrero: Is there any source where you could get this money if you don't get it from the FNCB?

"Mr. Holmes. Yeah.

Moreover, the August4th Agreement embodying the sale of the MCS stock to Holmes is absolutely devoid of any reference to the procurement of any loan commitment either as a condition precedent or subsequent to the sale. As previously indicated, this Agreement was witnessed and signed by D. Ulloa without objection.

Even assuming, arguendo, that fraud should have been properly included by the trial court as an issue for trial, the above evidence demonstrates that the trial court did not commit clear error in holding that the plaintiffs failed to fulfill the requirements of a constructive trust. In light of

---

"Mr. Guerrero: If we make the agreement flexible as to that-

"Mr. Holmes: I'd rather make it-I don't want to say 'lending institution' in other words

"Mr. Halliday: Any source.

"Mr. Guerrero: AnY source. Any source, as long as themoney comes in.

"Mr. Holmes: Any other source.

"Several: Any other source.

"Mr. Holmes: All right. Twenty thousand from Holmes.

"Mr. Guerrero: Is that agreeable?

"Several: Yes." R.T. M9-456.

Appellants contend that while David Ulloa did in fact attend the August 3rd meeting, none of Appellees' witnesses at the trial testified that Ulloa was present throughout the entire meeting, But neither do Appellants point to any testimony which indicates that Ulloa was not present throughout the meeting. Both the transcript and minutes of the August 3rd meeting clearly indicate that Ulloa was present. Furthermore, while the minutes of the August 3rd meeting specifically note the fact that at one point in the meeting, Holmes left the meeting, no such similar notation exists With respect to Ulloa. Finally. even it Ulloa was not present throughout the entire meeting, he witnessed and signed the August 4th Agreement without objection. That agreement contained no promise or representation by Holmes that he would procure a inn loan commitment from FNCB or any other lending institution.

this Court's holding, we need not reach the remaining issues raised by Appellants.

The judgment of the district court is hereby AFFIRMED.

Supreme Court, U.S.
FILED
MAY 7 1993
OFFICE OF THE CLERK

No. 92-1364

IN THE
SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
OCTOBER TERM, 1992

DAVID CASSIDY and RAY HASSLER, Petitioners,

v.

WESTERN SYSTEMS, INC. and LEE M. HOLMES,
Respondents.

Petition for a Writ of Certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals
for the Ninth Circuit

REPLY BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI

ROBERT J. TORRES
Counsel of Record

Robert J. Torres
A Professional Corporation
Suite 101, 410 West O'Brien Drive
Agana, Guam 96910
Telephone: (671) 477-0000

Counsel for Petitioners
David Cassidy and Ray Hassler

REPLY BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI

Pursuant to Rule 15.6 of the United States Supreme Court Rules, Petitioners make the following points in reply to Respondents' Brief in Opposition:

A. The arguments made by Respondents further demonstrate the need for this Court's clarification and guidance as to the issues raised by this appeal.

Despite the Respondents' claim that there is harmony between this Court's decision in Chick Kam Choo v. Exxon, 487 U.S. 140 (1988), and the interpretation of Chick Kam Choo by the Circuit Courts, there can be no doubt that a conflict exists between the opinion of the Ninth Circuit and the opinion of other Circuits. The Ninth Circuit expressly acknowledged this conflict, stating in its opinion that:

> In the wake of Choo, five circuits have concluded that the relitigation exception is now limited to issues actually litigated by the federal court.
>
> * * *
>
> We disagree with those Circuits which have concluded that the relitigation exception is limited to issues "actually litigated" in a prior court proceeding.

958 F.2d at 870 (emphasis added).

Moreover, Respondents concede, at a minimum, that there is a conflict between the opinions of the Ninth and the Fifth Circuits with respect to the proper interpretation of Chick Kam Choo. In their Brief in Opposition To Petition for a Writ of Certiorari ("Brief"), Respondents recognize that the Ninth Circuit's opinion conflicts with the Fifth Circuit's decision in Farias v. Bexar County Bd. of Trustees, 925 F.2d 866 (5th Cir. 1991). Brief at 20. Thus, Respondents' own brief contravenes its argument that "Other Circuit Decisions Cited by the Petitions Do Not Conflict With the Ninth Circuit's Opinion." Brief at 20.

Respondents' summary of the cases cited by the Petitioners obscures the differences between these cases and the Ninth Circuit's opinion. Respondents' description of Staffer v. Bouchard Transp. Co., Inc., 878 F.2d 638 (2nd Cir. 1989) is particularly misleading. Although the facts of the case are accurately represented, Respondents fail to describe the Second Circuit's narrow interpretation of Chick Kam Choo:

> The language and facts of Chick Kam Choo make clear that the part of the relitigation exception to the Anti-Injunction Act that is based on concerns of res judicata is more narrowly tailored than the doctrine of res judicata. The relitigation exception does not protect the full res judicata effect of a federal court's judgment; rather, it protects only matters that actually have been decided by a federal court. [cites omitted.] Undoubtedly, res judicata can bar claims that might and should have been raised but were not [cite omitted], but, for Anti-Injunction Act purposes, only "relitigation" can be enjoined.

878 F.2d at 643 (emphasis added). This interpretation is in clear and incontroverted conflict with the Ninth Circuit's broader reading of Chick Kam Choo. The Ninth Circuit, dismissing the Second Circuit's position, found it "unduly restrictive." 958 F.2d at 870.

The conflicts between the Circuits, and the issues of law which were not settled by Chick Kam Choo, make this an appropriate case for certiorari review. As Rule 10.1 of this Court advises,

> A review on writ of certiorari is not a matter of right, but of judicial discretion. A petition for writ of certiorari will be granted only where there are special and important reasons therefor. The following, while neither controlling nor fully measuring the Court's discretion, indicate the character of reasons that will be considered:
>
> (a) When a United States court of appeals has rendered a decision in conflict with the decision of another United States court of appeals on the same matter....
>
> * * *

> (c) When a state court or a United States court of appeals has decided an important question of federal law which has not been, but should be, settled by this Court....

United States Supreme Court Rules, Rule 10 (1993).

The issue presented in this case is an important one, relating to the fundamental interests of comity, equity and federalism. Additionally, as shown in this petition, and as conceded by the Respondents in their Brief, a conflict exists among the Circuits regarding the proper resolution of this issue. Consequently, this case clearly is of a type which is described in Rule 10 as appropriate for certiorari review.

B. The "egregious circumstances" alleged by the Respondents do not affect the appropriateness of certiorari review.

In their Brief, Respondents allege that the Petitioners have "unclean hands," have demonstrated "bad faith," and have shown a "petulant refusal to accept the judgments of the federal courts." Brief at 11. Petitioners strongly deny these allegations, and submit that these are issues which are inappropriately raised unless and until the merits of this appeal are briefed. At this time, each party, naturally, has a different view of the issues presented in this Petition.

Moreover, even if Respondents' allegations are assumed to be true, certiorari review is appropriate for this case. The "facts," as alleged by the Respondents, do not diminish the conflict between the decisions of the Circuits or lessen the need for clarification of this important issue.

C. The scope of Chambers v. Nasco, Inc. is not as broad as Respondents imply.

Petitioners raised the issue of whether the federal courts have the power to sanction parties who bring suit in state or territorial courts. Petition at 35. In response, Respondents cite Chambers v. Nasco, Inc., 111 S.Ct. 2123 (1991) for the proposition that the federal courts do have such power. However, Chambers does not directly support that proposition.

In Chambers, this Court addressed the appropriateness of sanctions imposed by the District Court against a party for misconduct before the Federal Communications Commission, the Court of Appeals, and this Court. This Court upheld the sanctions, stating that "[a]s long as a party receives an appropriate hearing, ...the party may be sanctioned for abuses of process occurring beyond the courtroom...." 111 S.Ct. at 2139.

However, although the abuses referred to in Chambers occurred outside the District Court courtroom, the abuses still occurred within the federal court system and at a federal agency. Chambers did not involve, and this Court did not address in that case, the crucial issues of federalism involved in determining whether a federal court has the authority to sanction parties who are before a state or territorial court. Consequently, Chambers does not obviate the need for this Court to consider the power of a federal court to sanction parties who bring suit in a state or territorial court.

Respectfully Submitted,

ROBERT J. TORRES
Counsel of Record

Robert J. Torres
A Professional Corporation
Suite 101, 410 West O'Brien Drive
Agana, Guam 96910
Telephone: (671) 477-0000

Counsel for Petitioners
David Cassidy and Ray Hassler